Opposition To Tough No-Smoking Bills Is Light

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Strict no-smoking legislation awaiting Senate action early next year is getting only small puffs of opposition. An aide to Sen. John Otterbacher, who has three no-smoking bills in his Health, Social Services and Retirement Committee, said more than 400 letters of support for the bills have poured in.

The only opposition has come from representatives of the Michigan Tobacco-Candy Distributors and Vendors Association, who let it be known informally they'd oppose the bills, according to aide Ken Sikkema. An association spokesman said the bills may be "the first step in total prohibition of smoking," and said such prospects threaten the tobacco vendors and wholesale distributors the association represents. "Plus, smokers are a completely unorganized entity, so we feel we have to step in and fill the gap."

The three bills, which easily passed the House in June, would require restaurants to provide no-smoking sections, would force hospitals to segregate smoking patients in separate rooms and would ban smoking in grocery stores. Leaders of antismoking groups in the state claim the legislation is supported by restaurant and store owners whose fire insurance premiums will decline. They say the owners have been reluctant to ban or limit smoking on their own for fear of losing customers, but will feel more comfortable with the law on their side.

Sikkema said representatives of the Bill Knapp's restaurant chain were concerned only that the bill requiring no-smoking sections for diners be "workable and enforceable." They feel they'd be in a bad position if their people had to tell customers, "You can't smoke here, then have them get up and leave," Sikkema said. But William Sederburg, a House staff member who led a push for adoption of the bills, says they are enforceable — more so than other legislation that would ban smoking in any public place.

"We don't want to make the same mistake we made on the elevator bill," says Sederburg. That bill, passed several years ago, bans smoking in all elevators in the state but is enforced barely, if at all.

The three bills in Otterbacher's committee would be enforced through the licensing process for hospitals, restaurants and food stores, Sederburg said. Lack of compliance with the bills or lack of enforcement of smoking bans would cause firms a loss of license, he said. Many of the letters to Otterbacher have come from GASP, Group Against Smoking Pollution, which has some 2,000 members in Michigan and nearby states, according to Paul Porter, GASP member and American Lung Association official in Flint.

Porter was behind a new Flint ordinance banning smoking in most public places, the only such ordinance in the state. He says residents appear to be complying, and no arrests have yet been made under the law, which would punish public smokers with 90 days in jail or a $300 fine.

St. Joe Man Wins $200,000!

By STEVE SAGER

Luck from an eight-leaf clover and the good blessings from the "gambling god" combined to help Terrence W. King, 38, St. Joseph, as he won the $200,000 first prize in the state Super Play lottery drawing last night at Southfield.

According to the Associated Press, King, who brought an eight-leaf clover to the drawing for good luck, said he would use the money to pay off bills and fix up the family home at 1525 Niles avenue, St. Joseph. However, Gene Hoffman, 45, co-owner Mini Mart, with his wife of the 106 Court street, St.

Joseph, where King works three days a week part-time, said the eight-leaf clover can't take all the credit for King winning the $200,000.

Hoffman, contacted by this newspaper this morning, said, "I assured him (King) he had nothing to worry about because the 'gambling god' was on his side."

King also works full-time as a core room foreman at Auto Specialties Manufacturing Co., Riverside plant. He bought his winning ticket at the Mini Mart.

Hoffman said he watched the drawing last night on TV channel 41, Battle Creek, and said King's reaction after winning the $200,000 was "normal — he was dumbfounded."

Hoffman said he talked to King after the drawing last night.

"He's the average working man. I'm glad to see he got it," Hoffman said. Hoffman called King a "good father, good husband and good worker — just a very nice guy."

King has worked at the Mini Mart for the past three years. Hoffman said the telephone "was ringing off the hook" last night with callers trying to confirm King's winnings.

Hoffman said the $200,000 will now make it possible for King to quit his job at the Mini-Mart, but he (Hoffman) hoped King would stay on. "He's a hard worker. A very good man," Hoffman said.

Four other Berrien county residents have won $200,000 since the lottery began in 1972 — Mrs. Julia M. Osborn, Ben Hendershott, and the late Fred Marshall, all of Niles and Arthur Hettig, of 1060 Wedgewood road, St. Joseph township.

Winner of the second place $25,000 prize yesterday was Pearl M. Vandervest, 52, of Warren; $15,000 winner was Theresa R. St. Cyr, 43, Bay City; $12,000 winner was Frank J. Zarembo, 58, Detroit and the $10,000 winner was William J. Anteau, 46, of Monroe.

Three-Year Affair With JFK Revealed By Frisco Socialite

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Joan Lundberg Hitchcock says she had an affair with John F. Kennedy over a three-year period, but broke off the relationship before he became president because "there didn't seem to be much future in it."

Mrs. Hitchcock, 42, said her liaisons with Kennedy occurred infrequently "whenever he was in the area."

She added that she had no illusions about being the only "other woman" in Kennedy's life. "He was a very busy fellow," she said.

In interviews with the San Francisco Examiner and The Associated Press, she described Kennedy as "a wonderful guy and lot of fun." Mrs. Hitchcock, who worked in Sen. Barry Goldwater's 1964 Republican presidential campaign and recently ran unsuccessfully for a seat on the Board of Supervisors here, said they always talked politics.

Mrs. Hitchcock, married four times, said her four children know about the affair and "think it's fine — to the kids he's just another one of my lovers — only he's got some prestige in the family."

"They were great shiny days," she said. "He was a man's man and a ladies' man and I don't think any of the publicity will damage his memory. My attitude about our relationship was that if it wasn't me it would be somebody else."

Another woman, Judith Campbell Exner, said at a recent news conference in that said she led a "close personal" relationship with Kennedy while he was in the White House.

Mrs. Hitchcock said she met Kennedy at a "saloon" in Santa Monica when he was a senator. "He was sitting next to the juke box and I came over to play a song and we started talking," she said.

She said their relationship lasted three years. "Everyone knows that if you go with a gentleman that long you're not just shaking hands," she added.

Mrs. Hitchcock said Kennedy was "no different than anybody else when they have a love affair going." She said he gave her presents, some of which she said she still has, but was "not a big spender."

She said Kennedy spoke often of his wife, Jackie, and always in a way that indicated "he respected her very much." She said Kennedy often asked her if she thought Jackie had lovers. Mrs. Hitchcock said she always responded, "No chance."

She said Mrs. Kennedy "knew a lot more than people thought she did and she went along because she was a great lady."

Kennedy, said Mrs. Hitchcock, "was very interested in how a person looked and went for very definite types. Usually, the women looked like the Kennedys. He liked to think he could determine a woman's intelligence by looking at her eyebrow structure and the way her eyes were spaced. He was very positive about the kind of women he liked."

For a while, Mrs. Hitchcock said, she was accepted as part of the family by actor Peter Lawford and his wife, Pavea, who was Kennedy's sister. But when the relationship became obvious "I was no longer allowed in the house."

Mrs. Hitchcock appeared hurt by the remarks of Kennedy intimates Kenneth P. O'Donnell and David Powers, who called lies stories about Kennedy's sex life.

"I knew Dave and Kenny," she said, claiming that when she bought their book, "Johnny, We Hardly Knew Ye," they autographed it, "To Joan — who remembers the golden days of JFK."

NO FUTURE: Joan Lundberg Hitchcock, 42, San Francisco socialite, says she stopped seeing then-Sen. John F. Kennedy "because there didn't seem to be much of a future in it." MSU Psychologists Agree Women's Lib 'Depressing'

By NANCY KONESKO

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Is the women's liberation movement having a bad effect on this country's mental health?

Two psychologists at Michigan State University agree that the new self-images and lifestyles of liberated women may contribute to mental disorders, especially long-term depression.

They are Drs. Martha Karson and Albert Rabin. They disagree, however, on what aspects of liberation lead to mental problems and to what degree.

Dr. Karson says that twice as many women as men suffer from depression. Her figures are backed up by reports from other mental health researchers who say that married women are the worst off, followed by unmarried men.

In the best mental health are married men and unmarried women.

At MSU's psychological clinic, male patients, particularly younger ones, outnumber females. However, Dr. Rabin said, national figures show that males and females are about equally represented in this country's mental institutions.

He points out that social pressure on young boys to win, achieve, conquer and never cry, can be damaging to mental health. When boys fail to meet expectations of peers and parents, they feel tremendous guilt.

"Because of this guilt," Dr. Rabin said, "child psychologists see many more male than female patients."

He says that increased female consciousness is a source of conflict leading to strong feelings of guilt. It is guilt, he says, produced by the career woman's real or imagined neglect of her family that leads to her mental problems.

Dr. Karson takes a different view.

"Women," she said, "are often frustrated by social codes, standards and expectations which deny them access to certain opportunities and roles.

Frustrations, depending on their severity and on the characteristics of the particular individual, can lead to depression — often serious and long-lasting."

Dr. Victor W. Kershul, Saginaw psychiatrist, said the women he treats for depression often are home-bound, lonely and without close friends with whom to discuss their problems.

"Men often don't realize it," said Kershul, "but they're getting a form of mental therapy on their jobs every day. They can talk things over with other men at the shop or office where they work.

"So what happens? A man gets home at night, and he's talked out. He wants to sit and read or watch television. But his wife, who has been alone all day, has been waiting for him to come home and talk to her. She

Niles Maples Make History

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The deadline is Jan. 15 for ordering sugar maple saplings grown from seeds from a 104-year-old stand in Berrien County, a natural resources official said Friday. About 1,000 "liberty trees" will be distributed to community groups as a commemorative project in 1976, said James A. Bryant, Bicentennial coordinator for the Department of Natural Resources. There is no cost for the seedlings, although a $1.50 shipping cost per tree may be set because of the current state fiscal situation, Bryant said. Seeds were plucked from the maples near Niles in September by state officials, including Lt. Gov. James Danaham. The saplings were raised this winter under a special process at Michigan State University and should be 18 inches tall by planting time, Bryant said. Seedlings will be planted on the lawns of the Capitol, the state Secondary Complex in Eaton County and at several state parks.

Shooting Suspect Says Burglars 'Doped' Him

A man charged with wounding a Berrien sheriff's deputy Dec. 13 in Benton Harbor, testified in examination Wednesday that he had been rendered unconscious and his pickup truck stolen by three men shortly before the officer was shot.

Dock Smith, 66, of 467 North Winans, Benton Harbor, told Berrien Fifth District court that one of the three burglars who entered his home sprayed some "powerful stuff" at him from a tube, rendering him unconscious about 9:50 p.m.

Smith, according to Presiding Judge John T. Hammond, added that when he woke up shortly after 10 p.m. his keys and pickup truck were missing, along with $40 from his wallet and his driver's license.

Deputy Ross Brumbaugh, in turn, testified it was sometime between 10:45 and 11 that same night he was shot in the head and shoulder by a man whose truck Brumbaugh had stopped on Forest avenue in Benton Harbor.

Brumbaugh identified Smith as the driver of that truck, according to Judge Hammond, and said he was holding the driver's license of the man when the man fired two shots into him from the rear seat of Brumbaugh's patrol car. The license was issued to Dock Smith.

Deputy Brumbaugh was the only witness against Smith at the preliminary examination.

Smith was bound over to circuit court on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder. He was unable to furnish $100,000 bail.

To substantiate Smith's story that his truck, keys and driver's license were out of his possession at the time the deputy stopped the truck, two of Smith's children, Early Smith and Sherlene Gorman, testified in court.

Sherlene Gorman testified she received a call from her father about 10:45 that evening that his truck had been stolen. She immediately called police and reported the theft of her father's truck, she told the court. Early Smith testified his father called him, around 10 p.m. he thought, and that he in turn reported the theft of the truck to police. A policeman came to his home in response and then went to the father's home.

Smith testified that three men broke into his house at about 9:50 p.m. Dec. 13. One of the burglars was "of settled age," Hammond said Smith testified, in his 50's or 60's. The elderly man had a hair net over his head, and he sprayed some "powerful stuff" from a tube at Smith. Smith was rendered unconscious, Hammond repeated.

Shortly after 10 p.m., Smith said he woke up. His keys and pickup truck were missing, along with $40 cash from his wallet and his driver's license. Smith testified that after several phone calls to Benton Harbor Police department — the line was always busy, he said — he called two of his grown children.

Berrien Smashups Hurt Benton Officer, 3 Others

A Benton township patrolman, driving a police car on duty, was one of four people injured in four traffic accidents Wednesday and Christmas, Twin Cities area police reported.

Patrolman Thomas Street, 27, was treated for a cut lip and released from Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, about 6:10 a.m. Christmas Day. He told Berrien sheriff's deputies, who investigated the accident, his car hit an icy patch on Fair avenue near High street and the squad car went out of control hitting a tree. He was alone in the car, deputies indicated. No ticket was issued.

In another accident investigated by deputies, a Bridgman man was treated for a sprained knee and released from St. Joseph Memorial hospital after a car driven by his sister struck a tree as they turned into their driveway.

The injured man was identified as Mark Dale Mathieu, 20, and the driver as Elizabeth Lynn Mathieu, 19, both of 9647 Maplewood avenue, Bridgman. She was unhurt, deputies indicated, and no tickets were issued in the 1 a.m. accident Christmas.

A 16-year-old Benton Harbor girl was injured when she was struck by a car on Empire avenue west of Broadway street Wednesday about 7:30 p.m., city police reported.

Treated for cuts and bruises and released from Mercy hospital was Bridget Gilmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gilmore, 975 Buss avenue. Police said the driver of the car was Nathaniel Green, 20, of 435 East Empire avenue, Benton Harbor. No tickets were issued.

Benton township police said a passenger in a car involved in a two-car collision Wednesday was injured. The accident occurred on M-139 south of Napier avenue about 6:45 p.m.

Virginia Greene, 65, of 758 Dixie drive, Benton township, was treated for apparently minor injuries and released from Mercy hospital. Driver of the car was identified as her husband, Norton Green, 74. Driver of the other car was Elizabeth C. Sinner, 21, route 2, Box 226, Three Oaks. Police said Greene was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way and Mrs. Sinner was cited for having no operator's license on her person.

Alvin Knaak; 6 Gladys Habel. Second row — 1 Kathryn Shanahan; 3 Tuzy Allen; 4 Olive Kesterke; 6 Clara Grunert; 8 Carrie Hinz; 10 Roland Shultz. Kindergarten Class Photo Recalls School Days In '98

After 77 years, Mrs. Clara Grunert Huse can identify almost half of her kindergarten classmates which is a good memory feat considering there were 38 in the class.

William Knaak, St. Joseph insurance man, found a picture of the 1898 kindergarten class of Lincoln school, St. Joseph. His father, the late Alvin Knaak, was a member of the class.

Seated in back of his father was Mrs. Huse and Knaak asked her if she could identify any of the people in the picture. Mrs. Huse lives at 912 Wolcott avenue, St. Joseph.

Knaak was trying to determine how many of the 1898 kindergartners graduated with his father from St. Joseph high school in 1910.

The kindergarten was housed in a building now known as the Lincoln apartments, 917 Pearl street, St. Joseph. The high school was at the site of present Washington school.

The St. Joseph high school senior class of 1910 had four students who had been together from kindergarten through high school, according to Mrs. Huse. They were Mrs. Huse, Knaak, Bernard Hone and Harold Cartter.

The class of 1910 was the first to have a yearbook published in its honor. The book was published by the Crescent society of Joseph high school. The society early day form of student government.

Mrs. Huse, 84, was a missionary for the Presbyterian church in Canada for 30 years. Her field of operation ranged from Newfoundland to the prairie provinces and extended from 1920 to her retirement in 1950.

She married Herman H. Huse and they lived for a time on a farm in North Dakota. Mr. Huse died last May.

Mrs. Huse has kept in touch with surviving members of her high school class. She said four others are still living — Mrs. Dorothy Baker Warriner of Coloma, Bernard Hone, Mrs. Sylvia Hosbein Phizney and Adeline Simon.

Stevensville Jewelry Store Burglarized

Berrien sheriff's deputies said jewelry valued at about $2,000 was stolen from a Stevensville jewelry store after thieves broke four windows and reached in taking the display jewelry.

Deputy Terry Smith said the theft was discovered about 8:15 a.m. Wednesday at Nilson's Jewelry store, 2660 West John Beers road.

Among the items reported stolen were two or three sapphire rings with diamond settings, seven or eight turquoise rings, three dozen birthstone rings, several turquoise necklaces and miscellaneous pieces of Indian jewelry, six men's and women's watches and several cigarette lighters.

Smith said it is believed that there may be a connection between the theft and another broken window at Maynard Communications enterprises, 1134 West John Beers, less than a mile away. A large rock broke a side window there, but no entry was gained, and nothing was taken.

Ford Combines Work, Fun

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Facing paperwork flown here from Washington, President Ford is moving into the homestretch of his skiing vacation with 28 bills still awaiting his approval or rejection. Although an Air Force courier flight brought analyses of the legislation and other materials to Colorado Friday, Ford hoped to continue spending at least as much time skiing today as working. Making a run down 11,000-foot Vail Mountain Friday for the benefit of television, newspaper and magazine photographers, the President suffered the embarrassment of a spill within camera range. But Ford was quickly back up on his skis without assistance and was unshaken.

May Try New Hampshire Snow

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President Ford may go skiing in New Hampshire as part of a campaign trip for the Republican presidential primary there. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said. Nessen said Ford had chatted about the trip with aides Christmas night. The press secretary said the skiing would not be to seek votes — "It would be for enjoyment." Whatever the announced purpose, it certainly would be a campaign event. It also might undo any lingering hard feelings about Nessen's joking comment this fall that Ford doesn't take his ski vacations in New Hampshire because the trails there often are icy.

Soviets Eying Germ Warfare?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union is stepping up efforts to produce lethal germs in apparent violation of a United Nations agreement against biological warfare, columnist Jack Anderson reports. Citing "top intelligence sources," Anderson said a Washington-based Soviet diplomat specializing in medical matters has attempted to obtain "suspicious information" from at least three U.S. government scientists. The Anderson account said Dr. Vyacheslav F. Stepanov, medical counselor at the Soviet Embassy, learned of an American symposium on so-called genetic engineering and later "began courting some of the U.S. scientists who had attended."

Beirut Clashes Continue

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Rockets and mortar shells blasted Beirut today, but politicians were reported nearing agreement on a formula to settle Lebanon's civil war. Street clashes raged unabated in downtown business centers and the seaside hotel areas of Beirut. Shells whistled past hundreds of high-rise apartment buildings overnight. Police spokesmen said at least 36 persons were killed and 66 wounded in overnight fighting. Hospitals issued fresh appeals for blood donations as firemen battled a dozen blazes caused by explosions.

$1.05 Million Not Enough

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman who received $1.05 million and $2,400 monthly child support in a divorce settlement is suing her lawyers, saying they did not adequately represent her. Barbara Franzheim asked for $4.5 million from Levert J. Able and Tom F. Coleman Jr., who represented her in her 1973 divorce from Kenneth Franzheim II, a Houston oilman and former ambassador to New Zealand. She since has married Danny Dror, an investor. Her new attorneys, State Sen. A. R. "Babe" Schwartz and Herbert N. Lackshin, filed the suit Friday in state district court. The suit seeks $4 million in damages and $500,000 in attorney fees.

Against Department Moves

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Sen. Earl Nelson said Friday the state Senate would not pass bills allowing the Departments of Labor and Commerce to move to a secondary office complex outside Lansing. Nelson and three other lawmakers urged in a news conference that other state offices that do not have "day-to-day contact with the public" be transferred to the $10.5-million complex, which is about seven miles from the Capitol. "When the public wants to find state government offices, they ought to be able to without a map with a directory," said Rep. David Hollister of Lansing. Hollister said persons would need such a map if the labor and commerce departments were moved.

Five Planets To Be Visible

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Five planets will be visible in the early January sky, says Michigan State University astronomer Robert Victor. Four of the Milky Way's nine planets — Mercury, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn — can be seen simultaneously in the early evening. But Venus, the fifth planet, won't be visible until just before sunrise, Victor says. Jupiter, the brightest of the five, will be high in the southern sky at dusk while dull-orange Mars will be high in the east. Saturn will rise in the east-northeast at twilight and Mercury will be low in the southwest sky about 45 minutes after sunset, he said. Venus will rise in the southeast about two hours before sunrise, Victor said.

Pair Named On Panel

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Elsa Rosa de Grand Rapids and Jamie de La Isla of Detroit were named Friday to a 17-member panel which advises the state Board of Education on services for Michigan's Spanish-speaking students. Rosa, bilingual project coordinator for the Grand Rapids school district, and de La Isla, professor of Mexican and Puerto Rican studies at Wayne State University, were named to the La Raza Citizens' Advisory Committee. The committee helped the board plan its bilingual education program mandated by law to begin last September. The program is not expected to start until next September because of a lack of funding.

Pay Raise Plans Dropped

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken and a special legislative committee have dropped plans to recommend pay raises for unclassified state employees. Earlier, Milliken and the committee agreed to seek the raises for the current year for 19 department heads and nearly 100 persons not covered by the state's classified system. Those covered by the system receive periodic pay hikes. The unclassified employees have not received raises for four years.

To Be Tried On Weapons Charge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A woman who police say calls herself "Lucifer Satan" has been ordered by a court official to stand trial for allegedly carrying a dagger in her purse as Vice President Nelson Rockefeller passed nearby, on Dec. 9.

Municipal Court Commissioner Richard A. Margolin on Friday ordered Christine Nicholson, 43, to stand trial in Superior Court on a charge of possessing a concealed 3½-inch dagger.

Holland Suspects Elude Roadblocks

HOLLAND — Police roadblocks in western Michigan early this morning failed to net two suspects sought in connection with the 4:40 a.m. armed robbery of a Holland gas station.

State police at South Haven said the roadblocks were posted at 4:45 a.m. and were canceled at 5:50 a.m.

Holland police said the only description available of the bandits was that there were two males in a large car armed with a sawed-off shotgun.

An attendant at the Clark station on Michigan avenue was beaten unconscious with a shotgun before an undetermined amount of money was taken.

Hartford Fatal Fire Blamed On Kitchen Range

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

HARTFORD — Fire that claimed the life of Terry Vaughn, 21, of route 1, Red Arrow highway, early Friday, apparently started in the kitchen possibly from the kitchen range, Fire Chief Harold Walker said today.

Walker said one of the burners on the electric stove was in the "on" position. Walker added the stove has not been definitely established as the cause.

Vaughn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Vaughn, was pronounced dead at the scene of the fire by Dr. Otto Lorenz, of South Haven, Van Buren county deputy medical examiner.

Vaughn's body was discovered near a door leading to a porch of the two-story, wood structure. Walker said it appeared the victim had attempted to flee the blaze but was overcome.

Hartford firemen were called to the Vaughn residence at 6:30 a.m. Friday and found the building engulfed in flames. Firemen remained at the scene until 11:30 a.m.

Three units of the Hartford fire department and a tanker from the Lawrence fire department fought the blaze.

Terry Vaughn was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Vaughn. The parents were away at the time of the fire and returned Friday evening from a vacation trip in the south.

Mr. Vaughn had attended Hartford high school.

Surviving in addition to his parents are two sisters, Mrs. Denny (Susan) Shelton, Hartford and Michelle Vaughn, at home and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Powers, Donaphin, Mo.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in Calvin funeral home, Hartford, where friends may call after 7 this evening. Burial will be in Maple Hill cemetery, Hartford.

The National Safety Council estimates 440 to 500 persons will die during the four day weekend that began at 6 p.m. Wednesday. The holiday traffic period ends at midnight Sunday.

In 1973, the last four-day Christmas weekend, 520 persons were killed. Last year, a one-day holiday, 204 persons died.

Candle May Have Caused F&M Blaze

Deputy John Gast reported he talked with AAnderson Friday while he was investigating the Christmas day blaze. According to Gast's report, Anderson stated he believed the fire originated through "human error" and "probably" a Christmas candle left burning was the cause.

Flames extensively damaged the teller's counter area and caused smoke and heat damage throughout the bank.

Anderson, who is stationed at the state police post at Paw Paw, was not available for comment this morning.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Advertising By Professionals

The Federal Trade Commission has set February 9th as the initial hearing date on a proposal to permit the medical profession to advertise its services.

More specifically, the hearing centers on an FTC intention to prohibit professional organizations such as the American Medical Association and The American College of Surgeons from decertifying any or its members who might choose to advertise.

The AMA quickly announced its opposition to the idea and if the FTC should go ahead with what it somewhat obviously considers a sound proposition, it could require some years of appealing through the courts before the order took effect.

The Commission's action follows in line with a pretty clear hint from the Justice Department's Anti-Trust Division last year that the country's numerous bar association's edict against lawyers advertising could be on the same shaky ground as minimum fee schedules.

Only a few weeks ago the American Bar Association's directorate voted in favor of a restrained, ethical type of advertising by its members. Thus far, however, few state associations which are more controlling than the national group, have moved to adopt the guideline.

The Commission has in mind to extend its proposal to all professionals who are under some kind of advertising ban. Accountants, architects, engineers, dentists, are all falling in that category.

The dispute finds ideology paired off against consumerism.

Decades ago, reaching back before the turn of the century, doctors, lawyers and dentists were free to pursue their callings with the same competitive zest displayed by any merchandiser of goods and services in the nonprofessional market place.

Educational requirements tend to be minimal, testing for professional skill was a formality, and the practitioner was at liberty to promote his services as he saw fit.

This laissez faire atmosphere spawned widespread quackery and unquestionably the patient or client was in a fair way to being bilked rather than helped.

The medics, followed by the lawyers impressed upon the state legislatures the need to tighten up on this fraudulent condition. Advertising one's dexterity in medicine or law or dentistry and the charges for that genius went by the boards.

The FTC contends this upgrading in professional standards and conduct is deploying a lofty ideal for a baser end; that some of the standards are anti-trust measures to maintain fees beyond a competitive level.

The Commission seeks to bolster its position with the further argument that most people do not know whom to seek out for professional assistance; that advertising of greater potency than is permitted through listing in the Yellow Pages of the telephone directory is the best way to widen that acquaintance and perhaps reduce the cost of professional guidance.

Up to the present, the argument has been made by each side in the black and white tones just described.

Mathematics has always been described as the only exercise expressed in absolute terms, and not all mathematicians agree with that traditional representation. The abstract itself is subject to varying theories.

Professional service will not go to pot if its adherents are allowed to make themselves known better than is now the established pattern.

Neither, though, should the advertising take on the characteristics of what two or more stores customarily hurl at one another.

The ABA has a committee at work trying to develop some informational message types steering clear of a TV pitchman's wild claims and still giving the layman having a legal problem an insight of where to look for help.

It would seem this compromise should not be impossible for other professionals to develop.

Attitude Toward

Altered Since '88

Weather frequently is referred to as the favorite subject of conversation of rural yokels and city ditto, who are hard pressed to find something to talk about. But weather has become big news — front page news.

Let it rain, or snow, or blow, and there is the weather in detail right on the front page. It's all due to modern conveniences of life. A two-inch snowfall can inconvenience millions.

A reporter who leaped through files of a Kansas newspaper of 1888 found news of a blizzard. How did the newspaper cover it? On page two, like this:

"The grandest snowstorm that ever visited this section since its settlement, in fact the heaviest snowstorm that has probably fallen in Kansas in a third of a century, was that of the night before last and yesterday.

PRISON INMATE POSES CONFINING QUESTION

Editor,

While the community may welcome an ex-con back into his respective area with "Open Arms" and an Air of Enthusiasm," although plausible, this in itself many times is not enough. At present the allegedly rehabilitated convict is overwhelmingly through the behavior modification process conditioned out of responsibility, goal seeking, (eg: accept for his release) an extraordinarily enough ceases to think as an individual and yields to the titanic monotony of engulfing regimentation and eventual alienation of his individuality, markedly leading to an identity crisis of often irreparable consequence.

More frequently than not the ex-cons that do violate parole or commit new crimes generally have one common characteristic that diminishes their "short lived" stay within society. Among the most prevalent are job instability, personality inadequacies in the form of retarded initiative and incentive gains and resulting a total lack of community re-adjustment.

To appraise this superficially is not enough, let us take a default and concise look at the average ex-con. To get to the root of his/her social maladjustment, we must of necessity and reason look at the cause for the effect that being his most current and often historic background — prison. In most instances the convict has not had the benefit of a formal education and this major contributing factor coupled with an array of adolescent shortcomings is the primary cause of their anti-social behavior and inevitable incarceration.

Logically, we must assume the offender "needs help and guidance" towards positive rehabilitation. The majority of all men/women in Prison are here because they cannot help themselves in a constructive social manner and it is through the negative behavior that these difficulties ensue. It is at this juncture that rehabilitation is applied in earnest hope of transforming the offender into a constructive, prosperous citizen enabling him/her to reach an equilibrium with society. It has been my experience that the majority of offenders comprising today's criminal statistics are illiterate and the product of broken homes, thusly denied a formal upbringing and the essential benefit of a "positive" social reinforcement, pathetically following the path of least resistance crime.

Therefore it is apparent that rehabilitation must provide the requisite incentive, initiative and self-esteem which up until now have been totally void in the offender's make-up.

While the most innovative form of penal reform is that of behavior modification, based on punishment and reward, it should be pointed out that this method is totally self-defeating in practical use because of the environment and fundamental method in which it is applied. While the behavioral scientist may take exception with me on this point, let me further assert that a prison setting is not an ideal "controlled experiment," it drastically falls short of the classic therapeutic setting of a science workshop and is practically nonexistent in reaching it's desired goal. Again it is

Dolls for each of the little girls and toys for the boys gave them a merry day. A big Christmas dinner was enjoyed. At the Baptist home four Christmas trees glittered with their load of tinsel trimmings and gay packages — one in each play room, the sitting room and the dining room. Gifts came from California, fruit from Florida and packages arrived all the way from Canada for the

Nuclear Safety

Numbers Game

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission recently came forth with a careful, detailed study mathematically calculating the chances of major nuclear accidents and the deaths and damage likely to be caused.

The work was carried out by a scientist of considerable reputation, an honest, able, upright man.

The conclusions, nevertheless, are false and misleading. They are the result of a mathematical anomaly and are not privately taken at face value by senior scientists in the agency with whom this reporter has been in contact.

The study finds that the chance of any individual dying from an accident in a nuclear-powered utility plant in any one year is a minuscule one in five billion — assuming 100 nuclear plants — as contrasted with a one in 4,000 chance of dying in an automobile accident, a one in 10,000 chance of being killed in a fall, a one in 30,000 chance of drowning. The probability of 100 persons dying in a nuclear reactor accident — again assuming 100 operating nuclear utility plants — is calculated at one in 100,000 years, roughly the same probability as 100 persons being killed in a meteorite impact. In contrast with one chance in 16 years of 100 people dying in an explosion, or one in seven years of 100 dying in a fire.

This would seem to place nuclear accidents as one of the least of the worries we might face in the years ahead.

Though the mathematical procedures leading to this conclusion are precise, given the data, there is a catch. Because of the limited experience we have had thus far with nuclear power the probabilities which show up in the answer line may be so distorted as to be meaningless.

To oversimplify, it is as though one flipped a coin three times, then developed a theory on how many times heads would appear in 1,000 flips, based on those three trials, modified by logic and mathematical experience. If, by chance, heads appeared three times in a row, we could come up with some weird conclusion as to what would happen in 1,000 tries.

In blunt terms, we do not have sufficient evidence as yet to determine the probability of nuclear accidents or their probable seriousness.

Take a recent, highly publicized accident in which a workman, routinely lighting a candle to check on something set a serious fire at one nuclear plant. Since this occurred before the completion of the safety study, it was considered in the mathematics. But as one nuclear scientist in the regulatory agency said wonderingly, no one in a thousand years would have thought of a candle starting a fire in a nuclear plant. If it hadn't happened, it would most certainly not have been figured in.

The problems will show when there are not a hundred, but a thousand plants, operated routinely by men who have come to regard nuclear power, not as a new and untried source, but as a ho hum, ordinary power source of no particular danger.

This is not to say we should slacken our drive for nuclear power. Opponents, notwithstanding, the evidence points to a most serious need. And though, as noted, the mathematics of this study do not prove it as safe as government propagandists' claim, there is no evidence to date either to suggest seriously that nuclear power will be more dangerous than automobiles, swimming pools, airplanes or gas as a fuel, which we have come to accept in return for the benefits they offer.

Conservatives

Have Differences

In recent months, a lively and sometimes acrimonious argument has been going on within the conservative camp between my friends and columnist colleagues, Kevin Phillips and William Buckley. Since Phillips has been directing a good deal of fire at National Review, of which I am a senior editor, perhaps I ought to comment.

Kevin Phillips argues that "conservatism" cannot succeed without making itself acceptable to Middle America — a point I myself would not dispute. In a recent column, however, he attacked Buckley this way:

"In one of his recent books, the gentleman — editor of National Review summed up the orientation of his variety of conservatism: 'How can I hope to do better against positivism than Voegelin has done? Improve on Oakeshott's analysis of rationalism? (How does one illuminate a sun-burst?) Rediscover orthodoxy more engagingly than Chesterton did?' . . . Frankly, and despite having earned college honors in political science, I wouldn't know these guys from Lowenbrau, Liverwurst or Hasenpfeffer. So what can they have to say to Kansas City and Scranton?"

Now it seems to me that there is something slightly out of focus in all of that. Phillips is correct in asserting that conservatism must appeal to Middle America, but though National Review most assuredly is not rejecting subscribers, it was not intended to be a mass circulation magazine. After all, liberalism has had some successes, though the subscribers to the New Republic, like those to National Review, hover in the neighborhood of 100,000.

It is the assumption of National Review that out there in Middle America, yes, in Kansas City and Scranton, there reside individuals — and perhaps not all that many — who are addicted to good prose and to theoretical perception. Admittedly, most people at all times and in all places are immersed in the practical demands of living. But at this very moment there may be a Scott Fitzgerald, a Sherwood Anderson, a Charles Beard or a Vernon Parrington coming of age intellectually in Talapoosa or Abilene, and he might like to know about Chesterton and Oakeshott. Each of those well-known American writers, by the way, would have benefited from the acquaintance.

There is another point worth touching on here. As I see it, National Review does have two goals which are valid but not altogether compatible. On the one hand, it does seek to articulate the issues and perceptions that arise out of American life as it is actually lived.

But, on the other hand, National Review has served as a forum open to the many varieties of contemporary conservative thought — populist, traditionalist, Catholic, Protestant, Jewish, free market, and so forth.

True enough, some voices in the forum may not be representative of Middle America. But Phillips certainly exaggerates the role played by foreigners. And though the contributions of an Austrian Catholic monarchist may seem a bit remote from Abilene, he nevertheless does have perceptions about 20th century life that apply, mutatis mutandis, to Abilene.

B&PW Names Woman Of Year

LENA BORN

Lena Born, St. Joseph, has been honored by members of the Twin Cities Business and Professional Women's club by receiving its "Woman of the Year Award."

The announcement was made during a Christmas banquet held Dec. 16.

Mrs. Born was an abstractor from 1915 until retiring in 1966.

For 30 years prior to retiring, she was employed as secretary and manager of the Berrien County Abstract Company.

Mrs. Born, a resident of this area since 1937, is a graduate of Cassopolis high school and received a secretarial certificate from the South Bend College of Commerce.

She is an active member and past president of Twin Cities B&PW; an active member of First United Methodist church, St. Joseph, where she sang in the church choir for several years, and in 1963 was listed in Who's Who of American Women.

Mrs. Born has one daughter, Mrs. Frank Pate, five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Future Mom Is In Style

NEW YORK (NEA) — See those two young women over there? They're wearing identical blue jeans and T-shirts that picture a cat hanging by its paws from a crossbar. The caption reads, "Hang in There, Baby."

What's unusual, first, is that both women bought their outfits in maternity departments and, of lesser importance here, only one of them is pregnant. The other, a large-size woman, was attracted by the styling, which is as right for her as a pregnant woman, and the price which is probably lower than what she's used to paying.

It all underscores one fact: the Mother Hubbard look that pregnant women had to stomach a few years back has been shelved once and for all.

Today's mother-to-be is choosing jumpers, denim or corduroy skirts and big tops with Oriental and ethnic touches, tie-back shirt dresses, and pantsuits. Even tennis dresses are available and, in lingerie, where lace and ruffles now grace nightgowns and slips, bikini stretch-lace panties are included.

"Whatever our customer sees in the major department stores and boutiques for juniors and missys, we carry," says Mary MacKenzie, founder with her husband of Motherhood Maternity Shops of Santa Monica, Calif. They manufacture 70 per cent of the clothes they sell and claim to be the country's largest chain of maternity stores with 232 outlets in 40 states.

"We feature coordinates in earth tones, medium brights and dusties, and we had a tremendous season this year with T-shirts and sweaters," says Mrs. MacKenzie. She started her first boutique 26 years ago after she went shopping for a gift for a pregnant friend and couldn't find anything to buy.

Depending on budget and climate, she estimates a woman buying a wardrobe for her first pregnancy would spend an average of $200 to $300. For that, she'll probably get a pair of jeans and a T-shirt, a day dress, a dressy top and pair of pants and, if she wears evening gowns, one of those, too.

Whatever the lifestyle was before pregnancy, the woman will probably stick to it. Pants and sweaters, for instance, dresses and skirts, or a combination of the two.

Most of it will be machine washable, such as polyester and cotton, and the new crinkled beggar's cloth which comes with its own wrinkles so you don't have to worry about adding any.

Roberta Chaiken, herself expecting, is the buyer for Mother-to-be maternity stores, also known as Maternity Modes and Young Maternity, which number 100 in 27 states and feature such manufacturers as Toni Lynn, Storkbound and Ma Mere.

"Pregnant women usually need their clothes around the fourth or fifth month," she says. "It's important for them to get fitted in the shoulders and, if it's a dress or skirt, in the length which should be middle of the knee to avoid a dowdy look."

Garments, she says, are designed to grow with the woman. "They're proportioned two inches larger in the bust, for example, and in a dress, the back hem is cut straight but the front is about one and one-half inches longer to allow for the stomach pulling it up as it grows."

In fabrics that don't stretch — denim, for instance — a panel of helenka or stretch lace is incorporated across the stomach to allow for expansion.

Lady Madonna, a chain of 42 individually franchised stores across the country, caters to a more affluent, sophisticated customer, such as singer Diana Ross.

This year's line includes a denim jumpsuit with back pockets, a short stomach apron and a matching hooded jacket, and an elegant, Grecian, one-shoulder gown.

Lester Hyatt, Lady Madonna's young, enthusiastic designer, sees one basic difference in designing for pregnant women. "You have to make room for the baby in the clothes," he says simply.

"I give the woman an optional sash with many of my dresses which she can wear around her waist in the first few months, loosen progressively as she grows, and finally raise for an empire look later on."

His turtle-neck, ribbed, long-sleeve bodysuits are doing very well and, he says, "There's a greater interest in dresses now and we're coming out of muted colors into brights."

His fabrics are soft and malleable because, "During pregnancy, a woman wants to be treated softly in fabric."

And, in every other way, too, come to think of it.

WOMEN IN WAITING: Future mothers now find maternity clothes that baby their egos. Those who keep active can find flattering tennis outfits, left, or shop in style in a western-trimmed tunnel-waist polyester outfit. For more casual wear at home or at play there's a pantsuit in crinkled Calcutta cloth of polyester and cotton and for those who wear evening gowns, right, a jewel-tone print velvet with silk frog trim.

Holy Land Tours Are Big Business

DR. ANSGAR SOVIK

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Holy Land tours led by clergymen are big business in the travel industry, but concern has risen in the church about some ministers who help promote the trips and make money out of it themselves.

It "commercializes religions," says the Rev. Dr. Ansgar Sovik, a church historian of St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn. He adds that it has become "a scandal" that disturbs many church leaders.

Critics don't object to the tours themselves, and in fact generally favor them as educational experiences, but do question ministers using their influence to recruit travelers, and profiting from it through rebate fees from travel agencies.

"It's the hard-sell that's objectionable, urging people to go, and turning it into a business proposition," Sovik said in a telephone interview. "Some clergymen have made pots of money on it."

"I don't think clergymen should cooperate in this sort of thing."

Nevertheless, hundreds of clergymen across the country, through arrangements with travel organizations, line up group pilgrimages of the faithful, and in many cases, pocket fees of $50 to $100 a head.

However, other ministers, possibly most who lead tours, get their fares and expenses, if that, often strictly limiting themselves to those costs, and this generally is considered justified.

The task involves work, briefing themselves on Biblical backgrounds of sites, and overseeing and instructing the tour groups.

Considering the extra service and comparatively low salaries of ministers, "there's no reason why they shouldn't get their expenses out of it," Sovik said, but if making a profit, "it frankly appeals to cupidity."

Noting that ministers hold an influential position of counsel, especially with their own congregations, he said that to use this advantage to pressure people to take a tour — at a profit to the minister — "makes a business out of it."

"Clergymen have no more right to do this sort of thing than they have to sell Bibles to their members at a profit to themselves," said Sovik, 61, a Lutheran scholar who recently raised the issue at an international Lutheran consultation on church involvements in the Holy Land.

One of the main travel firms specializing in religiously oriented trips, Wholesale Tours International, based in New York City, actively solicits ministers to recruit travel groups, and handles a large portion of Christian trips to the Holy Land.

To get ministers to help drum up business, it offers them a free trip if they get four paying passengers, two free trips (including spouse) if eight paying passengers go along, plus $80 each for each paying passenger beyond eight up to 28, plus $100 for each passenger beyond that.

The ministers' fees — or "honorariums" — necessarily come out of the paying travelers' fares — although they may or may not know about it. Ministers are widely urged in circulars and personal contacts by that company and some others to promote such tours. Many do. Many others decline to do so.

Other new officers include Mrs. Frank Trapp, assistant leader; Mrs. Lillian Fleenor, secretary; Mrs. Vernon Carlin, treasurer; Mrs. Lowell O. Swem, flower chairman, and Mrs. Thaddeus R. Stephens, local church activities chairman.

Get Serious About Fairy Tales

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Some teachers here are turning to those famous old tales about beautiful princesses, good fairies and wicked witches so kids in their class don't lose the ability to pretend.

Sister Francis Helen, a first grade teacher at St. Martin of Tours elementary school here, said, "I've only met one child in four years who has been fairy tales-oriented. That little girl wanted to be a princess. In fact, she still does."

She says there is some indication television is not presenting kids enough make-believe to preserve the ability in children.

Peter Charlier, principal of the Sabold elementary school in suburban Springfield, says there's "very definitely a television orientation" for most children but "it's not all that bad."

"Their association with fairy tales is the Walt Disney variety. If we're talking about fairy tales from the big old book, they don't know them," he adds.

That's not true in the Sheppard elementary, however, where principal Joan Hughes offers a read-aloud program "and our third graders gobble up the fairy tales — things like 'The Three Bears.'"

"It is something that has to be developed and taught, an appreciation for things like Rapunzel and 'The Three Pigs.'"

Dr. Jacqueline Shacter, a Temple university professor specializing in children's literature, says there is a split over the value of fairy tales.

"You can't take dreams and hopes away from people," Miss Shacter says. "But some teachers object to the bad name the word 'stepmother' has because of the influence of Cinderella."

And she says people take fairy tales too literally:

"I'm sick up to the gills sometimes that they are so concerned with royalty, and I get sick and tired of kings and queens and princesses. I'd like to see a Cinderella-type story where the poor good girl marries the farmer."

Berrien Circuit Court Asks 2nd Legal Clerk

By JIM DELAND
Assistant City Editor

Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns is asking the county board of commissioners to provide a second legal research clerk for the circuit court.

Citing a mounting case load in many respects heavier than more populous counties in Michigan, Judge Byrns has asked commissioners to consider creation of another position similar to that now held by Cofin H. John Jr., of Niles.

"He's the greatest time-saver we have," Judge Byrns said of John, who became the Berrien circuit's first law clerk last January. "He's exceptionally good."

"We really should have one clerk for each of our three circuit judges, but we're not asking for that. We're only asking for two."

Byrns' request for another law clerk was included in a year-end report addressed to Leslie H. Fischer, chairman of the county board of commissioners. Byrns noted that it was one of his last official acts as presiding judge of the circuit court, since he is stepping down from that position effective at the end of this year. Judge Julian E. Hughes will be the new presiding judge.

"This is merely a stop-gap," Byrns said. "We eventually are going to need a fourth judge, but even when we get a fourth judge we'll have to have law clerks."

John, a graduate of the University of Michigan and Wayne State university law school, was hired last January with the help of Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds. Byrns said his salary in 1976 would be $14,430.

Byrns based his request for a second law clerk on statistics that showed the circuit court's load increased 10 per cent in new cases commenced, from 3,062 in 1974 to 3,307 in 1975, and that cases pending at the end of the year increased 14 per cent from 1,832 to 2,088.

"It's growing...growing by leaps and bounds," he said of the circuit court's caseload, "and it's going to continue to increase."

Byrns said Berrien's three circuit judges — Hughes, William S. White and himself — disposed of an average of 1,073 cases each during the past fiscal year.

By comparison, he said, similar per-judge figures were 515 cases in Jackson county, 773 in Kalamazoo county and 979 in Muskegon county.

He said the law clerk helps speed the judicial process by "freeing judges of routine legal work" in many ways — doing legal research, preparing digests and analyses of upcoming cases and researching matters not related to individual cases, such as new procedures for the court.

He said John has performed these services and others for all three Berrien judges in both criminal and civil cases, and added that many Michigan circuit courts with less production per judge than Berrien provide one law clerk for each judge.

Other statistics cited by Byrns in his letter to Fischer and the county commissioners:

— Berrien's circuit court docket breaks down into 16.8 per cent criminal cases, 3 per cent auto negligence, 37.4 per cent divorces and 42.8 per cent other general civil cases.

— During the past fiscal year, there were 236 trials in Berrien circuit court, or 79 per judge. During the same period there 50 trials per judge in Calhoun county, 48 in Ingham county, 13 in Jackson county, 71 in Kent county, 52 in Muskegon county, 45 in Wayne county, 31 in Cass county and 35 in Van Buren county.

— In the past year Berrien had 105 jury trials in circuit court while Jackson county had 29, Kalamazoo county 34, Muskegon county 58, Calhoun county 50 and Cass county 13.

— Criminal cases accounted for 89 of the 105 Berrien jury trials in Berrien county, which has a population of 183,000 and three circuit judges. Genesee county, which has a population of 521,000 and seven circuit judges, had 85 criminal trials; Kalamazoo county (213,000 and four judges), 31 trials; Kent county (444,000 and five judges) 92 trials; Muskegon county (168,003, three judges) 28 trials; and Ingham county (282,000 and five judges) 38 trials.

Other southwestern Michigan counties cited by Byrns were Van Buren (58,000, one judge) 12 criminal jury trials; Allegan (64,000, one judge) 14 trials; and Cass (44,000, one judge) eight trials.

"Either other counties are not as zealous as Berrien in trying their criminal cases," Byrns stated, "or Berrien county has far more crime per capita than elsewhere in the state (although the state administrator's report certainly does not support this conclusion), or Berrien is not being more selective in deciding which criminal cases to put the county to the time and expense of trial."

Byrns did note "with satisfaction" that there are only 44 cases pending in Berrien circuit court for more than two years, compared to 135 in Kalamazoo county, 160 in Kent county and 405 in Washtenaw county.

Paw Paw Lake Pair Ask Judge To Kill 'Weed Tax'

Two Paw Paw Lake property owners have filed suit in Berrien Circuit court seeking to prevent assessment of taxes for weed control of the lake ordered by the Paw Paw Lake Improvement board.

The property owners — William Stewart and Michael McArdle Sr. — ask the court to declare a special assessment ordered last month by the improvement board "unconstitutional, illegal and void" and to permanently prevent assessment and collection of taxes as ordered by the board.

Stewart is owner of the Paw Paw Lake Golf Course which has frontage on the lake. McArdle has spearheaded opposition to the weed control program since it was first announced.

The suit asks for a preliminary injunction restraining County Treasurer William C. Heyn from assessing and collecting any assessment levied by the improvement board pending settlement of the suit.

The improvement board has proposed a levy of 62½ cents per shoreline foot which was to be due on March 1, 1976.

Named as defendants in the suit are the townships of Watervliet and Coloma; the Paw Paw Lake Improvement Board; Heyn in his capacity as county treasurer; Watervliet township Assessor Lyle Woodworth; and Coloma township Assessor Avery G. Blevins. Blevins who also was township supervisor resigned in September and moved to Minnesota.

The suit contends the properties were assessed according to front footage on the lake, which plaintiffs claim was illegal because it violated a provision of Michigan law which requires assessment on a proportional basis, measured by benefit received by persons assessed.

The suit also contends that the assessment tax roll confirmed and published by the improvement board was not thereafter confirmed and endorsed by the two township clerks and that the assessment violates plaintiffs' rights to due process of law under the U.S. and Michigan constitutions.

Shoreline property owners on Paw Paw Lake last month voted 282-112 in an advisory ballot to proceed with the improvement board's proposed one-year weed control program for the lake, of route 1, Windemere Landing, previously. The senior McArdle, spearheaded opposition to the plan, which is estimated to cost $40,631 with $5,000 provided in a grant through county government.

The improvement board announced last month that property owners around the lake would be assessed 62½ cents per front foot of lakefront property to pay for the program to control bottom weed growth.

McArdle has said he feels that the entire county should vote on paying for removal of weeds in the lake.

The special assessment of lakefront property owners was to be due in payment on March 1, 1976.

MR. AND MRS. AUGUST WENNERBERG

SAWYER — Mr. and Mrs. August Wennerberg, route 1, Box 449, Sawyer, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary at a party in their honor Saturday, Dec. 20, at the Golden Door restaurant in New Buffalo.

Hosting the event were the couple's children and their families.

The former Margaretha Anderson and Wennerberg were married Dec. 18, 1915, in Chicago. They have had a summer home in Sawyer since 1924. Following Wennerberg's retirement in 1956 from Western Electric in Chicago where he was an engineer, the couple has made their home in Sawyer.

The couple's children are Mrs. Ingrid Cooney and John Wennerberg of Sawyer, Arnold Wennerberg, Chicago, and William, Elk Grove Village, Ill.

They have nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

MR. AND MRS. MORTON HAMPTON

GALIEN — Mr. and Mrs. Morton Hampton, Cleveland avenue, Galien, will observe their 60th wedding anniversary at a family dinner Sunday, Dec. 29, at Portofino restaurant, Niles.

Hosting the dinner will be their children, Mrs. Edward (Margaret) Reinberg of Elroy, Ariz., Mrs. Thomas (Kathryn) Lozmack of Three Oaks and Mrs. Robert (Marlene) Gwilt of Liberty, Ind.

Hampton and the former Ruth Burrus were married Dec. 29, 1915 in South Bend, Ind., and have spent most of their married lives in the Galien area.

Prior to their retirement, the couple was engaged in farming.

The Hamptons have 12 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Trash: Another Man's Treasure

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The sidewalk junk pile used to be a kind of discount store only for the poor, but curbside raiding has caught on even in the city's more affluent suburbs.

It's a cheap way to furnish an apartment, gather stuff to sell at flea markets or even snatch up an authentic antique, say those who've made trash picking something of an art.

Leslie Grossman, a bookkeeper in fashionable Mt. Lebanon, says a system for curbside shopping is essential.

She furnished her first apartment with discards when she and her brother-in-law got Mt. Lebanon's pickup schedule and persistently drove the routes the night before collection, twice a week for two months.

"I rang the doorbell to see if one family minded if I took the kitchen stove they'd put out and if it leaked gas or anything. The woman who came to the door said she really liked it better than her new one, but didn't have any room for it anymore," Mrs. Grossman said.

Edward Brown, a radio dispatcher with Pittsburgh's Department of Refuse, says lots of people turn curbside safaris into systematic business trips.

They call his desk to check out schedules, then take off early in their own trucks and wagons to remove items that are good enough for their own houses or for resale at local flea markets.

"The refuse men can take anything they want," Brown said. "I got an AM-FM radio, a big one. It only had a broken channel changer. I got an exhaust fan, too. All it needed was a plug," he said.

"Guys on the truck told me they used to just toss out old cushion chairs. Then one man found $2 worth of change in the stuffing, dated in the early 1800s. Now they rip open seams and look for rings and things that can fall out of pockets and slip down beside the seats," Brown added.

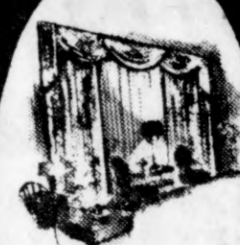

A department head from one of the local universities says he dragged home a waist-high, wrought iron "something" with four bare light bulbs sticking up from the corners and converted it into a conversation piece in its new role as a tableside cake or salad server.

Lumber for his greenhouse came entirely from the street.

Another trash pile raider says the best time to make the rounds is just before the pickup at the end of the month.

At that time, transients skip rent, newlyweds condense two apartments into one, businessmen are transferred to other cities and young families move from apartments to houses.

The result — heaps of moving day throwaways ripe for the picking.

Adds Cooking Flair

Oriental wok cooking gets added flair with a newly introduced wide metal ring called a dok. For tableside cooking and serving, the wok pan sits safely on the dok.

Easily washed clean of spills and splatters, the porcelain-on-steel wok and dok come in flame red, antique gold or Sahara with white interior. The attractive wooden handles should not be soaked, but if food residues are stuck, the manufacturer recommends filling the utensil with hot water and adding a tablespoon of baking soda.

Bleach and warm water in the wok should eliminate discoloration of the interior, but basically soap or detergent and hot water do a fine job.

Styles For Summer

PARIS — (NEA) — Summer 1976 will be cheerful if fashion is any barometer. Haute couture boutique collections and ready-to-wear manufacturers recently showed clothes here that men like to look at and girls like to wear.

Color runs the gamut of hot pinks, purples and mauves; to snowy white, ebony and khaki, the latter shading from tropical to the greenish paratrooper's uniform.

Fluidity keys every type of dress, suit or coat to follow the body line. But no stiffening in anything, anywhere, and, often, no lining.

Resort and beachwear, for sports, for around the pool or for patio dancing, were extensively featured. For the very young it's going to be a leggy summer with the return of shorts in every length — from hot pants to Bermudas, worn with T-shirt, perhaps a matching parka à la Saint Laurent or a sleeveless cardigan over a tucked in shirt. The jumpsuit, short-sleeved, is also in the picture.

There are long beach robes to wear over the stringiest of bikinis and one-piece swimsuits almost as revealing. All a woman has to aim for next summer is a flat tummy!

Incidentally, models doing the Paris off-the-peg shows haven't been wearing bras for years. This time they were practically nude under the flimsiest, transparent dresses. One designer cogently pointed out that bras would just about have ruined the line.

It turns out that 1976 will go down in history as the sexiest, most uninhibited Paris ready-to-wear season — with bared backs, thighs, derrieres, etc.

Design influences — Turkish, Moroccan, Chinese, Hindu — are seen in long, slim cotton shifts and tunic dresses worn over skinny cotton pirate or peep-toe pants.

Even a modest dress budget will enable the fashion conscious to acquire the 1976 look because the majority of the designers showed models made of two colors, say pink for a shirtwaist and mauve for a leggy skirt often slashed in front. Other combinations: red with khaki, yellow with orange, orange with Chinese blue.

Yves Saint Laurent offered all the exciting ideas for the coming summer in his customary masterly manner. For undersized chic it would be hard to beat his outfit of fine wool navy cardigan, belted, over a white silk crepe blouse with jabot front and slim jersey skirt with pleat front. His main theme is grandpa's nightshirt, of varying lengths, and worn alone or over slick pants.

GOWNS: Off-the-shoulder bareness is only one type of décolleté Paris ready-to-wear designers offer for spring-summer. Gowns by Balmain are in pink and blue printed silk.

Pierre Balmain's blazers with single or double breasted fronts, glittering brass buttons over a white skirt or dress will appeal to the woman who appreciates understated elegance. His slender two-piece models along with slinky jersey dresses stressing the Y look which come in nude and ankle-length are very feminine. There are also light-as-a-feather coats worn over silk suits. Balmain ended his showing with a group of 10 "Vie en Rose" evening dresses in various shades of pink.

Givenchy offers the widest range of khakis from the lightest to the darkest, zebra and bayadere stripes, along with soft white, black, vermilion, Jender blues and peppy greens.

J. L. Scherrer, who dresses Madame Giscard d'Estaing, the president's wife, claims his collection is beamed at every generation, from 18 to 40, and older, thereby ignoring any generation gap. He shows loose sailor blouses over printed crepe skirts, slim shirt coats, unlined figured muslin evening dresses, with low square or shattering décolletés and trailing scarves.

Marc Bohan at Dior started with a slender, supple, sportive silhouette for drawstring parkas of varying lengths for day and evening, double-breasted blazers, skirts and trousers which allow for an infinite number of combinations. There's a lot of humor, too, in his late-day line in dresses with dropped waists, drawstring necklines, gathered silk jersey trousers and sheaths slit up to the thigh.

Michel Goma opened with his relaxed sports numbers of culotte, skirts or shorts worn with white schoolboy knee socks and sneakers. The feminine note appears in soft blouses.

Newcomer to the Paris scene was Valentino, one of the leading designers in Rome. He highlighted bare trousers for day, beach and evening, long, slinky Indian rajah's tunics teamed with skinny pants. He uses a lot of soft white Indian cotton, cotton gabardine and striped muslins.

Cotton, in fact, reigns almost supreme in the fabric story, in jersey, pique, Turkish toweling, saten, plain, striped or printed voiles and gauzes. There also are silk crepes in monochrome or prints, the latter demure and naive as compared to the bold designs of former years.

ATTENTION! Future Brides

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks and turned in one week before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Use proper names — not nicknames. In wedding information, use husband's names for married attendants.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used. Formal glossy black and white portraits are preferred.

Astronaut Turns To Evangelism

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer

A veteran of the longest manned voyage in space, astronaut William R. Pogue, says he wanted a more challenging assignment. So he has turned to Christian evangelism.

He is the latest of several astronauts who have taken up work of a religious nature in the wake of their space experience.

It restored a "proper balance" to his outlook on life, he says.

Pogue, of Houston, Tex., resigned from the space program and joined the staff of High Flight, an evangelistic organization founded in 1972 by another former astronaut, James B. Irwin.

Irwin, who has since been on the speaking circuit attesting to faith, says his visit to the moon constituted a "spiritual awakening" for him.

Others have told of similar reactions.

Martin Caidin, science-fiction novelist and acquainted with many of the astronauts, told the American Baptist magazine: "There has been a tremendous change, very quietly, in the attitude and the lives of the men who have gone to the moon ...

where they can see the planet the way God must have seen it."

Noting that it is "strange that only when man left his world could he see it for the first time," Caidin adds: "Most of the men who came back had a spiritual experience."

A recent hint of how it happens came from Werner von Braun, father of the U.S. rocket and space program, who says the "evidences of a creator are so overwhelming."

Von Braun, who headed U.S. space-rocket development until 1972 when he joined Fairchild Industries in Maryland, said in an interview for the Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission: "I just can't envision this whole universe coming into being without something like a divine will. I cannot envision the creation without the concept of a creator."

Terminology science and religion "sisters" in the effort to comprehend the truths of reality, he said religion searches for the "intent of the creator" while science searches for the "laws of creation."

He noted that space flight requires tremendous precision in calculating celestial movements, forces and timing, but he added that the exacting physical laws already had been built into nature, from which science merely learns.

"The laws are there," he said. "The laws must have been laid down by somebody."

Pogue, a native of Okemah, Okla., who was one of three crewmen on Skylab 3 which set a record of 84 days in space in 1973, says the mission made him more firmly convinced of spiritual reality.

"There's more to life than the body and intellect, — it's the soul," he says. "There's that kernel that most of us miss."

Irwin, of Colorado Springs, Colo., says of his 1971 moon trip that such an experience "has to make a man truly appreciate the creation of God, the infinite precision with which God controls the universe."

But a deeper impression, he says, "was that I could feel God's presence."

Former astronaut Frank Borman, who was on the first orbit of the moon in 1968 and who now is an aviation executive, has said he saw "evidence that God lives."

Perhaps the late scientist Albert Einstein gave a suggestion of the effect when he wrote: "The most beautiful and profound emotion we can experience is the sensation of the mystical. It is the source of all true science. He to whom this emotion is a stranger, who can no longer wonder and stand rapt in awe, is as good as dead."

"To know that what is impenetrable to us really exists, manifesting itself in the highest wisdom and the most radiant beauty which our dull faculties can comprehend only in their most primitive forms, this feeling is the center of true religiousness."

Make Chess Board

Lend a touch of individuality to chess and checker games with a portable board made from ribbon.

Select four yards each of two-inch wide washable ribbon in traditional black and red or other contrasting colors. On an 18-inch square of lightweight fabric (percale or batiste are good choices), center a 16-inch square of fusible webbing. Cut all the ribbon into 18-inch strips and lay all the strips of one color horizontally side by side on the webbing.

Tack down with pins at the ends, then weave the other colored strips over and under vertically, placing the strips as close as possible. Fuse the three layers together by pressing with a steam iron and press cloth. Finish off the board by placing an 18-inch square of felt backing over the weaving. Stitch the pieces together one inch from the edge, allowing a four-inch opening on one side. Trim one-half inch of fabric from each edge and turn right-side out. Press edges; sew the opening.

Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George (Ruby) Tanke, 1041 Emerson drive, Benton Harbor, observed their 25th wedding anniversary Christmas day.

The former Yung Soon Park and Tanke were married Dec. 25, 1950, in Taegu, Korea.

Mrs. Tanke was one of the first Korean War brides. Tanke, who was serving in the United States Army, was discharged in 1952 and returned to the United States. He had to return to Korea in 1955, where Mrs. Tanke was residing until immigration processes were completed, and remarried because their marriage records were lost in the burning of Taegu city hall.

Tanke is a machinist at Whirlpool Corp.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Kisses Aren't Very Fatherly

Dear Ann Landers: My in-laws are both in their early 70s. I've had no trouble with my mother-in-law ever since I told her to please stop trying to shove her religion down my throat.

My father-in-law has become a real problem, however. He was always fond of me but in the last year or so his "fatherly" kisses have become much too frequent and not very fatherly.

He never does anything out of the way when his wife or my husband are around, but when he catches me in the back hall or behind the bushes he gets awfully fresh. Last night I went to the fruit cellar to get some pickled peaches. He followed me into the fruit room and kissed me on the back of the neck.

When I was dating I knew how to deal with clowns who acted like that. I hauled off and planted one on the schnoz. But I just can't do that to my father-in-law.

My husband would be furious if he knew his dad was making passes at me. My mother-in-law would kill the old lecher. I don't want him pulverized or dead. What's the best solution? — In A Spot

Dear Spot: Make it a point not to be alone with him — ever. If he follows you again and gets out of line, give him a clasp in the chops. On those occasions when he forgets you're his daughter-in-law, I say it's all right to forget he's your father-in-law.

Gun Dangerous

Dear Ann: This is for the husband of "Dark Circles in Texas." She was worried because her husband Rodney insisted on keeping a loaded gun in the drawer of the nightstand by his bed. "A person has to be crazy," he said, "to be unprotected these days."

Rodney, you idiot, children do wander and get into things. But kids don't know how dangerous a gun can be. If your son should kill himself you'd never get over it. And those who love you most would never forgive you.

If you can't give up that gun I hope "Dark Circles" packs up and leaves you and takes the boy along. Harsh decision? Nothing compared with a gun accident that could kill your child.

Let the burglar take your wallet and the family silver. What does it mean compared to your son's life? If you pulled a gun on an intruder he'd probably get you first. They usually do. — No I.D. Please

Dear I.D.: Thanks for a powerful letter. I hope millions of gun-loving, trigger-happy Americans will take heed. There are at least 90 million guns loose in the United States. Small wonder President Ford was threatened by guns twice in 17 days. Wake up, America, we need a strong federal gun law.

Get Lawyer

Dear Ann: I'm not asking for advice. It's too late. I just want to warn others so they won't land in the spot I'm in right now.

I'm a 67-year-old widow who

worked hard and saved so I could be financially independent in my old age. To eliminate probate court costs and delays I put my major asset (a piece of valuable property) in my son's name.

Last week his wife sued him for divorce and today I learned she is claiming my property. Just Sign Me — Not So Smart After All

Dear Friend: How sad to be hoist on your own petard. A good lawyer might be able to help. If you don't have one — get one.

What kind of wedding goes with today's new life styles? Does anything go? Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" tells what's right for today's weddings. For a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (13 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Tale Of Two Cities

Editor's Note: Both of these stories are true. The names of the cities in the modern-day story have been omitted because it could have happened anywhere.

"NOW IT CAME TO PASS IN THOSE DAYS THAT A DECREE WENT FORTH FROM CAESAR AUGUSTUS THAT A CENSUS OF THE WHOLE WORLD SHOULD BE TAKEN. AND ALL WERE GOING, EACH TO HIS OWN TOWN TO REGISTER."

Rev. Joseph Dean, a Glenmary priest of 30 years, was summoned a week before Christmas by a caller who asked, "Do you help people who are not members of your church?" Father Dean was taken to an abandoned shack in the country where he found an old man lying on the ground in the cold.

"AND JOSEPH ALSO WENT FROM GALILEE OUT OF THE TOWN OF NAZARETH INTO JUDEA TO THE TOWN OF DAVID, WHICH IS CALLED BETHLEHEM TOGETHER WITH HIS ESPOUSED WIFE WHO WAS WITH CHILD."

Father Dean loaded the black man who was sick from malnutrition and exposure and took him to the hospital, but they would not keep him more than one night without payment.

"MARY AND JOSEPH KNOCKED ON THE DOOR OF THE INN BUT WERE REFUSED ADMITTANCE AND TOLD, 'WE HAVE NO ROOM. BUT THERE IS A STABLE BEHIND THE INN.'"

The priest contacted one parishoner after another in his dominantly white parish and were told by all, "We have no room." Then one evening a young black man appeared at the rectory seeking work. Although no job was available, Father Dean told him of the plight of the sick man. He willingly offered lodgings in his run-down two-room house which also held eight children and a wife with child.

"AND IT CAME TO PASS WHILE THEY WERE THERE, THAT THE DAYS FOR HER TO BE DELIVERED WAS FULFILLED. AND SHE BROUGHT FORTH HER FIRSTBORN SON, AND WRAPPED HIM IN SWADDLING CLOTHES, AND LAID HIM IN A MANGER."

On Christmas eve, the wife of the man who opened his home and heart to the stranger gave birth — to a son. Soon after, a Sister of Mercy nun located relatives for the old gentleman where he found a home. Her name was Sister Noel.

His benefactor on that Christmas eve became involved in racial strife, lost his job, and became active in trying to get a black man elected to a political office. He was shot to death a year or so later.

"AND SUDDENLY THERE WAS WITH THE ANGEL A MULTITUDE OF THE HEAVENLY HOST PRAISING GOD AND SAYING, 'GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST, AND ON EARTH PEACE AMONG MEN OF GOOD WILL.'"

Dr. Lester Coleman

My wife gave birth to a normal baby six weeks ago. There was reason for rejoicing because we were trying so hard to have one. Now, she seems to be in a deep funk, even though we have all the reasons for happiness. Will this depression disappear?

Mr. E.B.T., Ky.

Dear Mr. T.: The condition you describe is known as "post-partum" depression. It occurs with far greater frequency than is commonly suspected.

Women who seem to be in excellent emotional health may suddenly be projected into a period of depression, for reasons that are not entirely understood.

During pregnancy, many hormonal imbalances occur. Such upheavals may be responsible for stimulating the symptoms of despair and anxiety after the birth of a child.

There is a temptation for families to say, "We'll sweat this out," and hope that it will disappear of its own accord. This is a possibility, of course, but a much wiser approach is to seek the guidance of a psychologist. They, in conjunction with the patient's doctor, may uncover some deeply hidden problems which erupted at this time.

Why is it necessary to drink large quantities of water with a high protein reducing diet? I've been on the steak and egg diet. I wonder how the egg helps to lose weight.

Miss V.G., Ill.

Dear Miss G.:

The large intake of water does not play a role in weight reduction. Its function is to flush out the "ketones" that result from such a high protein, or "ketosis," diet.

It is most important that anyone who undertakes such a diet must do so with a doctor's supervision. Following the instructions of a paperback is no substitute for the safety of a doctor's advice.

Many problems can arise from such a diet. There may be an imbalance of minerals and "electrolytes" in the bloodstream. This can be a major threat to health unless it is checked and controlled.

Another concern may be unusual water retention, especially if the salt intake is not curtailed.

There are many sensible dieting regimes that are not fraught with potential hazards.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled, "Alcoholism — A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers hopeful advice. For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D. (Alcoholism booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

Opening lead — 7♥

By Oswald & James Jacoby
"Well," said South, "Beneath the bludgeonings of chance my head is bloody, but unbowed. Give me my hundred honors."

South had thought that his four-spade bid was iron-clad. It looked as if he had 10 cold tricks.

It didn't work out that way. East took two high hearts and led a third. South had to ruff with a trump honor to shut out the nine. Then South led the king.

East won with the ace and led another heart.

After this there was no way for South to keep West from making a trump trick and he was down one.

This unusual defensive play was what is known as a double trump promotion. Poor South was forced to waste two high trumps.

Ask the Jacobys

In one of our articles North bid six spades with:

♠ J 9 7 6 5 ♥ A 9 5 3 ♦ A Q 7 6

After South had overcalled East's one heart opening bid with one spade, A Carolina reader wants to know why.

The answer is that it seemed a good idea at the time. We wouldn't make that bid, but it had to have some merit since the slam did make.

AU Students
In Mexico

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Fifty Andrews university students have left the AU campus to spend their Christmas break in Huatabampo, Mexico, where they plan to help build a Seventh-day Adventist church building.

The students are paying their own transportation costs, $100 each, and volunteering their time.

There will be little leisure time, as plans are to have the church finished by the time the students return Jan. 5, according to John Ross, student association president.

The AU bus will make the 4,200 mile round trip in six days of round-the-clock travel to permit as much time on the job as possible during the three-week Christmas break.

Directing the construction is Maranatha Flights International, a Berrien Springs-based volunteer organization that assists with Adventist building projects in remote parts of North America.

The coordinator of the AU group is Dr. William Davidson, dean of the college of technology.

Deadline

Contributors to the church page are asked to submit church news by noon Wednesday preceding Saturday publication.

BH Church To Dedicate Pipe Organ

Special Service
Sunday

A 680-pipe Gabriel Kney Tracker-Action Pipe Organ will be one of more than 25 memorials to be acknowledged and dedicated Sunday, Dec. 28, at 3 p.m. at First Presbyterian church, Benton Harbor.

The public is invited to the service and to a reception which will follow.

Featured in a concert to display the scope and versatility of the new organ will be Anna B. Haupt. She will also accompany the choir. Pat Conrad, a member of the church, will also perform two numbers.

The dedication will be led by the Rev. Ellis Marshburn, pastor.

The new organ has been given to the church by a family of the church.

This particular organ operates through mechanical action and is known as a tracker instrument as opposed to one electrically operated. It is one of the oldest types of organ known and basically used the only type of reproduction known for hundreds of years.

The organ was designed and built by Gabriel Kney Co., Limited of London, Ontario, Canada.

Kney was born in Germany, studied organ there and was for a time a builder's apprentice. He emigrated to Canada in 1851, where he was a voice (tuner) for an organ firm until 1855 when he founded his own business. Since that time, there has been a revived interest in mechanical action organs and Kney has now built 76 of these instruments with 80 per cent of them in the United States.

The construction of the organ took 2,000 man hours. The metal pipes, the smallest being one-quarter inch, were made in Germany. The wooden pipes, with the longest eight feet, were made in London, Ontario. All are custom made and the pipe scale was designed and tuned for this particular sanctuary.

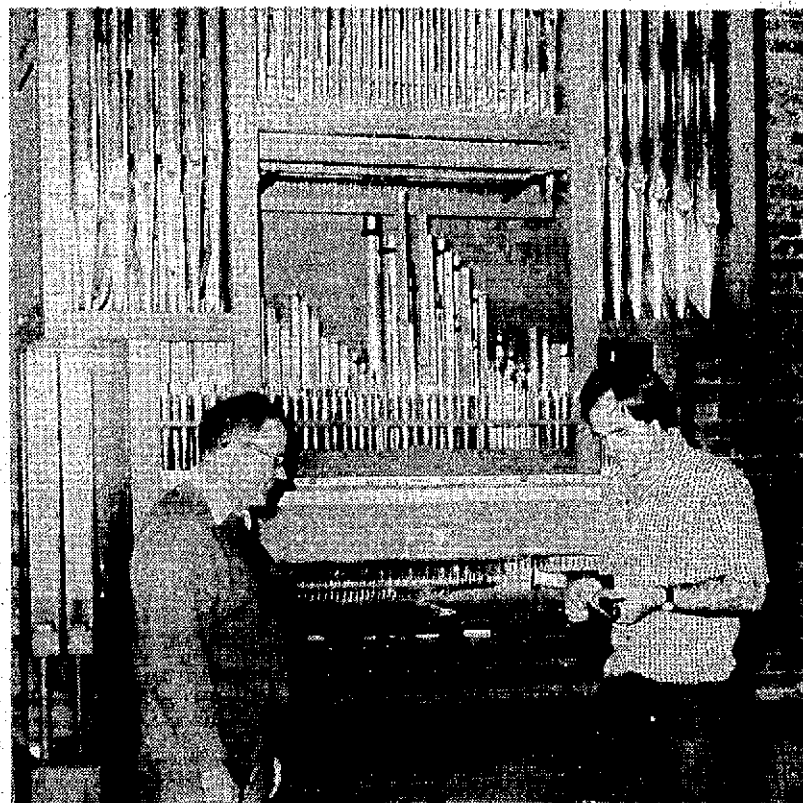

This type of instrument is known for its tonal effects and allows more compact designs with pipes closer together, permitting a better blending of pipes and stops.

There are two keyboards, each representing a small organ of its own, with tonal color providing contrast to each keyboard. The pipes of the two manual divisions are physically separated from one another within a casework of their own permitting further separation and contrast of sound between the two sections.

Most early organ music was written for instruments where manual divisions were physically separated and provided contrast. In this instrument, Kney has retained these early tonal characteristics. Modern organ compositions, with the exception of those of the Romantic school, which require a different approach, can also be played on this organ in a fully satisfactory manner. The tonal design, based on the 18th century approach to church organs, is well suited to the accompaniment of congregational singing as well as that of a choir.

GUEST ORGANIST: Anna B. Haupt will be guest organist Sunday, Dec. 28, at 3 p.m. when new tracker organ will be dedicated at First Presbyterian church, Benton Harbor. (Staff photos)

BUILDER: Gabriel Kney of Gabriel Kney Co., Limited of London, Ontario, Canada, right, shows the Rev. Ellis Marshburn, pastor, action of new tracker organ Kney built for First Presbyterian church, Benton Harbor. Organ was a gift to the church and will be among memorials dedicated Sunday, Dec. 28, at 3 p.m.

THE BIBLE

No. 218. The 23rd Psalm

The 23rd Psalm is perhaps the best-known and most widely-read Psalm. Many children have memorized it as part of a Sunday School assignment. It is, of course, one of the most beautiful hymns of assurance ever written.

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever."

(Psalms 23:1-6)

The Psalms appearing in this column were selected by a group of five clergymen since all of the Psalms cannot be illustrated. Basically, there are five classes of Psalms: Hymns (Psalms 95), National Dirges (Psalms 11), Royal Hymns (Psalms 45), Individual Dirges (Psalms 22), and Individual Thanksgivings (Psalms 18).

Christmas Is Family Day At Nevada's Gaming Tables

By RICHARD D. RIPLEY
Associated Press Writer
RENO, Nev. (AP) — Grandma has forsaken the kitchen for the gambling table on Christmas Day in Nevada.

"They do come out gaming," said Tom Schacht, a keno supervisor at Harold's Club, one of the largest casinos in the state.
"The whole family comes, grandmother, father, mother and the older kids."

Nevadans say the state's 24 hour-a-day, 365-days-a-year gambling industry never comes to a stop. If it ever does, a reporter's walking tour between 9 and 10 a.m. Thursday indicates the yuletide holiday isn't when it happens.

At Harrah's, blackjack players took up every one of the half-dozen or more seats on the rim of a couple of dealer's tables. At least every fifth slot machine was in use. Outside along the sidewalk in front of Reno's casino fronts the ring of the jackpot bell was persistent.
So was the clink of more coins dropping.

Schacht, who has worked in the state's gaming houses for 22 years, said Christmas Days once were quiet. But he said the last four or five years have been busy and says people don't feel the stigma about gambling on Christmas that they did 20 years ago.

Schacht and fellow keno supervisor Carl Romero say customers are more jovial and better tipsters on Christmas Day.

"They're more willing to buy drinks for each other," Romero said.

A shiny pot from a tea service sat on a tray on one of the green-covered blackjack tables in the Money Tree Casino, where a customer seated on a bar stool was having a leisurely breakfast.

Slot department manager Al

Bushgens said some of the steady customers contribute to the warm feeling in a casino on Christmas Day. Depending on the economy, the weather and other factors, holiday business is often very good. Inexpensive meals and big-name entertainment bring out some customers, he said.

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President
Ford's change of position on three key bills last week indicates the conservative wing of the Republican party is having success in worrying him about his political image.

The President signed the energy and tax cut extension bills and said he will veto a "common site" picketing bill — all actions opposite to what he had said earlier he would do.

As time for decision neared on each measure, Ford was subjected to extreme pressure from many groups, but especially from within his own Republican party.

Administration sources say pressure on the President ranged from intimations from party conservatives that he could lose political support to his GOP challenger, Ronald Reagan, to outright financial pressure in which contributors pointedly showed they could and would withhold funds from the Ford campaign.

Reagan, the former California governor seeking to take the GOP presidential nomination away from Ford, urged veto of all three of the controversial bills, winning favor from party conservatives whose views his stand reflected. Veto of the trio also was endorsed by the recent Southern Republican Conference in Houston, which greeted Reagan warmly but subjected Ford representatives to tough questioning on issues close to the hearts of conservatives.

Even after Ford changed positions in an effort to follow the conservative line, Reagan forces charged Ford's actions indicated "more indecision and vacillations on the issues."

Veto of the picketing bill, strongly backed by the labor lobby, may have cost Ford the services of Labor Secretary John T. Dunlop, who wrote the measure with Ford's blessing.
Dunlop said Wednesday he wants to take two or three weeks to think about whether he should quit.

The President had promised Dunlop he would sign the bill, which included provisions to aid in the settlement of construction industry disputes. But Ford called Dunlop into his office Monday, before he came to Vail for a Christmas vacation, and told him he had changed his mind and would veto the measure.

Administration sources say

Ford found it politically easier to veto that bill, which would have allowed unions to picket an entire construction site even though their dispute was with only one subcontractor. There had been early reports that Dunlop was likely to resign if his bill was vetoed, and sources say Ford weighed the loss of his labor secretary against the potential loss of conservative support if he allowed the bill past his desk.

Organized labor had fought for the measure for 25 years.
But Ford's advisers said he felt he was not likely to have the political backing of labor anyway, and signing it would have been difficult to defend in some of the early primaries, especially in Florida with its right to work law.

Business groups and contractors opposed the bill, and sources say many unsigned checks languished at Ford campaign headquarters, with the donors promising to sign them only if Ford vetoed it.

Congress Votes

BY CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

WASHINGTON — Votes of area members of Congress on key roll calls for the week ending Dec. 18, were:

HOUSE
Tax cuts — By a 265-157 vote, the House fell 17 votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to override President Ford's veto of a compromise six-month extension of 1975 tax reductions.

Tax cut advocates argued that the veto blocked a measure that was needed to keep tax withholding rates at 1975 levels. If the federal government started taking larger bites out of workers' paychecks in January, they argued, economic recovery could be stifled.

They also maintained that by demanding a spending ceiling, Ford was trying to force Congress to short-circuit its own new budget-making procedures. Only by following through on that process, they said, could Congress establish meaningful control over the federal budget.

Opponents countered that if tax cuts were not offset by spending reductions, the resulting increase in the federal deficit could rekindle inflation.

Voting to override tax cut veto: Blanchard (D), O'Neill (Majority Leader).

Voting not to override tax cut veto: Brown (R), Hutchinson (R), Vander Jagt (R), Rhodes (Minority Leader).

Paired for overriding tax cut veto: Conyers (D).

Supersonic Transports — By a 199-188 vote, the House adopted an amendment to an airport aid bill that would ban from U.S. airports for six months the British-French Concorde supersonic jet transport. It was the first time either house of Congress had voted to ban foreign SSTs from landing in the United States.

Supporters of banning the SST from U.S. airports argued that the SST generates ear-splitting noise and could damage the earth's ozone layer, thus exposing humans to cancer-causing radiation from the sun.

Opponents maintained that the ban on the Concorde would bruise U.S. RELATIONS WITH Great Britain and France and invite economic reprisals against U.S. airlines, which could hardly afford it.

The bill with the SST provision then went to the Senate for consideration.

SENATE

Omnibus Energy Policy Bill — The Senate by a vote of 58-40 cleared for the President's signature the omnibus energy policy bill — the major energy legislation approved by the first session of the 94th Congress. The bill contained provisions intended to encourage energy conservation, stimulate domestic energy production, insulate the nation's economy from the impact of another embargo of foreign oil and continue for at least three more years federal price controls on domestic oil.

Advocates of the final version of the bill, which the House had approved earlier in the week, argued that it was the best compromise which could be worked out among all the competing regional, political and economic interests involved.

Opponents of the bill argued that it would impede the nation's progress toward energy self-sufficiency. They particularly criticized the provisions allowing federal controls on the price of domestic oil to continue, pointing out that they would require an immediate rollback in the price of much domestic oil.

Voting for omnibus energy bill: Hart (D).

Voting against omnibus energy bill: Griffin (R).

Common-Site Picketing — The Senate by a 52-43 vote passed the final version of a controversial common-site picketing bill that would allow a local union with a grievance against one subcontractor to picket all of the other contractors and subcontractors at the same construction site.

Supporters of the common-site picketing bill contended that it will simply put construction workers on the same bargaining footing that most industrial workers enjoy.

Opponents argued that the legislation will lead to more strikes in the construction industry and consequently to higher unemployment and prices.

Voting for common-site picketing bill: Hart (D).

Voting against common-site picketing bill: Griffin (R).

Indiri Seeks Mandate

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi is expected to seek and to receive a mandate from her Congress Party next week for the continuation of her emergency powers and for constitutional changes reducing the authority of Parliament.

Sect Reports Persecution In Malawi

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The Jehovah's Witnesses says its members are being subjected to a new campaign of beating, rape, torture and detention in Malawi because of their refusal to join President Kamuzu Banda's Malawi Congress party.

The religious sect, which believes that all governments are sinful, also claims it is being persecuted in Zambia and newly-independent Mozambique, now ruled by a pro-Marxist regime, for refusing to give allegiance to the ruling parties there. The Witnesses are also unpopular with the white rulers of Rhodesia and South Africa — both involved in low-key guerrilla wars with black nationalists — because they refuse to serve in the army.

Western newsmen are barred from both Malawi and Mozambique and so cannot confirm independently the sect's reports of persecution there. But the reports reaching South Africa of maltreatment of Witnesses are numerous enough to give them credence. Awake, the sect's newspaper, gives this account of the sect's troubles in Malawi and Mozambique:

Violent attacks on the Witnesses began in Malawi in 1964. President Banda's supporters burned the homes of 1,081 members of the sect and more than 100 of their meeting places, called Kingdom Halls.

Millions Of Lowest-Paid Workers Are Due For Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of America's lowest-paid workers will be eligible for immediate pay raises when the federal minimum wage law goes into effect on New Year's Day.

The Labor Department said Thursday that nearly four million workers will be eligible for the pay raises. Included are farm workers, domestics, local government employees and retail clerks.

The revised minimum wage law actually covers 57.4 million American workers, but the Labor Department says more than 53 million already earn more than the new minimums.

In amending the Fair Labor Standards Act in 1974, Congress provided for three wage minimums, each to be raised by annual steps to lessen potential inflationary effects. All three minimums will reach $2.30 an hour by Jan. 1, 1978, and Congress is already considering a proposal that would call for a $3 minimum.

Under the 1974 amendments, the minimum wage for more than 1.2 million nonfarm employees rises from the current rate of $2.10 an hour to $2.30 on New Year's Day.

This includes workers covered under the act before 1967 who are employed by:

- Companies engaged in or producing goods for interstate commerce.
- Retail or service enterprises with annual gross sales of at least $1 million and a $250,000 annual inflow of interstate goods.

- Construction firms grossing at least $2 million a year.
- Other establishments with individually covered employees in enterprises with gross sales of at least $350,000.

Another 2.6 million nonfarm employees will be entitled to a $2.20 minimum wage on Jan. 1, an increase of 20 cents an hour over the current $2 minimum.

Included are workers covered by the law since 1967 who are employed by laundry and dry cleaning plants, small construction firms, hospitals, schools, federal, state and local governments and hotels and restaurants.

The law also covers 86,000 farm workers who currently receive at least $1.80 per hour and who will be entitled to at least $2 an hour on Jan. 1, with subsequent increases to $2.20 in January 1977 and to $2.30 on Jan. 1, 1978.

State's Wage Floor Rises

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's minimum wage goes up 20 cents an hour on Jan. 1, reaching $2.20 an hour.

Keith Molin, director of the state Department of Labor, said this week that workers eligible for the 20-cent increase are those between 18 and 65 years old who are working for an employer who had four or more employees at any time during the calendar year.

Minors age 16 and over who are employed in or about the area where alcoholic beverages are consumed or sold also are covered by the state minimum wage.

Farm laborers between ages 18 and 65 paid on an hourly basis rather than a piece-rate basis also must be paid at least $2.20 an hour starting Jan. 1, Molin said.

Molin also announced that employees who receive tips must be paid a cash wage of not less than $1.65 an hour as of Jan. 1.

Battling In Beirut Resumes After Short Christmas Lull

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christian-Muslim fighting raged through the night in Beirut, the Tripoli area and in Zahlah, east of Beirut, after a brief lull Christmas morning.

Mortar and rocket duels terrorized Christian and Moslem residential districts of the capital. Hundreds of families spent the night in air raid shelters or basements.

The government radio said all streets were unsafe, and the city's northern and eastern approaches were closed to traffic.

"Snipers are everywhere, shooting at even housewives who venture out to buy the day's bread," an announcer warned.

Commandos of the army strike force guarding banking and business houses in downtown Beirut huddled in their personnel carriers and armored cars, unable to check the firing. The private armies were firing across the troops' buffer zone from every direction, a police spokesman said.

Three policemen and seven civilians were reported killed by sniper fire during the night. The toll among the combatants was not known.

In Tripoli, Lebanon's second largest city 60 miles north of Beirut, Moslem gunners exchanged rocket and mortar fire with Christian militiamen from the nearby town of Zagharta despite five army buffer zones.

Garage Door Opener Needs Care

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

An automatic garage door opener is a great convenience, but like so many other things, its performance depends to a considerable degree on how well you take care of it.

Keeping the opener on a regular schedule of preventive maintenance insures that it will work smoothly in all weather conditions. Here are some tips for keeping it in shape:

Keep door hinges, bearings and rollers well-lubricated with a silicone spray or light oil. In most areas, the door track should never be lubricated with a heavy grease because it can congeal in cold weather. Instead, apply a light coating of silicone spray. Inspection of these areas every three to six months will insure continued quiet and efficient operation.

A properly lubricated trolley rail is a must for smooth, effortless door lifting and lowering. The trolley rail connects the opener power mechanism with the door arm. Semi-annually, it should be inspected for accumulated dirt, grime or caked or dried grease and then cleaned with solvent. Wear gloves on this part of the job to save on cut fingers. Relubricate the rail with the tube of rail grease that came with your opener or use a silicone spray.

An improperly balanced door is the cause of many garage door opener ills and can cause damage to the opener mechanism, as well. Remember, your opener can only do automatically what you can do manually, only more efficiently. Without the use of a transmitter, the door should travel up and down easily with gentle help from your hand. If the door springs are weak, have a competent, professional serviceman repair or replace them. Do not tamper with door springs yourself because they operate under extreme pressure and can cause injury.

Look for evidence of wear or bind on metal parts. Frequently, these are sure signs of an unbalanced door or an improperly installed opener. If not checked early, your warranty may not cover any subsequent damage caused by these conditions.

Inspect all external wiring for bare or exposed spots that could short the opener motor. Before attempting any electrical repairs, be sure to disconnect the power source.

Many garage door openers provide a safety emergency disconnect feature that allows you to operate your door manually during a power failure. Periodically test this feature to be sure it operates properly. Parts should be oiled with a light application of silicone lubricant.

An expert on the subject, Robert Ford, vice president of Chamberlain Manufacturing Corp., cautions that a weak battery can cause uneven performance before it goes dead altogether. His advice:

"Don't neglect to replace periodically the battery in your portable transmitter. A strong signal is important for opening your door, especially under cold weather conditions. Most transmitters are powered by a 9-volt, transistor-type battery. The most durable replacements are the 'long-life' batteries sold for cameras or portable radios. Under normal use, most transmitters will operate satisfactorily for one year or longer before fresh batteries are needed."

NEW YORK (AP) — Got a clogged downspout at your house? Some of the tricks for clearing them are tapping on the length of the spout, using a hose, and routing or driving the clog out.

For the tapping method, tap along the vertical length of the metal. Use enough force to dislodge minor obstructions but not so much that the metal is damaged.

If this doesn't work, try dropping a hose into the downspout as far as it will go, then turn on the water full force.

Or attach fire chains or something similarly heavy to a strong rope and drop it into the downspout from the top.

Repeat several times, then pour water into the top of the spout to see whether it goes through.

Remember: the chains must be dropped into the downspout, not lowered.

As a last resort, use one of the augers that usually are utilized to clean out stoppages in sink drains.

It must be emphasized that this job must be undertaken by someone who has had some experience in working at heights with ladders. If the top of the downspout did not have a cone-shaped mesh screen over it to keep out debris, install one.

Q. — There are several places on one side of our house which require patching. The material is stucco. The areas that need patching are very small, some no larger than a half dollar. What do I use to make the patches?

A. — Get one of the ready-mixed materials usually called "sand mixes" or make your own from one part of portland cement to three parts of clean sand. Use a hammer and cold chisel to remove all parts of the stucco that are not adhering firmly. Do not disturb that which is solidly attached. Undercut each gap; that is make the opening at the bottom wider than it is at the top, a procedure that locks the new material in place. Wet the opening thoroughly, then apply the sand mix with a trowel.

If a rough finish is needed to blend the surrounding surface, allow the patch to harden for just a few minutes, then go over it with a wooden float. Since stucco finishes vary considerably, you will have to decide whether the wooden float does the job or whether it will be necessary to use a whisk broom, brush or sponge to get the desired effect. If the opening is quite deep, apply the patching material in two operations. Fill the gap the first time to within an eighth of an inch from the surface, let it alone for two or three days, then finish the job. In all cases, the patch should be wet down twice a day for several days.

Q. — What kind of adhesive should I use when gluing together two pieces of foam rubber?

A. — Use a regular rubber cement. If the bond is to be under any tension, use two coats of cement, allowing the first to dry thoroughly before applying the second. The resulting bond will be stronger than the foam itself.

Q. — We bought a very old house and would like to restore it, but are having a hard time finding materials that are in the mold of the period between 1875 and 1900. Can you help?

A. — There are hundreds of companies that specialize in the sale of products for very old houses. Try writing to The Old House Journal, 159 Berkeley Pl., Brooklyn, N.Y. 11217. It puts out a buyers' guide listing such companies.

Women Can Make Home Repairs With 'Recipe' Book

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Women are more mechanically inclined than they may realize, says a long-time professional house repair expert, Alvain Ubell of Brooklyn. He was discussing why women shy away from certain repair jobs.

"Macrame, knitting, cooking and using household utensils provide women with a digital dexterity that is a mechanical plus, although they may not be aware of it. Being mechanical is really environmental. You must be involved," he explained.

A woman often hesitates to do something because she knows she doesn't have the background, but men often psyche themselves into being heroes doing things they aren't equipped to do. He will do something to show he isn't afraid, but actually he should be, Ubell contends.

In his 25 years in the construction business, as a house inspector conducting 1,500 or so inspections a year, and as a lecturer and author, Ubell has found that the biggest fears of do-it-yourselfers concern electricity.

"Anyone who works on electricity must have a basic understanding of what he is doing. But once you understand what you are doing you will have enough confidence to do a job knowing that you are not going to get hurt. The most important consideration is learning how to do it."

Homemakers are also concerned with problems involving contractors, he has learned at his lectures. People want to know all about how to deal with house contractors, heating problems, how a house ticks generally, he says.

In his book, "Recipes for Home Repairs," written with Sam Bittman, he has tried to provide directions for every conceivable house ailment within the scope of the do-it-yourselfer's talents. If you can follow recipes in a cookbook, you can understand how to follow the home repair recipes, he insists.

More than a hundred repair formulas include those for sticking windows, squeaking floors, foundation cracks, brick work, condensation on cold water pipes, door buzzers, cracked floor tiles. In his opinion the most important information in the book is his flush valve diagnostic chart. This provides symptom, diagnosis and cure.

Some repairs may be of special interest to women—for example, how to remove a broken light bulb, always a ticklish problem. The first step requires turning off the electricity. The broken bulb is grasped with a folded newspaper and removed. If nothing is left of the bulb, a 6 to 8-inch piece of wood, one-half-inch square, may be used. After carving a point at the end of it with a pocketknife, the stick is inserted and wedged there by tapping it with a blunt edge of a hammer. When the stick is secure, it should be turned counterclockwise to remove what remains of the bulb.

In using the cookbook setup, the repairs have been assembled with a list of utensils and ingredients, a step-by-step solution and the average time it should take to do the project. Rattling windows should be quieted in 30 to 45 minutes, a torn screen might be repaired in 15 minutes.

Squeak in a floor? Years of squeakiness could be ended in 30 minutes, if you are lucky. Equip yourself with a flat, thin chisel, a hammer, broom, vacuum cleaner and talcum

ACTIVITIES AFFECT CLIMATE Man Is Doing Something

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) — A University of California research team says man's activities could have a radical effect on the earth's climate, ranging from making the world warmer to making it cold enough to set off a new ice age.

The team's computer experiments at UC's Lawrence Livermore Laboratory show that current efforts at widespread clearing of tropical jungles could cause temperatures to drop and rainfall to decrease around the planet.

World-wide average temperatures would drop about a third of a degree if widespread tropical vegetation is stripped and more open land uncovered, the researchers said. That may seem insignificant, they pointed out, but in Iceland it was less than a degree and a half down from statistically normal temperatures that generated a "little ice age" that froze Europe 300 years ago.

The experiments also show, however, that loading the atmosphere with carbon dioxide through continued burning of such fossil fuels as coal and oil, tends to make earth warmer, the team reported in the British scientific journal Nature.

Now, the researchers said, the world's average temperature is only seven to 10 degrees warmer than it was 5,000 years ago — when the great ice age covered most of the northern hemisphere.

They reasoned that since green equatorial jungles absorb the sun's warming rays and keep the atmosphere moist, clearing jungles would reflect the sun's energy back to space and cause less recycling of moisture warming.

As a result, they said, rainfall would decrease by a half-inch a year in the north temperate zone and as much as eight inches a year at the equator.

The scientists stressed that while computer models are fallible, the trends up or down are likely to prove correct.

Meteorologist Hugh W. Ellis, a member of the group, said the changes in global climate from widespread jungle clearing would be counterbalanced by the continued burning of fossil fuels.

Ellis said that if the pace of fossil fuel burning continues to rise in the next century, many scientists believe the pileup of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere would double, causing temperatures to rise by at least 2½ degrees.

Were it not for that warming influence, he said, jungle clearing might well be enough to trigger expansion of the polar ice caps and start a new ice age.

The researchers conceded that their conclusions are highly speculative, but they claimed that major changes are actually occurring in earth's climate now, and they can be measured precisely.

From 1890 to 1940, they said, average temperatures in the northern hemisphere rose more than a degree as the earth warmed, but since 1940 the northern temperatures have dropped nearly three-quarters of a degree, and the down-trend continues.

GREEK TIES WARMING UP

Murder Jolts Yank Envoys

ATHENS (AP) — The assassination of Richard Welch, said to be the top Central Intelligence Agency operative in Greece, has jolted Americans who have been working to improve the sour U.S.-Greek relations of the past 18 months.

Officials of both countries, however, for the time being regard Welch's murder as an isolated incident not likely to upset the process of rebuilding relations. As a precaution, top-ranking diplomats in the U.S. Embassy are receiving special police protection.

A Greek government official said Welch, gunned down by three masked men as he returned from a Christmas party Tuesday night, appeared to have been "a very special target ... his killers apparently knew him, were aware of his movements."

Welch, officially described as a U.S. Embassy official, has been identified in the Greek press and by sources in Washington as the Athens station chief of the CIA.

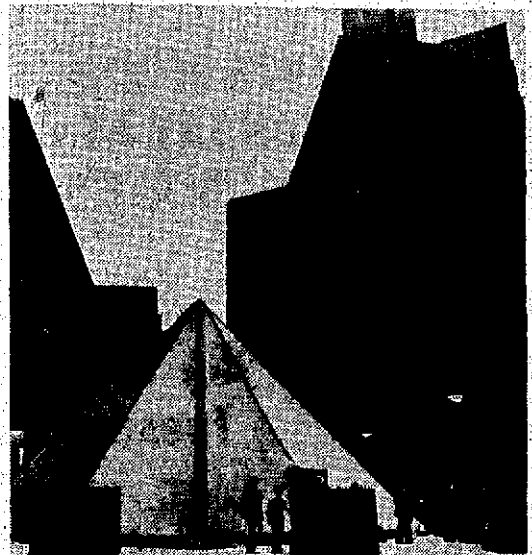

A friend of Mrs. Welch said the couple felt secure in Greece compared with Peru, Welch's previous assignment.

"Dick didn't take any unusual security precautions because he felt safe here in comparison to Latin America," the friend said.

Only recently had relations between Washington and Athens begun to thaw from the freeze of 1974. Americans at that time were subjected to insults and abuse from Greeks who accused the United States of having propped up the 1967-74 Greek dictatorship and of backing Turkey in the Cyprus dispute.

The civilian government that took over from the military in 1974 ordered a cutback in American television programs and movies. Joint cultural events were halted, because Greeks refused to participate and Americans feared their artworks would be damaged.

But events this year in both Washington and Athens have been credited by Greeks with bringing a thaw. They included the efforts in Congress to halt the flow of U.S. arms to Turkey and the low profile adopted by the new U.S. ambassador, Jack Kubisch, to remove suspicion of American meddling in Greek affairs.

PUBLIC WIGWAM occupies the downtown San Francisco area where the Arica Institute, Inc., a mediation society, pitched it and encourages passers-by to stop in and take-five for whatever reason.

"Kubisch has succeeded by keeping out of the picture," said a Greek official who complained that during the dictatorship some Americans were too cozy with junta members.

Woman Facing Pair Of Charges

PAW PAW — A Paw Paw woman was ordered held on bond totaling $6,000 Wednesday after demanding preliminary examination in Van Buren Seventh district court on charges of resisting arrest and larceny in a building.

A hearing for Robin D. Stanfill, 22, also known as Robin Burke, 216 Drew, Paw Paw, was scheduled for Wednesday.

According to Van Buren sheriff's deputies, Mrs. Stanfill allegedly assaulted Officer Ken Anderson of the Lawton police and Deputies Bryan Stump and David Goddard Tuesday night while they were attempting to book her at the Van Buren county jail on the larceny charge.

Deputies said the altercation began when Mrs. Stanfill became abusive after being told she could not use the telephone until processing was completed.

She had been arrested earlier in the evening on the larceny charge, which grew out of the theft of a purse containing $76 from Madelyn Randall of Lawton at King's Tavern, Lawton.

In another case, Josephus Calhoun, 19, 12 West Bangor street, Bangor, demanded preliminary examination on a charge of assaulting a police officer. He was released on his own recognizance pending a Wednesday hearing.

He also pleaded innocent to charges of fleeing and eluding a police officer, driving under the influence of intoxicants, and failure to have a valid driver's license growing out of the same case.

Calhoun was arrested by sheriff's deputies early Wednesday morning at the Bangor city limits, after Hartford police had reported chasing a vehicle from Hartford after it had ran a red light.

During the chase, the driver of the pursued car allegedly tried to ram a Bangor police car which had come to the aid of the Hartford unit.

Officials Believe Distress Signals May Be A Hoax

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Coast Guard said this morning that radio signals received Thursday night reporting a cabin cruiser in trouble on Lake Erie may have been a hoax.

But a Coast Guard spokesman said a cutter in the area would continue searching, and would be joined by a helicopter if weather permitted.

Gale force winds were reported on the lake this morning and near-bizzard conditions before dawn hampered the search.

The spokesman at Coast Guard regional headquarters here said a radio signal claiming to be from the vessel, which ham radio operators had been monitoring, ceased at 2:20 a.m.

The Federal Communications Commission attempted to obtain a radio fix on the signal and tentatively placed it nearly a hundred miles inland — near Zanesville, Ohio — making officials suspect a hoax. The Coast Guard said there was a chance the fix could be wrong and so they were proceeding with the search.

The signals identified the boat in distress only as 25-foot cruiser with Ohio registration. The signals radiated late Thursday that the boat had 10 persons aboard and was taking water. The signals later said the boat's condition had stabilized and that it was no longer taking water.

The Coast Guard could offer no explanation what the vessel might be doing on the lake, which is frozen in places. The signals reported it was near Pelee Island in Canadian waters.

The Coast Guard buoy tender Mariposa, a 180-foot cutter, reached the area early today, but reported no sign of the vessel.

A 44-foot Coast Guard launch from Marblehead at the tip of Sandusky Bay in Ohio was also set out for the area, but turned back when it ran into ice several inches thick and poor visibility.

The Coast Guard spokesman said the major problem in communications was that the signal was being sent in Morse code through a ham operator in Chicago. Ham operators in Cleveland and other cities reported hearing the signals, as did the Mariposa.

The spokesman said the person sending the messages was apparently "not too proficient" at Morse code and many of the messages were coming through garbled.

The Coast Guard said the vessel's registration number, received from the garbled transmissions, was incomplete, and that efforts to identify the boat had been unsuccessful.

A Coast Guard helicopter from Detroit searched the area Thursday night and reported sighting something which might have been the vessel, but was forced to head back because of poor weather.

Beauty Shop Blast Kills 1, Hurts 4

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — One man was killed and at least four others were injured Friday when a can of gasoline exploded in a beauty salon in Muskegon Township.

Police said the blast apparently occurred when the men entered the beauty salon with a plastic pail full of gasoline. The men were working on the carburetor of a car parked outside the building, officials said.

Investigators said the bottom of the pail apparently fell out, splashing the gasoline on the floor. Vapors from the gas were ignited by the pilot light of a wall heater, touching off the explosion, officials speculated.

At least one of the injured men was reported burned seriously. He was flown to the University of Michigan Burn Center in Ann Arbor for treatment. Identification of the dead man was withheld pending notification of his family.

Copper Layoffs Blasted By Ruppe

WHITE PINE, Mich. (AP) — The planned layoff of some 2,100 of the White Pine Copper Co.'s 2,800 workers will be disastrous for the employees, their families and their communities, a Michigan congressman said Friday.

Rep. Philip Ruppe, a Republican, said Friday's notice of the firm's action "demonstrates how wrong the antitrust division of the Justice Department was" in getting an injunction blocking the proposed merger of the company and Amax, Inc.

Homemade Bomb Is Detonated

WILLOW SPRINGS, Ill. (AP) — A homemade bomb was found behind a travel agency only minutes after more than 1,000 bargain hunters were evacuated from the crowded Willow Spring Shopping Center in this Chicago suburb.

Post-Christmas sales were in full swing at the center Friday when an anonymous telephone caller with a heavy accent told a clerk at the Easy Way Travel Agency that a bomb would explode at 5 p.m.

Sgt. Robert Scruggs of the Cook County sheriff's police found the bomb hidden between the travel agency and a fence. Scruggs drove to a pistol range, a five-minute ride, with the bomb in his car then detonated it with a blasting cap. The result, said Willow Springs Police Chief Michael Corbitt, was "a hell of a blast."

State Pays 'Forest Tax'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State grants totaling more than $270,000 have been mailed to 55 counties as "taxes" on privately owned commercial forests open to the public, the Department of Natural Resources said Friday.

The state payments to the counties, supplementing those made by land owners, are 25 cents an acre. The state pays the taxes on more than a million acres of commercial forest land.

Land owners pay 15 cents an acre and a percentage of the value of timber harvested from the land. The forests are then open to public hunting and fishing.

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A report by the General Accounting Office says three agencies that regulate the nation's banks indulge in "wasteful and lavish spending" of tax dollars, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today.

Proxmire, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, said the report by the government watchdog agency says officials of the Federal Reserve Board, the office of the comptroller of the currency and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., "live high off the hog" compared to employees of other government agencies.

The senator said the GAO report showed expenditures for such things as office space, travel and furniture to be out of line with the amounts spent by similar regulatory agencies.

A spokesman for the comptroller's office said officials there had not seen the GAO report or Proxmire's statement, but he concluded that Proxmire's "observations and calculations are either based on incomplete information or are misrepresentations of data furnished voluntarily by us to the GAO."

Officials of the other agencies had no comment.

Proxmire, sponsoring legislation to consolidate the three regulatory agencies, said the three now spend $137 million each year.

Proxmire said the GAO report shows:

— "The Federal Reserve Board spends nearly $6,000 per employee for office space for its Washington employees. This is six times the amount spent by the Securities and Exchange Commission."

— "Washington employees of the comptroller of the currency enjoy almost twice the amount of space compared to employees of other regulatory agencies with comparable responsibilities."

— "In 1974, the Federal Reserve Board spent over $3,000 per employee for furniture, fixtures and equipment for each Washington employee. This is 10 times the amount spent by the agency that regulates credit unions.

— "The award for junketing goes to the Washington office of the comptroller of the currency. Travel costs per employee in 1974 were almost $1,300. This is more than three times the amount spent by the SEC and more than double the amount spent by the FDIC."

Proxmire said "these lavish expenditures for space, travel and furniture are not surprising" since the three agencies are outside the regular budget process and do not have to come to Congress for their money.

Aliens Required To Make Report

Aliens in the United States are required to report their addresses to the attorney general during January, according to Armand J. Salutrelli, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, Detroit.

With few exceptions, aliens who are in the U.S. on Jan. 1 each year must report their addresses by the end of that month. Only the following two classes of aliens are excused from this requirement:

- 1 - Accredited diplomats.
- 2 - Persons accredited to certain international organizations.

Furnish with which to make the report can be obtained from any post office or Immigration and Naturalization Service office during January.

Salutrelli said the law provides severe penalties for failure to comply with the reporting requirement.

By Bert Bacharach

EVER SO MANY people seek counsel on how to tip. Advice is more needed, I feel, by those on the receiving end. Too many of them seem to forget that tipping is a reward, not an obligation. Good service pays off — poor service doesn't. It's as simple as that.

Our Confusing Language: shriek, sheik, sleek, speak, pique. Graphologists say a smaller signature than the rest of the writing shows someone who feels a little inadequate and seeks reassurance. A psychiatrist says if your favorite fairy tale is "Little Miss Muffet," you like things in familiar places. Strange or unexpected problems cause you tremendous stress. Folklore: "If you kill a spider, it will rain." Map-reading (animal roundup): Elk Point, S.D.; Hungry Horse, Mont.; Deer Ark, Ermine, Ky.; Gazelle, Calif.; Red Lion, Pa. — and does Redd Foxx know there's a Red Fox, Ky.?

Inflation Note: "A quarter for your thoughts."

only once slice next week. I have made a notation in my little red book that Dec. 26 is Mao Tse-tung's birthday. While the nation will be marking its 200th birthday next year, Rothmann's inn, East Norwich, L.I., will be marking its 244th birthday! Overworked Expression: "How does that grab you?" Famous Last Words: "I'll put you on hold, sir, and I'll remember to put you through to Mr. Smith as soon as he is finished talking."

KITCHEN-SNOOPING: If you like just a little laurel-flavoring, use whole leaves and remove them after the first cooking stages, before seasoning is corrected for serving (The Gaslight clubs). Hot stewed prune and brown rice make a tasty side dish for pot roast (Concord hotel, Kiamnesia Lake). A tasty way to prepare leftover frankfurters: split franks lengthwise and place atop English muffin halves. Top with Cheddar slices and bake in oven till cheese melts and muffin edges are crisp. (Mrs. B's Kitchen).

SMATTERING OF SIGNS: The Gemini husband, is not inclined to "help around the house," not does he want any part of disciplining the children. Taurus is mostly concerned about his possessions — such as property, furnishings for the home, clothes and his bank balance. Aquarius is the sign of brotherhood, and tolerance and natives of this sign have a strong sense of responsibility to others.

Today In History

By Associated Press

Today is Saturday, Dec. 27th, the 361st day in 1975. There are four days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1949, Queen Juliana of the Netherlands signed an act granting sovereignty to Indonesia after nearly 350 years of Dutch rule.

On this date: In 1571, the pioneer German astronomer, Johannes Kepler, was born in Wurttemberg.

In 1822, the scientist known as the founder of preventive medicine, Louis Pasteur, was born in the French city of Dole.

In 1900, prohibitionist Carrie Nation staged her first raid on a saloon, smashing bottles at a bar in Wichita, Kan.

In 1944, in World War II, an American tank column smashed across the German bulge in Belgium and relieved U.S. troops who had been under siege at Bastogne.

In 1945, after World War II, the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union announced they would govern Korea as joint trustees for five years, then grant independence.

In 1906, a rally of 100,000 Red Guards in Peking denounced China's President Liu Shao-chi.

Ten years ago: An oil drilling rig collapsed in the North Sea off Yorkshire, England, and 13 of the 32 aboard were killed.

Five years ago: A Finnish tanker split in two in a North Atlantic storm. Six crewmen were lost.

One year ago: The prosecution completed its final arguments in the Watergate cover-up trial.

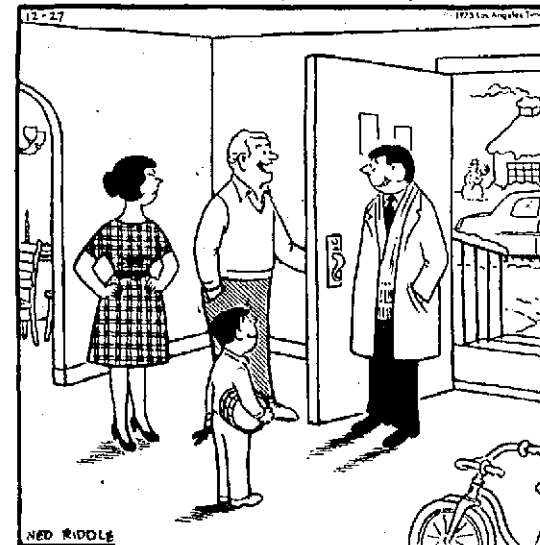

Today's birthdays: Marlene Dietrich is 71 years old. Former Marine commandant Wallace Greene is 68.

Thought for today: When there is a lack of honor in government, the morals of the whole people are poisoned — President Herbert Hoover.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the King's post office closed in Philadelphia. The New York post office had closed on Christmas Day.

PRISON DAMAGE: New Hampshire state prison officials inspect damage done to prison kitchen at Concord during inmate disturbance Christmas Day. Kitchen was ransacked, and a cell block heavily damaged. (AP Wirephoto)

Uprising Quickly Quelled At New Hampshire Prison

CONCORD N.H. (AP) — Inmates at New Hampshire State prison seized hostages and set fires after prison officials refused a demand that those being held in disciplinary confinement be allowed out for a Christmas meal.

The hostages escaped without serious injury, and the inmates returned to their cells after spending hours in an open courtyard in near-zero temperatures. But the disturbance Thursday left half the cells unusable and the kitchen and dining hall heavily damaged.

The disturbance began after some 140 inmates in the dining hall demanded that the fewer than 20 prisoners confined for disciplinary reasons be allowed to join them, prison officials said. The demand was rejected. Gross said the inmates refused to leave the dining hall, took "three or four" prison employees hostage and later stormed the main cellblock. Some inmates began setting the fires while others overturned tables and ransacked the kitchen and dining hall.

State police were called in and fired tear gas into the cellblock, forcing the inmates — some armed with eating utensils — into the open, snow-covered courtyard. Gross said there was no "direct confrontation" between the police and inmates.

The hostages managed to escape when the prisoners stormed into the main cellblock and police fired tear gas, prison officials said. One hostage, the prison steward, suffered cuts. A hospital spokesman said another prison employee and a fireman were treated for minor injuries.

The inmates began returning to their cells Thursday night after spending more than five hours isolated in the open courtyard.

"It was obvious that these guys were cold, shocked and really wanted no part of any more disturbances," said Martin Gross, a prison spokesman.

Gross said it would be some time before the kitchen and dining area could be used again. He said 135 of 249 cells in the main cellblock were heavily damaged by smoke and water and could not be used.

The prison has about 280 inmates, but some were believed on holiday furlough.

Ford Combines Work, Fun

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Facing paperwork flown here from Washington, President Ford is moving into the homestretch of his skiing vacation with 28 bills still awaiting his approval or rejection. Although an Air Force courier flight brought analyses of the legislation and other materials to Colorado Friday, Ford hoped to continue spending at least as much time skiing today as working. Making a run down 11,000-foot Vail Mountain Friday for the benefit of television, newspaper and magazine photographers, the President suffered the embarrassment of a spill within camera range. But Ford was quickly back up on his skis without assistance and was unshaken.

May Try New Hampshire Snow

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President Ford may go skiing in New Hampshire as part of a campaign trip for the Republican presidential primary there, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen says. Nessen said Ford had chatted about the trip with aides Christmas night. The press secretary said the skiing would not be to seek votes — "It would be for enjoyment." Whatever the announced purpose, it certainly would be a campaign event. It also might undo any lingering hard feelings about Nessen's joking comment this fall that Ford doesn't take his ski vacations in New Hampshire because the trails there often are icy.

Soviets Eying Germ Warfare?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union is stepping up efforts to produce lethal germs in apparent violation of a United Nations agreement against biological warfare, columnist Jack Anderson reports. Citing "top intelligence sources," Anderson said a Washington-based Soviet diplomat specializing in medical matters has attempted to obtain "suspicious information" from at least three U.S. government scientists. The Anderson account said Dr. Vyacheslav F. Stepanov, medical counselor at the Soviet Embassy, learned of an American symposium on so-called genetic engineering and later "began courting some of the U.S. scientists who had attended."

Beirut Clashes Continue

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Rockets and mortar shells blasted Beirut today, but politicians were reported nearing agreement on a formula to settle Lebanon's civil war. Street clashes raged unabated in downtown business centers and the seaside hotel areas of Beirut. Shells whistled past hundreds of high-rise apartment buildings overnight. Police spokesmen said at least 36 persons were killed and 66 wounded in overnight fighting. Hospitals issued fresh appeals for blood donations as firemen battled a dozen blazes caused by explosions.

$1.05 Million Not Enough

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman who received $1.05 million and $2,400 monthly child support in a divorce settlement is suing her lawyers, saying they did not adequately represent her. Barbara Franzheim asked for $4.5 million from Levert J. Able and Toni F. Coleman Jr., who represented her in her 1973 divorce from Kenneth Franzheim II, a Houston oilman and former ambassador to New Zealand. She since has married Danny Droe, an investor. Her new attorneys, State Sen. A. R. "Babe" Schwartz and Herbert N. Lockman, filed the suit Friday in state district court. The suit seeks $4 million in damages and $800,000 in attorney fees.

MICHIGAN

Against Department Moves

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Sen. Earl Nelson said Friday the state Senate would not pass bills allowing the Departments of Labor and Commerce to move to a secondary office complex outside Lansing. Nelson and three other lawmakers urged in a news conference that other state offices that do not have "day-to-day contact with the public" be transferred to the $10.5-million complex, which is about seven miles from the Capitol. "When the public wants to find state government offices, they ought to be able to without a map with a directory," said Rep. David Hollister of Lansing. Hollister said persons would need such a map if the labor and commerce departments were moved.

Five Planets To Be Visible

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Five planets will be visible in the early January sky, says Michigan State University astronomer Robert Victor. Four of the Milky Way's nine planets — Mercury, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn — can be seen simultaneously in the early evening. But Venus, the fifth planet, won't be visible until just before sunrise, Victor says. Jupiter, the brightest of the five, will be high in the southern sky at dusk while dull-orange Mars will be high in the east. Saturn will rise in the east-northeast at twilight and Mercury will be low in the southwest sky about 45 minutes after sunset, he said. Venus will rise in the southeast about two hours before sunrise, Victor said.

Pair Named On Panel

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Elsa Rosa of Grand Rapids and Jamie de La Isla of Detroit were named Friday to a 17-member panel which advises the state Board of Education on services for Michigan's Spanish-speaking students. Rosa, bilingual project coordinator for the Grand Rapids school district, and de La Isla, professor of Mexican and Puerto Rican studies at Wayne State University, were named to the La Raza Citizen's Advisory Committee. The committee helped the board plan its bilingual education program mandated by law to begin last September. The program is not expected to start until next September because of a lack of funding.

Pay Raise Plans Dropped

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken and a special legislative committee have dropped plans to recommend pay raises for unclassified state employees. Earlier, Milliken and the committee agreed to seek the raises for the current year for 19 department heads and nearly 100 persons not covered by the state's classified system. Those covered by the system receive periodic pay hikes. The unclassified employees have not received raises for four years.

Hartford Fatal Fire Blamed On Kitchen Range

By DICK DERRICK

HARTFORD — Fire that claimed the life of Terry Vaughn, 21, of route 1, Red Arrow highway, early Friday, apparently started in the kitchen possibly from the kitchen range, Fire Chief Harold Walker said today.

Walker said one of the burners on the electric stove was in the "on" position. Walker added the stove has not been definitely established as the cause.

Vaughn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Vaughn, was pronounced dead at the scene of the fire by Dr. Otto Lorenz, of South Haven, Van Buren county deputy medical examiner.

Vaughn's body was discovered near a door leading to a porch of the two-story, wood structure. Walker said it appeared the victim had attempted to flee the blaze but was overcome.

Hartford firemen were called to the Vaughn residence at 6:30 a.m. Friday and found the building engulfed in flames. Firemen remained at the scene until 11:30 a.m.

Three units of the Hartford fire department and a tanker from the Lawrence fire department fought the blaze.

Terry Vaughn was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Vaughn. The parents were away at the time of the fire and returned Friday evening from a vacation trip in the south.

Mr. Vaughn had attended Hartford high school.

Surviving in addition to his parents are two sisters, Mrs. Denny (Susan) Shelton, Hartford and Michelle Vaughn, at home and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Powers, Donaphin, Mo.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in Calvin funeral home, Hartford, where friends may call after 7 this evening. Burial will be in Maple Hill cemetery, Hartford.

"The thing I see in the over-40 woman," said Dr. Kershul, "is that society is beginning to tell them they have choices outside the home. Now they're asking themselves, 'What shall I do with my life? Should I get a job? Go back to school?'"

"Married women in this age group find it hard to make such decisions. All their lives they've had parents or husbands who more or less tell them what to do. Now they can't act without first getting approval from someone else."

F&M Blaze

Deputy John Gast reported he talked with Anderson Friday while he was investigating the Christmas day blaze. According to Gast's report, Anderson stated he believed the fire originated through "human error" and "probably" a Christmas candle left burning was the cause.

Flames extensively damaged the teller's counter area and caused smoke and heat damage throughout the bank.

Anderson, who is stationed at the state police post at Paw Paw, was not available for comment this morning.

SMOKING STUDIO: Firemen inspect one of two sound stages at Samuel Goldwyn studios in Los Angeles after early-morning fire caused damage estimated at $3 million. Fire was discovered by security guard shortly after 3 a.m. Thursday. One of destroyed sound stages was the set for television series "Cannon." (AP Wirephoto)

Yule Fire Destroys 2 TV Sound Stages

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Christmas day fire destroyed two sound stages and caused an estimated $3 million damage at the Samuel Goldwyn studios here.

The blaze broke on a sound stage where the television series "Cannon" is filmed and destroyed it and another sound stage before more than 140 firemen were able to control it. One fireman suffered minor injuries and was released after treatment.

Fire Department spokesman Ray Bartlett said the fire apparently started in a corner where camera equipment was stored. "The building was old, with dry wood...good material for burning," he said.

The fire, the second at the 10-acre studios in two years, was discovered by a guard about 3 a.m. only a few feet from the studio burned in a March 1974 fire.

"It's very unusual that another fire broke out here," said studio manager Jack Foreman. "We've used every safety precaution against fire."

Police were investigating the cause of the blaze, and a spokesman said arson had not been discounted.

A representative of Quinn Martin Productions said it would take a month to replace interior sets for its "Cannon" series but the shooting schedule should not be affected.

Crossing Reinacted

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Washington has crossed the Delaware again.

George Washington's Christmas crossing of the river between New Jersey and Pennsylvania 199 years ago was reenacted here Thursday before 2,000 spectators.

About 75 persons took part in the event. Clad in brightly colored colonial garb, they steered three 40-foot rowboats past chunks of ice and through light snow to the site north of Trenton where Washington's forces landed. The trip took 10 minutes.

But just for fun, on Monday we'll consider the original 202-program list in PBS' program catalogue and see what we'd buy — or reject — were we in charge of a public TV station.

Public TV 'Shopping List' Eyed

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — In late February, public TV stations will tell the Public Broadcasting Service which of 84 shows or series they'd help finance next season under PBS' station program cooperative plan.

The plan gives stations the chance to put such shows on national TV by sharing the cost of them. If too many stations decline to put their backs behind a given opus, it's dropped from the program cooperative catalogue after a series of "bidding" rounds.

More than 200 program proposals were in the 1976-77 catalogue when the first bidding round began. The number will drop from the current 84 — which would cost a total of $42 million — in February's final round.

The drop will be large, if past experience is any guide.

When the final round of program-buying for the current season ended early this year, public TV stations had bought only 38 shows or series through the cooperative for a total cost of $16.5 million, PBS says.

They amounted to about half of PBS' national schedule for 1975-76; corporate, foundation and federal funds paid for the other programs.

Of the 84 shows facing the February finale for next season, 30 are from the major public TV centers on the East Coast — 10 shows from New York, 12 from Boston and eight from Washington, D.C.

Stations WTTW in Chicago and KCET in Los Angeles also are strongly represented; each has eight program proposals in the running.

As usual, New York's WNET is heavy on public affairs offerings and programs of opera, serious drama and dance aimed at keeping TV's cultural flame lit. In short, high and middlebrow goodies.

Boston's WGBH-TV offers more of a mixed bag, ranging from "Crockett's Victory Garden" to a renewed "Evening at Symphony" to a new satirical series called "Mother's Little Network."

Washington's WETA, the National Public Affairs Center for Television, or both, offers shows ranging from a black film series to special events coverage to the venerable "Washington Week in Review."

Los Angeles' KCET, whose list includes a Henry Mancini music series, a package of 10 classic films and a Bicentennial series, is trying to enter the let's-be-serious public TV ring in a big way.

It's offering "The Age of Anxiety," 13 one-hour programs hosted by economist John Kenneth Galbraith. He'll have at what KCET calls "the history and crisis of industrial society."

In Chicago, WTTW's offerings ranged from a renewal of the "Soundstage" pop music series to a consumer series on 1977-model cars. One proposal, if accepted, should particularly delight all students of comedy.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Abu Dhabi has invited the oil ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to resume their interrupted Vienna meeting in the Persian Gulf emirate in February, the Saudi Arabian radio reported today.

The broadcast said the purpose of the invitation was to enable OPEC's ministerial council to resume the oil pricing discussion interrupted by the terrorist attack on OPEC's Vienna headquarters last Sunday.

Denby, Saginaw Add Flavor To St. Joseph Tournament

The menu for next week's St. Joseph Holiday Tournament has all the makings of a real feast for southwestern Michigan basketball fans.

Host St. Joseph is unbeaten and off to its best start in 16 seasons, and Benton Harbor appears back on the winning trail after upending Detroit Southeastern Tuesday night.

Add outstate powers Saginaw, once-beaten and the defending champ of the St. Joe tourney, and undefeated Detroit Denby, which features 6-11 Stuart House — considered by many to be the best high school center in Michigan, and you've got enough goodies to whet the appetites of most fans.

St. Joe, (6-0) takes on Benton Harbor (2-3) in their traditional tourney opener at 8:30 p.m. Monday in the Bear gym, after Saginaw (4-1) faces tournament newcomer Denby (5-0) in the first game. The championship game is set for 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, following the consolation game between Monday's losers.

"It should be a tremendous tournament," declares Benton Harbor coach Earl McKee. "We are the worst team (record basis) in the tournament. But I think we can play better than what our record implies. We aren't as bad as things seem...we could be 5-0."

Benton Harbor features 6-4 senior Russell Steele, southwestern Michigan's second leading scorer with a 25.6 average; 5-9 senior Ray Thompson, who is averaging 18.8 per game; and 6-4 senior Bennie Bowers, a rebounding standout.

St. Joseph will counter with 6-5 junior Dale Wright (18.5), 6-0 senior Cory Benford (13.5), 5-10 senior Mike Collier (12.0) and 6-2 senior Dave Ziebart (10.5).

Bear coach George Gaunder sees rebounding as the key aspect of the game for his squad. "They are always tough rebounding and always tough on those second and third shots," explains the veteran mentor. "We've got to react to the situation and block out."

If rebounding concerns Gaunder, McKee must be somewhat worried over St. Joe's field goal and free throw shooting. The Bears are hitting 46 per cent from the floor and 75 per cent from the lines.

"We have to have our board strength against St. Joe," adds McKee. "They are going to match us in every other department. We've got to keep our turnovers down and rebound to stay in the game."

St. Joe also appears to have a shortage of depth, so McKee would like to see the Bear starters get into foul trouble. "We are going to make it an aggressive game and see what happens...and hope they do get into foul trouble."

Mike Tinberg, a 6-3½ junior, appears about ready following being sidelined with a knee injury and could provide some bench strength for St. Joe.

But neither St. Joe or Benton Harbor appears as powerful as the Tars from Detroit Denby, which has 6-7 Rudy Watley to go along with the 6-11 House.

House, who set a school record with a 43-point game earlier this month, is averaging 33 points and more than 20 rebounds per game.

Denby coach Robert Shannon has seen some of the good ones the Detroit area has produced over the years, including Spencer Haywood, Lindsay Hairston, Mel Daniels and Reggie Harding, and says: "At this point in his career I rate him (House) at least as high...the best big fella I've seen here."

Watley is averaging 12 points and 15 rebounds per game. He missed the first part of last season with a broken leg, but upon his return, the Tars won 12 in a row before losing in the Class A regional finals. Another Denby standout is 6-2 James Newman, who is averaging 21 points per game.

"This team has the potential to be an excellent ball club," concludes Shannon, "but we have some improving to do."

Saginaw coach Charles Coles also sees the possibilities of big things for his club, declaring that his Trojans have the "potential to be among the top five teams in the state."

Saginaw comes to the tourney hot off a win over Highland Park, the defending Class A state champion.

Leading the Trojans is 6-5 senior Paul Roby, who is averaging more than 15 points per game. Putting spark into the offense with his nifty passes has been 5-3 senior Billy Ware.

There will also be a jayvee tourney held at Benton Harbor high school in conjunction with the varsity event. Junior varsity action starts at 1:30 p.m. Monday with Benton Harbor meeting St. Joseph, followed at 3:15 with Saginaw facing Denby. The losers play at 1:30 Tuesday and the winners follow in the championship game.

Bucks Tip Tough Lakers

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

BUCHANAN — Lake Michigan Catholic coach Al Nixon almost took a bow here Friday night.

Nixon said all week long that his Lakers had a chance to beat Class C power Buchanan. And only a frigid third quarter kept Lake Michigan from accomplishing that goal before a packed house of almost 1,800 fans here in the Buchanan Holiday Tournament Friday night.

In the end Buchanan prevailed 63-55, but not before the Lakers threw a scare into the unbeaten Bucks. River Valley jolted Berrien Springs 60-49 in the second game.

Buchanan battles River Valley in the championship here at 8:45 p.m. tonight. Lake Michigan faces Berrien Springs in the 7 p.m. consolation game.

The win was the seventh straight for the Bucks, while the Lakers fell to 6-2. It was of little solace to Nixon that it was Buchanan's closest win this year.

"A couple of breaks one way or another and this one could have been ours," Nixon said. "We felt all along that we could stay with Buchanan. It's really disappointing to know that if we had eliminated our mistakes we might have won. They were fundamental mistakes that we don't normally make."

The play of 6-6 Buchanan center Ken Garrett and the Vanderbush brothers, Walt and Kevin, proved to be too much for Lake Michigan, to overcome in the long run. Garrett wrestled his way to 20 points and 15 rebounds with eight of each coming, respectively, in the decisive third quarter.

Walt Vanderbush added 14 points and Kevin chipped in 13. Kevin started in place of 6-5 forward standout Mike Busby, who has been out all week with the flu. The sub-par Busby played less than half the contest and scored just six points.

Super-sub Don Altie provided his usual spark, coming off the bench to toss in 15 points, tops for the Lakers. George Welch added 14 and Tom Flood 10. The Lake Michigan slowdown

Texas' Akins Will Start; Sun Devils Dump Huskers

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas and Colorado meet today in the 17th Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl, and Longhorns coach Darrell Royal says Marty Akins, a question mark the past week because of a troublesome right knee, definitely will start at quarterback.

"Marty will start," Royal said. "He's not the same effective, sharp-cutting quarterback he was, though."

The announcement did not surprise Colorado Coach Bill Mallory. "We were expecting him to start," he said. Akins, called the best wishbone quarterback Texas has ever had, injured the knee in the next-to-last game of the regular season and reappeared in brief appearances Nov. 28 against Texas A&M.

Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer, whose team played both Texas and Colorado during the regular season, said Akins' condition will be the key to Texas' chances.

However, Mallory said that with either Akins or freshman backup Ted Constanzo in the game, "they'll present the same problems."

Both Texas, co-champion of the Southwest Conference and ranked ninth nationally, and Colorado, 10th-ranked and the third-place finisher in the Big Eight, compiled 9-2 records. Both lost to Oklahoma. Texas' other loss was to Texas A&M.

The Buffs lost to Nebraska.

Royal doesn't see any significant advance in the standings by the winner. "The only thing sure is that the loser's going out, whether it's by one point or 100," he said.

In tonight's other bowl game, Southern University plays South Carolina State in the Pelican Bowl. In Friday's action, Arizona State surprised Nebraska 17-14 in the Fiesta Bowl and Pittsburgh whipped Kansas 33-19 in the Sun Bowl.

Colorado will rely on the running of fullback Terry Kunz and the passing and running of quarterback David Williams, who will attempt to move the ball behind a line averaging 280 pounds per man.

Kunz, a 6-foot-2, 211-pounder, established a single-season rushing record for Colorado fullbacks with 882 yards while Williams was the Big Eight's total offense leader with an average of 168.6 yards a game.

The Longhorns will counter with Akins and fullback Earl Campbell. Campbell, a 6-1, 225-pounder, led the Southwest Conference in rushing with 1,118 yards. Akins was fourth in the league in total offense with an average of 112.7 yards a game. The Texas offensive line averages 247 pounds.

Predictions on the winner of this nationally televised matchup in the Astro-dome have shifted back and fourth since it was announced. Texas was an early favorite, but odds-makers reportedly have since made the Buffs a narrow choice.

Tonight's Pelican Bowl is Southern's first appearance in post-season play. S.C. State is in its third, and is still looking for its first victory.

After a one-day respite, the action resumes Monday night with the Gator Bowl pitting Florida against Maryland. Then, on New Year's Eve, the college action shifts into high gear with two games, the Peach Bowl between North Carolina State and West Virginia and the Sugar Bowl with Penn State and Alabama.

It all peaks on New Year's Day, starting with the Cotton Bowl, where Arkansas goes against Georgia. Then it's on to the Rose Bowl, where No. 1-ranked Ohio State visits UCLA. And at night it's down to the Orange Bowl with Oklahoma and Michigan.

It took a safecracker's daring — and a bit of convincing — for seventh-ranked Arizona State to pull off its upset of the six-ranked Cornhuskers, finish with a perfect 12-0 record and snap Nebraska's six-game bowl-winning string.

The Sun Devils, trailing 14-8 in the opening minute of the fourth quarter, had punched the ball to the Nebraska 13-yard line — but faced a fourth-down-and-one situation.

Coach Frank Kush sent in his son, Danny, the field-goal kicker, willing to settle for three points. Quarterback Dennis Sproul came over to the bench and talked Kush into letting him try for the first down.

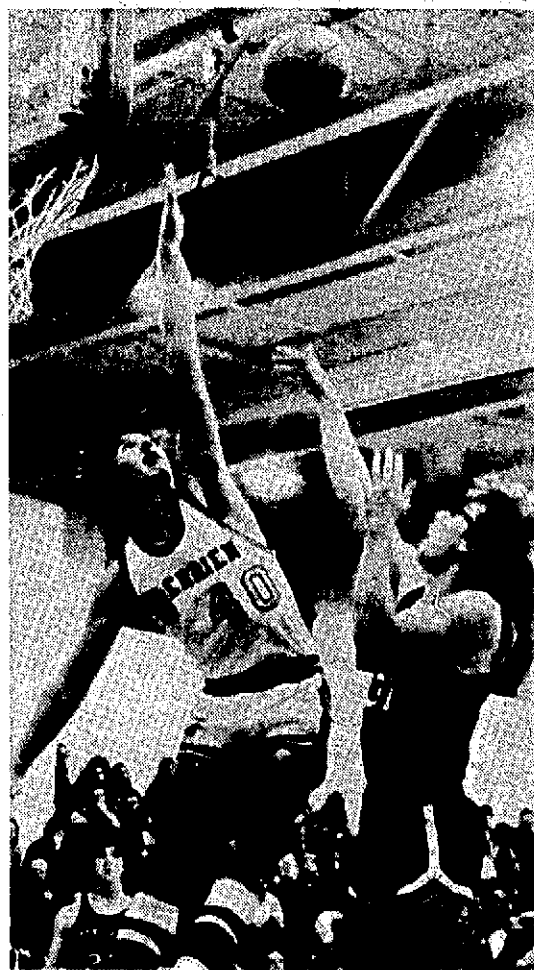

He got it with a two-yard sneak. But he also got an injured wrist. That brought in Fred Mortenson. Less than a minute later, he brought ASU into a tie with a 10-yard look-in pass to John Jefferson for the touchdown and a pass to Larry Mueker for the two-point conversion.

"This was a great win for the team, Arizona State, the Western Athletic Conference and the state of Arizona," said Kush, whose son booted three field goals, including the game-winner with 4:30 to play.

"That last field goal was a real shaker," said the young Kush. "But I knew if I kept my head down and followed through, the ball would go straight — and it did."

Tony Dorsett and Elliott Walker each ran for two touchdowns in Pittsburgh's victory over Kansas. Dorsett piled up 142 yards rushing. Walker had 123 and junior quarterback Robert Haywood added 101 and passed for one touchdown. The Panthers put the game away in the first half, rolling up a 19-0 lead.

Raiders Must Stop Pass Bengal Aerial Game Key In Playoffs

From Associated Press

Oakland cornerback Willie Brown sees the Raiders' task against the Cincinnati Bengals as a simple one.

"Once we can stop the pass, everything will fall in place for us," he says, looking forward to Sunday's National Football League first-round playoff game between the two American Conference powers. "They may have the best set of wide receivers in football."

The Bengals, who grabbed the AFC's wild-card berth with an 11-3 record—the same one that gave the Raiders the West Division title—are led by the Ken Anderson, league's best passer for the second straight year. His primary receivers are Isaac Curtis and running back Boobie Clark.

Not that the Raiders are exactly slouches in the aerial department. Ken Stabler directs the Oakland offense and has top-notch targets in Cliff Branch and Fred Biletnikoff.

Stabler, too, takes a basic viewpoint into the game. "We've got to get some long drives going and keep the ball away from Anderson and his bunch."

The game is the fourth and final first-round game of the weekend. In Sunday's earlier game, Dallas, the National Conference wild-card team, is at Minnesota, champion of the Central Division.

In Saturday's two games

Baltimore was at Pittsburgh in an AFC playoff and St. Louis was at Los Angeles in an NFC first-round.

The Cincinnati-Oakland matchup is the only one involving teams which met during the regular season. But the Bengals' 14-10 victory on Oct. 19 in Cincinnati has to be discounted. It was played in a driving rainstorm that wrecked both offenses.

"You can't base anything on that game," says Stabler. "I don't want to speak for Anderson, but I know I was terrible that day. I gave up four interceptions and so did he." Stabler completed eight of 24 passes. Anderson hit on four of 19.

Oakland racked up its eighth division title in nine years with a defense ranked first in the AFC and an offense that finished third statistically. The Bengals were second to Buffalo on offense and fourth in the conference on defense.

While Cincinnati has made it into the playoffs only twice before, falling out in the first round in both 1970 and 1973, the Raiders have the best record in pro football since 1963, a gaudy 126-45-11, but no Super Bowl titles to show for it.

"When you're in the playoffs, you just have to play good, solid football. You aren't going to beat anybody by fooling them," says Oakland Coach John Madden, whose teams haven't played quite well enough in past playoffs.

The Cowboys grabbed their playoff berth with a 10-4 record, while the Vikings went 12-2. Each team underwent off-season rebuilding to get to this point.

"Minnesota probably has even more talent this year because the young players have come through," Dallas Coach Tom Landry says of the Vikings, in its seventh playoff in eight years. "It's as solid as the recent Viking Super Bowl teams."

Many preseason experts figured the Cowboys, decimated by retirements and defections to the now-defunct World Football League, to miss the playoffs as they did last year. But with a number of new players and Roger Staubach's shotgun quarterbacking, they bounced back into them for the ninth time in 10 years.

"They've moved the ball on everybody in the league," Minnesota Coach Bud Grant says. "On defense, they don't use a lot of variations, but they're very sound."

Minnesota's Fran Tarkenton outperformed Staubach to be the top quarterback in the conference—shattering four of Johnny Unitas' passing records along the way.

Tarkenton connected on 64 per cent of his passing attempts for 2,964 yards and 25 touchdowns while Staubach completed 57 per cent of his attempts for 2,666 yards and 17 touchdowns.

Chuck Foreman, who became Minnesota's first 1,000-yard rusher in a season, also caught 73 passes and scored 22 touchdowns while wiping out Viking records in those categories. Robert Newhouse led Dallas rushers with 930 yards. Drew Pearson is the leading Cowboy receiver with 88 catches for 822 yards and eight touchdowns.

And It's For Seven Years

His Contract Is For $5 Million A Year

NEWTON: Making it big in Las Vegas

Q: Does Wayne Newton live in Las Vegas? He always seems to be appearing there. — M.D., Scottsdale, Ariz.

A: Newton lives in Las Vegas and performs there about 39 weeks a year. His price is now — hold your hats — $5 million a year. And he just signed a new seven-year contract. That's 35 million smackers, if you've forgotten the multiplication tables.

Q: I thought Katharine Ross and cinematographer Calvin Hall were an inseparable twosome. But I read she's married someone else. What gives? — A.A., Ogden, Utah.

A: The story we hear is that Katharine went off to do a movie on location and lived to regret it. When she got back she discovered Calvin had found a new love and Katharine went off and got married on the rebound.

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED

What top movie star will be sued for more than divorce if he doesn't stop knocking his wife around in public as well as in private? Last week onlookers were treated to the spectacle of him pushing her out of the car door and onto the street. He didn't even bother to pull over to the curb.

Q: You mentioned Rod McKuen some time back. I'd love to know whether he's wealthy or not. — W.O., La Jolla, Calif.

A: Rich. Rich. Rich; poetry, songs, books, calendars. McKuen is a one-man industry and there isn't a tougher businessman around. Nobody gets the kinds of contracts Rod manages to extract from clients.

Q: What's the relationship between Tony Orlando and money. Now that has been ironed out and the trio gets along better.

Q: Whatever happened to Elizabeth Taylor's friend, the used-car salesman? Is he gone and forgotten now that Richard Burton is back? — S.B., Cleveland, Ohio.

A: If you mean Henry Wynberg, he's in London turning down lucrative offers from publishers to write about his days with Liz Taylor. And ever the optimist, Wynberg keeps telling friends that Burton will "fall off the wagon" and Liz will come back to him.

Malpractice Rates Approved

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Malpractice insurance rates were approved this week for some 1,500 Michigan doctors covered under a state-created fund. Dr. Brock Brush, chairman of the Brown-McNeely Insurance Fund created by the legislature this year, said the premiums are "a careful balance" between providing reasonable coverage against malpractice suits and meeting expected claims against the fund. The rates, effective Jan. 1, will be reviewed quarterly and adjusted if claims against the fund vary. Brush said. Insurance Commissioner Thomas C. Jones said last month he expected some 3,000 doctors to be insured at lower rates offered by the Brown-McNeely Fund by mid-1976.

Involved in the recall are intermediate- and full-size 1976-model Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile and Buick cars and Chevrolet and GMC light-duty trucks. The company said it will notify owners of the suspect cars.

It's News TODAY

Auto Industry Closes Books

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's car makers closed out their second-worst year in terms of production since 1961 this week. Production figures for 1975 showed annual output falling to the second lowest level in 14 years. The trade journal Automotive News estimated car production for the year at 6,725,682, down 8 per cent from an already depressed 1974 volume of 7,309,763 and off 30 per cent from the record 9,667,118 cars the industry built in 1973. But despite already scheduled plant closing's in January, the industry finished 1975 and is beginning 1976 on a much stronger note than a year ago, when recession and high price increases sent the companies tumbling into the depths of their worst slump since the Great Depression.

Court Blocks Rail Sale

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special reorganization court has barred trustees of seven financially ailing Northeastern railroads from selling or transferring without prior government approval properties the government hopes to include in the ConRail system. The order this week came on a motion filed by the U.S. Railway Association asking that the seven railroads — including the sprawling Penn Central Railroad and the Ann Arbor Railroad in Michigan — be enjoined from selling or transferring ownership of properties. USRA claimed several railroads had petitioned or planned to ask various bankruptcy courts for permission to sell or transfer assets included in USRA's reorganization plan.

U-D Will Lay Off 40

DETROIT (AP) — Faced with a $3 million deficit, the University of Detroit will lay off 40 faculty members, raise tuition and sell one of its Detroit campus buildings, according to U-D administrators. Officials told a faculty meeting this week the U-D also intends to open a new two-year campus in Clarkston, north of Pontiac, in an attempt to boost sagging enrollments. The university said it will raise tuition about 8.5 per cent or $200 per student. At its dental school, tuition will be increased by 33 per cent.

School Half-Days Predicted

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Two top school officials have predicted some schools may have to hold only half-day sessions next September because of severe cuts in state aid. "I think we're going to see more and more school districts going to half days next year because there seems to be no way to recoup the losses we suffered this year," said Dr. Norman Weinheimer, executive director of the Michigan Association of School Boards. Though the districts will be able to limp through the rest of this year, the educators said, next year will be tough. State aid for the next fiscal year, beginning in October, was cut $62 million by the legislature and the governor to avert a fiscal crisis in the state.

Soviet SST Begins Service

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet supersonic jetliner began its first regular mail and freight service a day late today. The TU144 flew from Moscow to Alma Ata, the capital of the Soviet republic of Kazakhstan in central Asia. Moscow Radio reported the plane made the 2,050-mile flight in 119 minutes, averaging more than 1,000 miles an hour, and flew at an altitude of 57,000 feet. Although Soviet officials say the TU144 won't start flying passengers until the second half of 1976, a few Soviet journalists made the flight today. Western journalists were not allowed to go.

Hanoi Sends Supplies South

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam reported today that it has sent about a million tons of construction material and goods to South Vietnam since the Communist victory on April 30. A broadcast report from the official North Vietnamese news agency said tens of thousands of political workers also have been sent to the South "in order, together with the South Vietnamese cadres, fighters and people, to take over the newly liberated areas and to build and consolidate the revolutionary power."

China Blasts U.S., Russia

TOKYO (AP) — The Chinese Communists charged today that the United States and the Soviet Union are preparing for a new world war and that the arms race between them "is proceeding at a feverish pace never seen before." "The declining U.S. imperialists are trying hard to maintain their vested interests while the Soviet revisionists are out to catch up," said a year-end review in the official Peking People's Daily.

NILES — What started out as a quiet Christmas eve celebration with family and friends turned into a wild chase for three Niles men Wednesday night. Niles police reported.

Donald Dickerson, 21, of 116 Market street, Niles, was at his parents' home, 30 South Barrett street, Niles, when he heard his Chevrolet van being driven out of the driveway around 10 p.m.

Dickerson, his brother-in-law Ted Steele, and Michael Snyder immediately gave chase in Steele's auto.

Apprehended several hours later by Buchanan city police was James E. Sutfin, 22, 104 Hobart street, Buchanan. He was lodged in the Niles city jail on a charge of unlawfully driving away an auto.

The trio chased Dickerson's van some five miles before they managed to run it off the road about 1 1/4 miles north of Chicago road east of Rod Bud trail in Bertram township.

Police say the van became stuck in a field and the trio then proceeded to chase its driver on foot. Sutfin was apprehended by Buchanan police near Buchanan sometime later.

Niles police say that deputies from the sheriff department's Galien substation also participated in the chase. Private citizens with citizen-band radios also aided police in the chase.

Dickerson's mother said her son, Steele, and Snyder all returned home around 4 a.m. "Were they ever cold!" she said.

Desjardins Gets No Help From Sabres

Bruins Near First Place

From Associated Press
Gerry Desjardins sat there, dispirited. Usually he's one of the first players out of the Buffalo locker room after a game. This time he was one of the last to leave.

"And I wanted to be a goal-tender," he muttered to himself. He also muttered a few other things. Friday night, mostly about the Boston Bruins and his teammates on the Sabres—and all of them unprintable.

Buffalo Defeated Without McAdoo

Jabbar Leads Los Angeles Past Portland

From Associated Press
The Buffalo Braves' best player was suspended and their best chances were wasted. The net loss was the 96-95 defeat they suffered to the Philadelphia 76ers in the National Basketball Association Friday night.

Bob McAdoo, Buffalo's superstar center, had been suspended earlier in the week for refusing to take a "second" physical examination for his back.

"Management felt he could have played last Tuesday," said Buffalo Coach Jack Ramsay. "He was asked to see a doctor but he failed to do so and was suspended and I don't know when he is going to play again."

McAdoo's presence was sorely missed in the game's final minute.

Buffalo's Bob Weiss hit a layup to bring the Braves within one, at 96-95, but in the last 30 seconds, they missed three easy rebound tap-ins.

The Braves had the ball with three minutes left, and Weiss tossed the inbound pass to Jim McMillian, whose shot missed as the game ended.

"We were fortunate that they did not get a good shot off on the inbound pass," said Philadelphia's Doug Collins, who scored 22 points. Clyde (Lee) was all over McMillian.

George McGinnis scored 31 points for the 76ers, while Buffalo's Rudy Smith had 32 points as the Braves had their four-game winning streak snapped.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was:

Seattle 90, Kansas City 87; Atlanta 98, Cleveland 97; Detroit 101, Chicago 87; Milwaukee 85, Washington 81; Los Angeles 104, Portland 95; Boston 112, Phoenix 108.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar pumped in 41 points, grabbed 20 rebounds and blocked five shots as the Los Angeles Lakers whipped Portland for their 16th home victory in 17 games this season.

Lucius Allen scored 19 points for the Lakers, while Geoff Petrie led the Portland scoring with 34 points.

Millwaukee outscored Washington 12-2 midway in the fourth quarter, and baskets by Jim Price and Dave Meyers later cut short a Bulls comeback. Brian Winters scored 24 points and rookie Junior Bridgeman 19 for the Bucks, who snapped Washington's winning streak at three games.

After Cleveland had taken a 93-82 lead, quick baskets by Tom Van Arsdale, Connie Hawkins and Dean Meminger gave Atlanta a 99-92 lead, deflating a near-record crowd of 19,832 in Cleveland.

Jolo White scored 25 points, including nine in a 35-point Boston third quarter, propelling the Celtics past Phoenix, which was led by Paul Phoenix's 22 points.

Slick Watts and Tommy Burleson each hit two free throws in the final 40 seconds to carry Seattle past Kansas City and send the Kings to their eighth straight loss.

points of the first-place Sabres in the Charles F. Adams Division. Greg Sheppard got two of the goals, including the third-period tie-breaker.

In the rest of the NHL, Atlanta edged Pittsburgh 4-3, Los Angeles downed California 4-2 and Minnesota tied Washington 1-1.

"I told the club going into the third period, 'This is the most important period of the year for us,'" Boston Coach Don Cherry said. "I reminded them that we did it before (coming back from a two-goal deficit against Buffalo last Saturday in Boston) and we could do it again."

"If we can just keep hanging in there until Bobby Orr gets back, we can win this division. When he came back the other time, we were struggling and he put us on the right track. We've been on the right track ever since."

Brad Park, who had three assists for the Bruins and has recorded 10 in his last five games, said: "When Bobby comes back, a good hockey club will be a great hockey club. We don't get down on ourselves. We work a little harder when we get behind. We started forcing Buffalo in the second period. We all worked together."

Curt Bennett scored twice and picked up an assist as the Bruins built a three-goal lead, then withstood a Pittsburgh rally. Pierre Larocque had two for the Penguins.

Second-period goals by Mike Corrigan and Tommy Williams propelled Los Angeles over the Seals. Bob Berry and Butch Goring connected for the Kings in the first period. Bob Murdoch and Dave Gardner tallied for California.

Nelson Pyatt scored at 3:07 of the third period to give the Capitals their tie. Bryan Hxtall scored for Minnesota in the first period with Washington two men short.

In the championship game, Doug Ryskamp scored 29 points as Schoolcraft tripped Mendon 64-58.

The Blue Devils actually outscored Mattawan from the floor, but the Wildcats sank an amazing 29 of 41 charity tosses to ice their second win in seven games. "We play a very aggressive type of defense," said Lawton head coach Bruce Bendix. "Some refs call the fools and some don't."

Neither team was that hot from the floor. Mattawan made just 14 of 53 attempts for 26 per cent while the Blue Devils, now 1-5 overall, hit 21 of 67 chances for 31 per cent.

Lawton held a 15-14 first quarter edge but then went cold as Mattawan built a 26-22 half-time edge. "They just played a straight zone and we couldn't score," said Bendix.

Mike Pendowski of Mattawan led all scorers with 17 points. Teammate Fred Farthing scored 11 points, all on free throws.

The Blue Devils were led by Lawton Rupp's 15 points. John Lapey chipped in with 10.

In the rebounding war, Mattawan held a 52-51 edge. Rupp, Bryan Cronenweil and Lou Craighead all had eight caroms apiece for Lawton.

By JIM DeLAND

Assistant City Editor
Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns is asking the county board of commissioners to provide a second legal research clerk for the circuit court.

Citing a mounting case load in many respects heavier than more populous counties in Michigan, Judge Byrns has asked commissioners to consider creation of another position similar to that now held by Colin H. John Jr., of Niles.

"He's the greatest time-saver we have," Judge Byrns said of John, who became the Berrien circuit's first law clerk last January. "He's exceptionally good."

"We really should have one clerk for each of our three circuit judges, but we're not asking for that. We're only asking for two."

Byrns' request for another law clerk was included in a year-end report addressed to Leslie H. Fischer, chairman of the county board of commissioners. Byrns noted that it was one of his last official acts as presiding judge of the circuit court, since he is stepping down from that position effective at the end of this year. Judge Julian E. Hughes will be the new presiding judge.

"This is merely a stop-gap," Byrns said. "We eventually are going to need a fourth judge, but even when we get a fourth judge we'll have to have law clerks."

John, a graduate of the University of Michigan and Wayne State university law school, was hired last January with the help of Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds. Byrns said his salary in 1976 would be $14,430.

Byrns based his request for a second law clerk on statistics that showed the circuit court's load increased 10 per cent in new cases commenced, from 3,062 in 1974 to 3,307 in 1975, and that cases pending at the end of the year increased 14 per cent from 1,632 to 1,869.

"It's growing...growing by leaps and bounds," he said of the circuit court's caseload, "and it's going to continue to increase."

Byrns said Berrien's three circuit judges — Hughes, William S. White and himself — disposed of an average of 1,073 cases each during the past fiscal year.

By comparison, he said, similar per-judge figures were 515 cases in Jackson county, 773 in Kalamazoo county and 979 in Muskegon county.

He said the law clerk helps speed the judicial process by "freeing judges of routine legal work" in many ways — doing legal research, preparing digests and analyses of upcoming cases and researching matters not related to individual cases, such as new procedures for the court.

He said John has performed these services and others for all three Berrien judges in both criminal and civil cases, and added that many Michigan circuit courts with less production per judge than Berrien provide one law clerk for each judge.

Other statistics cited by Byrns in his letter to Fischer and the county commissioners:

— Berrien's circuit court docket breaks down into 16.8 per cent criminal cases, 3 per cent auto negligence, 37.4 per cent divorces and 42.8 per cent other general civil cases.

— During the past fiscal year, there were 236 trials in Berrien circuit court, or 79 per judge. During the same period there 50 trials per judge in Calhoun county, 48 in Ingham county, 13 in Jackson county, 71 in Kent county, 52 in Muskegon county, 45 in Wayne county, 31 in Cass county and 35 in Van Buren county.

— In the past year Berrien had 105 jury trials in circuit court while Jackson county had 29, Kalamazoo county 34, Muskegon county 58, Calhoun county 59 and Cass county 13.

— Criminal cases accounted for 89 of the 105 Berrien jury trials in Berrien county, which has a population of 185,000 and three circuit judges. Genesee county, which has a population of 521,000 and seven circuit judges, had 85 criminal trials; Kalamazoo county (213,000 and four judges) 31 trials; Kent county (444,000 and five judges) 92 trials; Muskegon county (168,903, three judges) 28 trials; and Ingham county (282,000 and five judges) 38 trials.

Other southwestern Michigan counties cited by Byrns were Van Buren (38,000, one judge) 12 criminal jury trials; Allegan (64,000, one judge) 14 trials; and Cass (44,000, one judge) eight trials.

"Either other counties are not as zealous as Berrien in trying their criminal cases," Byrns stated, "or Berrien county has far more crime per capita than elsewhere in the state (although the state administrator's report certainly does not support this conclusion), or Berrien is not being more selective in deciding which criminal cases to put the county to the time and expense of trial."

Byrns did note "with satisfaction" that there are only 44 cases pending in Berrien circuit court for more than two years, compared to 135 in Kalamazoo county, 160 in Kent county and 405 in Washtenaw county.

Paw Paw Lake Pair Ask Judge To Kill 'Weed Tax'

Two Paw Paw Lake property owners have filed suit in Berrien Circuit court seeking to prevent assessment of taxes for weed control of the lake ordered by the Paw Paw Lake Improvement board.

The property owners — William Stewart and Michael McArdle Sr. — ask the court to declare a special assessment ordered last month by the improvement board "unconstitutional, illegal and void" and to permanently prevent assessment and collection of taxes as ordered by the board.

Stewart is owner of the Paw Paw Lake Golf Course which has frontage on the lake. McArdle has spearheaded opposition to the weed control program since it was first announced.

The suit asks for a preliminary injunction restraining County Treasurer William C. Heyn from assessing and collecting any assessment levied by the improvement board pending settlement of the suit.

The improvement board has proposed a levy of 62½ cents per shoreline foot which was to be due on March 1, 1976.

Named as defendants in the suit are the townships of Watervliet and Coloma; the Paw Paw Lake Improvement Board; Heyn in his capacity as county treasurer; Watervliet township Assessor Lyle Woodworth; and Coloma township Assessor Avery G. Blevins. Blevins who also was township supervisor resigned in September and moved to Minnesota.

The suit contends the properties were assessed according to front footage on the lake, which plaintiffs claim was illegal because it violated a provision of Michigan law which requires assessment on a proportional basis measured by benefit received by persons assessed.

The suit also contends that the assessment tax roll confirmed and published by the improvement board was not thereafter confirmed and endorsed by the two township clerks and that the assessment violates plaintiffs' rights to due process of law under the U.S. and Michigan constitutions.

Shoreline property owners on Paw Paw Lake last month voted 292-112 in an advisory ballot to proceed with the improvement board's proposed one-year weed control program for the lake, of route 1, Windemere Landing, previously. The senior McArdle, spearheaded opposition to the plan, which is estimated to cost $40,631 with $5,000 provided in a grant through county government.

The improvement board announced last month that property owners around the lake would be assessed 62½ cents per front foot of lakefront property to pay for the program to control bottom weed growth.

McArdle has said he feels that the entire county should vote on paying for removal of weeds in the lake.

The special assessment of lakefront property owners was to be due in payment on March 1, 1976.

Coast Guard Calls Off Search

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Coast Guard has stopped rescue operations for a cabin cruiser on Lake Erie because distress signals at first thought to be originating from the cruiser apparently were a hoax.

A Coast Guard spokesman said Friday it was recalling the buoy tender Mariposa and a helicopter which had been dispatched to the scene but were unable to locate the cabin cruiser.

The spokesman said officials of the Federal Communications Commission had traced the signal to the Zanesville, Ohio, area, in the central part of the state. He said that when the caller was contacted by the Coast Guard he refused to give his name or the name of the cabin cruiser.

The caller used Morse code to send an SOS call for help Thursday, saying a 26-foot cabin cruiser with 10 persons aboard was in trouble in the western part of Lake Erie.

Although the Coast Guard initiated rescue efforts, officials even then doubted the authenticity of the caller.

"The possibility exists of a hoax... because of the conflicts in information and the evasive answers," the Coast Guard spokesman said.

The Coast Guard reported the caller first said the vessel was broken down and sinking, then said it was out of gasoline and that it had been taking on water but that the flooding was under control.

Early Friday, when contact was reestablished after a pre-dawn break of several hours, the caller said the vessel wasn't trapped in the lake's ice and was at anchor but couldn't move because of the lack of fuel.

Ham radio operators reported the caller gave identification numbers that varied slightly with each call. At one point the caller gave an incomplete Ohio registration number but then failed to answer when asked to confirm the number, to name those aboard or to describe the vessel, the Coast Guard said.

The caller said those aboard were in good condition, the Coast Guard said.

A Coast Guard officer said the 180-foot buoy tender Mariposa from Detroit reached the area off Pelee Island early Friday and that a ham operator aboard that cutter was able to contact the caller. The Mariposa reported its operator felt the strength of the signal he received indicated the source of the signal was in western Lake Erie. The island is southwest of Pelee Island.

But though the caller said "roger" when asked to raise metal so the cruiser would show up on the Mariposa's radar, no radar blip was sighted, the Coast Guard said.

Styles For Summer

PARIS — (NEA) — Summer 1976 will be cheerful if fashion is any harbinger. Haute couture boutique collections and ready-to-wear manufacturers recently showed clothes here that men like to look at and girls like to wear.

Color runs the gamut of hot pinks, purples and mauves, to snowy white, ebony and khaki, the latter shading from tropical to the greenish paratrooper's uniform.

Fluidity keys every type of dress, suit or coat to follow the body line. But no stiffening in anything, anywhere, and, often, no lining.

Resort and beachwear, for sports, for around the pool or for patio dancing, were extensively featured. For the very young it's going to be a leggy summer with the return of shorts in every length — from hot pants to Bermudas, worn with T-shirt, perhaps a matching parka a la Saint Laurent or a sleeveless cardigan over a tucked in shirt. The jumpsuit, short-sleeved, is also in the picture.

There are long beach robes to wear over the stringiest of bikinis and one-piece swimsuits almost as revealing. All a woman has to aim for next summer is a flat tummy!

Incidentally, models doing the Paris off-the-peg shows haven't been wearing bras for years. This time they were practically nude under the flimsiest, transparent dresses. One designer coolly pointed out that briefs would just about have ruined the line.

It turns out that 1976 will go down in history as the sexiest, most uninhibited Paris ready-to-wear season — with bared backs, thighs, derrieres, et al. Design influences — Turkish, Moroccan, Chinese, Hindu — are seen in long, slim cotton shifts and tunic dresses worn over skinny cotton pirate or peatop pants.

Even a modest dress budget will enable the fashion conscious to acquire the 1976 look because the majority of the designers showed models made of two colors, say pink for a shirtwaist and mauve for a leggy slim skirt often slashed in front. Other combinations: red with khaki, yellow with orange, orange with Chinese blue.

Yves Saint Laurent offered all the exciting ideas for the coming summer in his customary masterly manner. For understated chic it would be hard to beat his outfit of fine wool navy cardigan, belted, over a white silk crepe blouse with a jabot front and slim jersey skirt with pleat front. His main theme is grandpapa's nightshirt, of varying lengths, and worn alone or over slick pants.

GOWNS: Off-the-shoulder bareness is only one type of decollete Paris ready-to-wear designers offer for spring-summer. Gowns by Balmain are in pink and blue printed silk.

Pierre Balmain's blazers with single or double breasted fronts, glittering brass buttons over a white skirt or dress will appeal to the woman who appreciates understated elegance. His slender two-piece models along with slinky jersey dresses stressing the Y look which come in midcalf and ankle-length are very feminine. There are also light-as-a-feather coats worn over silk suits. Balmain ended his showing with a group of 10 "Vie en Rose" evening dresses in various shades of pink.

Givency offers the widest range of khakis from the lightest to the darkest, zebra and bayadere stripes, along with soft white, black, vermillion, Jender blues and peppy greens. J. L. Scherrer, who dresses Madame Giscard d'Estaing, the president's wife, claims his collection is beamed at every generation, from 18 to 40, and older, thereby ignoring any generation gap. He shows loose sailor blouses over printed crepe skirts, slim shirt coats, unlined figured muslin evening dresses, with low square or shoestring decolletes and trailing scarves.

Marc Bohan at Dior started with a slender, supple, sportive silhouette for drawstring parkas of varying lengths for day and evening, double-breasted blazers, skirts and trousers which allow for an infinite number of combinations. There's a lot of humor, too, in his late-day line in dresses with dropped waists, drawstring necklines, gathered silk jersey trousers and sheaths slit up to the thigh.

Michel Goma opened with his relaxed sports numbers of culotte skirts or shorts worn with white schoolboy knee socks and sneakers. The feminine note appears in soft blouses.

Newcomer to the Paris scene was Valentino, one of the leading designers in Rome. He highlighted harem trousers for day, beach and evening, long, slinky Indian rajah's tunics teamed with skinny pants. He uses a lot of soft white Indian cotton, cotton gabardine and striped muslins.

Cotton, in fact, reigns almost supreme in the fabric story, in jersey, pique, Turkish toweling, saten, plain, striped or printed voiles and gauzes. There also are silk crepes in monotonous or prints, the latter demure and naive as compared to the bold designs of former years.

ATTENTION! Future Brides

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks and turned in one week before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Use proper names — not nicknames. In wedding information, use husband's names for married attendants.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used. Formal glossy black and white portraits are preferred.

Engagement and wedding pictures are usually available at this newspaper office after publication for a short time.

Astronaut Turns To Evangelism

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

A veteran of the longest manned voyage in space, astronaut William R. Pogue, says he wanted a more challenging assignment. So he has turned to Christian evangelism.

He is the latest of several astronauts who have taken up work of a religious nature in the wake of their space experience. It restored a "proper balance" to his outlook on life, he says.

Pogue, of Houston, Tex., resigned from the space program and joined the staff of High Flight, an evangelistic organization founded in 1972 by another former astronaut, James B. Irwin.

Irwin, who has since been on the speaking circuit attesting to faith, says his visit to the moon constituted a "spiritual awakening" for him.

Others have told of similar reactions.

Martin Caidin, science-fiction novelist and acquainted with many of the astronauts, told the American Baptist magazine:

"There has been a tremendous change, very quietly, in the attitude and the lives of the men who have gone to the moon ...

where they can see the planet the way God must have seen it."

Noting that it is "strange that only when man left his world could he see it for the first time," Caidin adds: "Most of the men who came back had a spiritual experience."

A recent hint of how it happens came from Werner von Braun, father of the U.S. rocket and space program, who says the "evidences of a creator are so overwhelming."

Von Braun, who headed U.S. space-rocket development until 1972 when he joined Fairchild Industries in Maryland, said in an interview for the Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission:

"I just can't envision this whole universe coming into being without something like a divine will. I cannot envision the creation without the concept of a creator."

Terminology science and religion "sisters" in the effort to comprehend the truths of reality, he said religion searches for the "intent of the creator" while science searches for the "laws of creation."

He noted that space flight requires tremendous precision in calculating celestial movements, forces and timing, but he added that the exacting physical laws already had been built into nature, from which science merely learns.

"The laws are there," he said. "The laws must have been laid down by somebody."

Pogue, a native of Okemah, Okla., who was one of three crewmen on Skylab 3 which set a record of 84 days in space in 1973, says the mission made him more firmly convinced of spiritual reality.

"There's more to life than the body and intellect — it's the soul," he says. "There's that kernel that most of us miss."

Irwin, of Colorado Springs, Colo., says of his 1971 moon trip that such an experience "has to make a man truly appreciate the creation of God, the infinite precision with which God controls the universe."

But a deeper impression, he says, "was that I could feel God's presence."

Former astronaut Frank Borman, who was on the first orbit of the moon in 1968 and who now is an aviation executive, has said he saw "evidence that God lives."

Perhaps the late scientist Albert Einstein gave a suggestion of the effect when he wrote:

"The most beautiful and profound emotion we can experience is the sensation of the mystical. It is the source of all true science. He to whom this emotion is a stranger, who can no longer wonder and stand rapt in awe, is as good as dead."

"To know that what is impenetrable to us really exists, manifesting itself in the highest wisdom and the most radiant beauty which our dull faculties can comprehend only in their most primitive forms, this feeling is the center of true religiousness."

Make Chess Board

Lend a touch of individuality to chess and checker games with a portable board made from ribbon.

Select four yards each of two-inch wide washable ribbon in traditional black and red or other contrasting colors. On an 18-inch square of lightweight fabric (percale or batiste are good choices), center a 16-inch square of fusible webbing. Cut all the ribbon into 18-inch strips and lay all the strips of one color horizontally side by side on the webbing.

Tack down with pins at the ends, then weave the other colored strips over and under vertically, placing the strips as close as possible. Fuse the three layers together by pressing with a steam iron and press cloth.

Finish off the board by placing an 18-inch square of felt backing over the weaving. Stitch the pieces together one inch from the edge, allowing a four-inch opening on one side. Trim one-half inch of fabric from each edge and turn right-side out. Press edges; sew the opening.

Mother, Boyfriend Charged In Brutal Slaying Of 2 Tots

By PAUL SERAFINI
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A 20-year-old mother who reported her two children missing in the Christmas Eve, trust, of a store's toy department was charged early today with their murder after the little boy and girl were found mutilated and burned in a garbage-strewn lot, police said.

Also charged with two counts of murder was the mother's boyfriend, Alfred Forte, 30, an unemployed automobile mechanic.

The naked and charred bodies of 2-year-old Rodell Mackall and his 4-year-old half-sister, Candy Cunningham, were recovered at 7 p.m. Friday night from the knee-high weeds and rubble of a recently demolished slum tenement in East Harlem.

An autopsy was scheduled for today.

Police theorized that the children were killed at Forte's apartment in the borough of Queens a day or two before their mother, Debra Mackall, reported them missing. The alleged killers then took the bodies to the vacant lot, doused them with a flammable liquid and burned them, they said.

Police said they had found some of the children's clothing in Forte's apartment.

Police booked Mrs. Mackall and Forte at a police station in Queens. With their heads bowed and shoulders hunched to hide from anxious photographers, they listened to the desk officer read the charges.

Mrs. Mackall and Forte had gone to a police station Wednesday night to report the children lost. She said she had taken the children with her while she did some last-minute Christmas shopping at a department store in Queens, about 5 miles east of where the bodies were found.

She said she wanted to pick out some surprises for Candy and Rodell so she left them alone for about 10 minutes, but they were gone when she returned. Police said the boy and girl had different fathers.

Capt. Martin Walsh, chief of the Queens station where Mrs. Mackall made the initial missing persons report, said, "We searched every location that came to mind.... We questioned store personnel at the store and at the precinct. We doubted after intensive around the clock questioning that the children were ever in the store."

Edwin Dreher, the assistant police chief in charge of Queens detectives, said none of Mrs. Mackall's neighbors in the East Elmhurst section of Queens recalled seeing the children since Monday; nor did anyone at the department store remember them.

"They were dead Christmas Eve," he told a news conference.

In response to questions, he said neighbors had reported instances of the mother abusing the children and that she had appeared in Family Court to answer complaints of neglecting them.

Dreher said Mrs. Mackall and Forte had agreed to take lie detector tests Friday but did not do so. Officials said the pair "made statements" just prior to taking the tests, but Dreher would not say what they said.

"We'd blow the case if we told you that," he said.

Michigan Malpractice Laws May Set National Standard

From Michigan
Department of Commerce
LANSING — On New Year's Day, Michigan will introduce a brand-new, statewide system of voluntary arbitration as an alternative to court suits in medical malpractice disputes. The arbitration program is the first of its kind in the United States.

Under two new laws passed last summer, Michigan hospitals, clinics, sanitariums and health maintenance organizations (HMO's) must, as a condition of obtaining their malpractice insurance, offer all patients the option of arbitrating medical disputes rather than going to court.

Doctors in their private offices also may offer arbitration to patients, but they are not required, to do so. Nursing homes and convalescent centers are not covered under the laws.

Patients have a choice. They may sign agreements to arbitrate any medical care dispute that arises, or they may decide not to sign. A hospital or doctor cannot refuse care to a person who chooses not to sign an arbitration agreement. And, even though a patient signs, he or she can revoke the agreement within 60 days. For hospitals and doctors, the agreement is binding, and they cannot back out.

The idea behind the new laws is that an alternative to court suits in medical malpractice disputes may give patients, doctors, and hospitals some real benefits. For patients, a hearing before an arbitration panel may be faster than a court case, and more types of awards are possible under arbitration. For example, a court is allowed to award only a lump sum in damages to a patient who wins a malpractice suit. An arbitration panel can award a lump sum, or payments over time, or corrective and rehabilitation services, or a combination of these.

For doctors and hospitals, arbitration may eventually reduce or stabilize the rising premium rates for malpractice insurance, costs which are passed on to patient receiving treatment.

The arbitration program will work like this:

When a patient is admitted to a hospital as an inpatient, he or she will be offered an arbitration agreement form to sign. Emergency room patients will not be given this form until after treatment is completed. The agreement covers only treatment received during the single stay or visit at the hospital or emergency room. Patients visiting outpatient clinics will be offered an arbitration agreement which covers all treatment received at the clinic for a one-year period.

When the patient signs the form, he or she is agreeing to submit any dispute over medical care to a panel of arbitrators. Disagreement about the cost of care are not covered under the program. If the patient changes his mind, he can notify the hospital in writing that he wishes to revoke the agreement. For outpatients, the time limit for revoking an agreement is 60 days after signing; for inpatients or emergency room patients, it is 60 days after discharge from the hospital.

All employees of the hospital will be covered under the agreement, plus independent hospital staff doctors who agree to participate in the hospital's arbitration program. Within the first year hospitals must sign up to participate independent staff doctors who provide at least 75 per cent of the patient care in the institution. Within two years, the hospital must sign up doctors giving 85 per cent of the care, and within three years, doctors giving 90 per cent of the care to patients. The reasoning behind this requirement is to make it unnecessary for patients to be involved in both arbitration and a court suit for the same malpractice dispute.

An arbitration agreement signed at a doctor's private practice office covers a year of treatment. It can be revoked in writing within 60 days after the patient signs it.

Under the arbitration program, if a medical malpractice dispute arises that cannot be settled by discussion between the patient and the doctor or hospital, any disputing party may start the arbitration process by calling the American Arbitration Association. The first step is to select an arbitration panel to hear and decide the dispute.

A panel includes three people — a lawyer, a doctor or hospital administrator, and a public member — approved by all parties in the dispute and by the American Arbitration Association. To choose the panel, the American Arbitration Association sends all sides a list of possible panel members. If all sides cannot agree on three names after two tries, the Association will appoint the necessary panelists.

The panel will hear the case as soon as all sides are ready. As in a court case, there are no limits on the dollar amount of awards a panel can authorize. Its decision generally is binding, and only very limited appeal is permitted from arbitration panels.

The Insurance Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce, is designated by law to administer the arbitration program. An Arbitration Advisory Committee of doctors, lawyers, hospital representatives, public members, and Insurance Bureau representatives has drawn up arbitration forms and hearing rules, sponsored training seminars for doctors and hospital personnel, and prepared materials to explain the new program to patients and the public.

Further information is available from Margaret Hony or Eric Schneidewind, Insurance Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce, 111 North Wacker, Lansing; telephone: (517) 333-6220.

Milliken Mailing Will Detail Disclosure Law

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken will mail information on the financial disclosure provisions of the new political ethics law early next week to up to 3,000 public officials he has appointed.

The mailing, which an aide said would weigh more than a first-class letter, will also explain court-ordered delays in the law, which was to go into effect in late March.

"I do not feel that the financial disclosure requirements are excessive," Milliken said Friday of the law.

"I recognize the importance of a citizen's right to privacy, and I believe that these requirements strike a good balance between a public official's right to privacy and the public's right to be assured of an open government free from financial conflicts of interest," he said.

"But one of my concerns is the breadth of the list of public officials required to file financial disclosure statements."

The law requires all public officials, elected or appointed, paid or volunteer, to list their financial interests and sources of income, without disclosing amounts.

Many local officials have threatened to quit if they must reveal their financial situations.

A court suit filed Tuesday by 19 statewide organizations and individuals challenged, among other things, the financial disclosure sections of the law as unconstitutional and an invasion of privacy.

Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Donald Reisig issued an injunction afterward forbidding any civil and criminal prosecutions based on the law until at least March 30. His order also forbids any implementation of the financial disclosure section until trial on the issue is held.

Milliken's letter will advise appointees of that ruling.

He also will remind them that the state Supreme court has agreed to issue an opinion on the constitutionality of various sections of the law, including the financial disclosure section.

40 Schools Without Pacts

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Less than 10 per cent of Michigan's school districts have not settled teacher contracts, the State Board of Education said Friday. The board said 40 of Michigan's 530 school districts do not have contracts settled. A phone survey showed 20 districts have fact-finding in progress, 19 are in negotiations and one has teachers working without a contract. Early this month, 51 districts were without contracts, compared to 101 without contracts on Sept. 30.

Two Men Report Robberies To Benton Township Police

A 32-year-old Benton township man told township police he was robbed, beaten and stripped of all his clothes except shorts and T-shirt early today.

Kenny Davis, 32, City of David cabin 32, Eastman avenue, said he accepted a ride with two men about 4 a.m. at Britain avenue, near Fair avenue.

Police reported Davis said he was driven to Grove avenue where he was struck with fists and a black jack and robbed of $6 to $7 by the men who took his clothes. Davis was not seriously injured.

In another robbery report filed with Benton township police, Cecil Purcell, 46, of 2363 Lawrence drive, Benton township, said he was robbed by two women and a man he met inside the Club Villa, Benton township.

Purcell reported the three gave him a ride from the tavern about 10:30 p.m., but instead of taking him home they robbed him of $57. He was dropped off and then walked back to the tavern and called police.

He was not injured. No weapon was seen, but the trio threatened to shoot him and one woman kept her hand in her purse at all times as if she had a gun, Purcell said.

Three windows were broken at Benton Harbor seventh and eighth grade center, 423 Broadway, apparently by BPs, according to city police. The police report was filed by James Rutter, 20, assistant principal at the center. Police suspect the damage occurred sometime between Wednesday and Friday. No damage estimate was given.

CHIEF FIRED: Utah Highway Patrol Supt. Roy M. Helm was fired Friday by the state Highway Patrol Civil Service Commission for "continued use of alcohol" and conduct unbecoming in incident in which the chairman of the Highway Patrol Civil Service Commission, Ogden banker Willard Eccles, later pleaded guilty to drunken driving. Eccles disqualified himself from the commission's hearing for Helm last week. The commission ruled that Public Safety Commissioner Raymond Jackson could rehire Helm if he rehabilitates himself. Legal Action Promised By Teacher Group

DETROIT (AP) — A faculty organization at the University of Detroit says it will take court action to stop the layoff of 40 members of the U-D teaching staff.

Officials at the university announced the layoffs earlier this week, but have not given out the names of faculty members to be dismissed. The layoff notices are expected to be sent next week and will be effective next month.

A 27-year-old Benton township man reported to Benton Harbor police that he fractured his leg Friday night when he slipped on some ice near Babe's lounge, 365 Riverview drive, Benton Harbor. Treated and released from Memorial hospital for the fractured leg was Dan Reed, 27, of 1333 Union street. The accident occurred about 8:30 p.m.

Rare Leopard Gets Boyfriend

DETROIT (AP) — Tiffany, the Detroit Zoo's Jewel of a snow leopard, is getting a belated Christmas present — a boyfriend. Tiffany's new friend now resides at the Milwaukee Zoo and is being imported to Detroit "for breeding purposes — hopefully," a Detroit Zoo official says. But Tiffany's future wasn't always so rosy.

Born at the zoo last June, Tiffany's first few months were touch and go, due to medical complications. Zoo births are not very common for snow leopards. "There was an enormous amount of concern for her, especially when she was losing weight," assistant zoo director Joseph Morgan said Friday. It wasn't easy bringing up baby Tiffany to her present picture of snow leopard health — more than three feet long and weighing more than 30 pounds. "For one thing, there just haven't been too many snow leopards raised in captivity," said Esther Steinbruegge, a zoo hospital aide who helped look after Tiffany.

Mrs. Steinbruegge cared for the animal through its weeks in an incubator and successfully helped treat what turned out to be an intestinal complication. The snow leopard, a gray-colored animal with brown spots, is a cold weather cat native to the mountains and plateaus of Central Asia. The animal is endangered and experts estimate that fewer than 250 remain in the wild. Tiffany and her new boyfriend are about the same age. The male was acquired for the Detroit Zoo through funds put up by a private donor and was estimated to cost more than $3,000.

AU Students In Mexico

The students are paying their own transportation costs, $100 each, and volunteering their time.

There will be little leisure time, as plans are to have the church finished by the time the students return Jan. 5, according to John Ross, student association president.

The AU bus will make the 4,200 mile round trip in six days of round-the-clock travel to permit as much time on the job as possible during the three-week Christmas break.

Directing the construction is Maranatha Flights International, a Berrien Springs-based volunteer organization that assists with Adventist building projects in remote parts of North America.

The coordinator of the AU group is Dr. William Davidson, dean of the college of technology.

During the past few weeks, AU students have raised $4,500 for the Mexico project.

Special Service Sunday

A 660-pipe Gabriel Kney Tracker-Action Pipe Organ will be one of more than 25 memorials to be acknowledged and dedicated Sunday, Dec. 28, at 3 p.m. at First Presbyterian church, Benton Harbor.

The public is invited to the service and to a reception which will follow.

Featured in a concert to display the scope and versatility of the new organ will be Anna B. Haupt. She will also accompany the choir. Pat Conrad, a member of the church, will also perform two numbers.

The dedication will be led by the Rev. Ellis Marshburn, pastor.

The new organ has been given to the church by a family of the church.

This particular organ operates through mechanical action and is known as a tracker instrument as opposed to one electrically operated. It is one of the oldest types of organ known and basically used the only type of reproduction known for hundreds of years.

The organ was designed and built by Gabriel Kney Co., Limited of London, Ontario, Canada.

Kney was born in Germany, studied organ there and was for a time a builder's apprentice. He emigrated to Canada in 1951, where he was a voice (tuner) for an organ firm until 1955 when he founded his own business. Since that time, there has been a revived interest in mechanical action organs and Kney has now built 76 of these instruments with 80 per cent of them in the United States.

The construction of the organ took 2,000 man hours. The metal pipes, the smallest being one-quarter inch, were made in Germany. The wooden pipes, with the longest eight feet, were made in London, Ontario. All are custom made and the pipe scale was designed and tuned for this particular sanctuary.

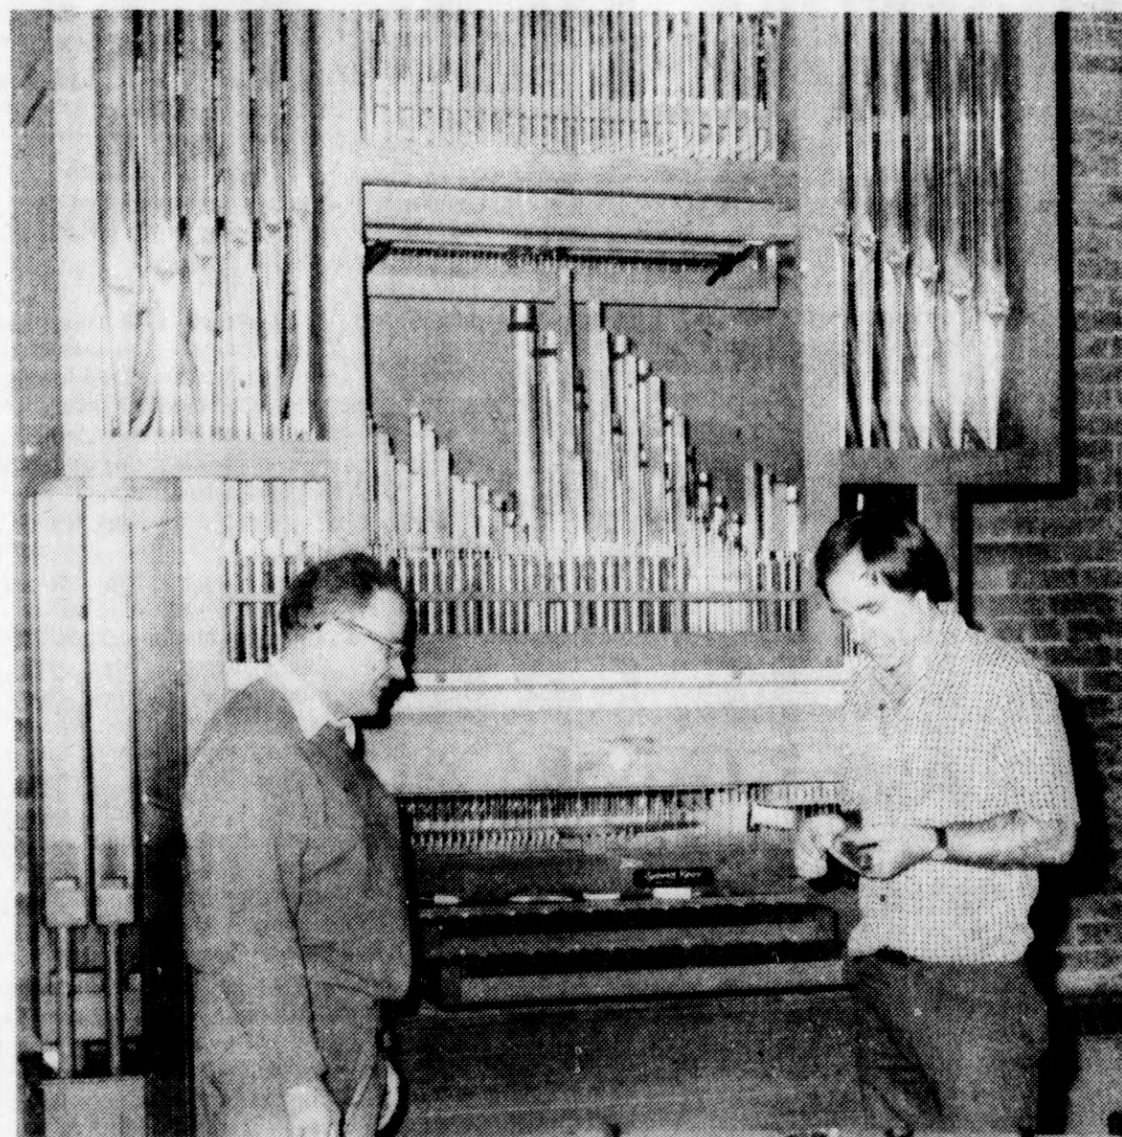

This type of instrument is known for its tonal effects and allows more compact designs with pipes closer together, permitting a better blending of pipes and stops.

There are two keyboards, each representing a small organ of its own, with tonal color providing contrast to each keyboard. The pipes of the two manual divisions are physically separated from one another within a casework of their own permitting further separation and contrast of sound between the two sections.

Most early organ music was written for instruments where manual divisions were physically separated and provided contrast. In this instrument, Kney has retained these early tonal characteristics. Modern organ compositions, with the exception of those of the Romantic school, which require a different approach, can also be played on this organ in a fully satisfactory manner. The tonal design, based on the 18th century approach to church organs, is well suited to the accompaniment of congregational singing as well as that of a choir.

GUEST ORGANIST: Anna B. Haupt will be guest organist Sunday, Dec. 28, at 3 p.m. when new tracker organ will be dedicated at First Presbyterian church, Benton Harbor. (Staff photos)

BUILDER: Gabriel Kney of Gabriel Kney Co., Limited of London, Ontario, Canada, right, shows the Rev. Ellis Marshburn, pastor, action of new tracker organ Kney built for First Presbyterian church, Benton Harbor. Organ was a gift to the church and will be among memorials dedicated Sunday, Dec. 28, at 3 p.m.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

THE BIBLE

No. 219. The 23rd Psalm

The 23rd Psalm is perhaps the best-known and most widely-read Psalm. Many children have memorized it as part of a Sunday School assignment. It is, of course, one of the most beautiful hymns of assurance ever written.

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me....Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever."

(Psalms 23:1-6)

The Psalms appearing in this column were selected by a group of five clergymen since all of the Psalms cannot be illustrated. Basically, there are five classes of Psalms: Hymns (Psalms 95), National Dirges (Psalms 11), Royal Hymns (Psalms 45), Individual Dirges (Psalms 22), and Individual Thanksgivings (Psalms 18).

How to help your boy on collection day!

When your carrierboy comes to collect please make sure you're ready. With the right change, if possible, he'll appreciate it with a broad smile and a "Thank you". You see, because he is in business for himself, your newspaperboy depends on the full collection of his route for his full profit. Repeat calls mean extra work with no extra profit. So—give the boy a break. And thanks!

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Why Fight Losing Battle?

Dear Ann Landers: My oldest son is just recovering from a heart-breaking romance. He bought the girl jewelry, record albums, expensive clothes, took her to the fanciest restaurants and last week she broke off with him.

Now my younger son (age 18) is headed in the same direction. He had a good summer job and saved quite a lot of money. Although he needs new shoes, a winter jacket and several other items of clothing, he doesn't spend one cent on himself. All his money goes on this girl's back. She calls him "to go shopping" and like a sap he buys her anything she wants.

When I tell him he's making the same mistake his brother made he says, "It's my money, and I'll do what I want with it."

What can I do about this stupid fool? — Heartsick Watching

Dear Mother: If you are "Heartsick Watching" my advice is to look the other way. You're fighting a losing battle. Mother. Some folks must get their lumps first-hand, and I'm afraid your son is due for some "on-the-job training."

Grow Up

Dear Ann Landers: Do I have the right to be mad? Recently I married a man who was spoiled rotten by his mother. She waited on him like a hand-servant. He never picked up a sock after himself.

I work an eight-hour day. After the honeymoon I had a talk with him and he agreed to do the supper dishes on weekends while I took the clothes to the laundromat. When I returned, my mother-in-law was walking out of the kitchen with a towel in her hand. She had just finished doing the dishes.

After she left I hit the roof. My mother-in-law didn't eat with us. She just dropped in. I think she should not have done his work. What's your opinion? — Angry

Dear Ang: This is a problem? Grow up, kiddo. If you're going to make a go of it with Junior you'd better learn not to sweat the small stuff. Save your anger for the major hassles ahead — and I can promise you there will be many.

It's Proper

Dear Ann Landers: A woman I know lost her husband three years ago. They were married 18 years.

She still wears her wedding ring, which, to me, seems like an act of misrepresentation. After all, a widow is NOT a married woman.

Should I do her a favor and tell her she is violating a rule of etiquette? — A Friend

Dear Friend (?): Do yourself a favor and M.Y.O.B. If a widow wants to wear her wedding ring (and many do) it's perfectly proper to do so.

Speak Up

Dear Ann: My mother-in-law smokes around my young children and it drives me crazy. She always has a cigarette dangling from the corner of her mouth.

Yesterday she was holding our three-month-old son and dropped some ashes on the baby's face. I was furious but gritted my teeth and said nothing. I hate fights. Please advise. — Peace Lover

Dear Friend: I, too am a Peace Lover but there are times when one should speak up regardless of the risks. If ever you had the perfect opportunity to ask your mother-in-law not to smoke in the presence of your children, that was it. Too bad you blew it.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts

The reverse of the trump promotion play may well be called the trump demotion play. The man perpetrating this crime against the defenders tries to get one of them to waste an apparently valueless low trump on an unnecessary ruff.

South wins the heart lead with his queen. The five spades is a cinch, but South wants to make one more trick. An overtrick means 30 points in

To Show Movies Tuesday

"The Littlest Angel" and "The Red Balloon" are the movies to be shown for Family Film Night at Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library, St. Joseph, Tuesday, Dec. 30, at 7:30 B.m.

"The Littlest Angel" is the story of the rowdy little angel in Paradise and his offering of a cherished box of toys to the Christ child.

"The Red Balloon," is an imaginative fantasy of a boy in Paris who "makes friends" with a balloon. The film, without narration, follows the adventures of the boy and balloon through the streets, shops and crumbling tenement flats of Paris.

A story hour for preschool through second grade children will be held Saturday, Jan. 3, at 11 a.m.

A display of antique toys will be at the library through December.

New books at the library are "The Great American Medicine Show" by Spencer Klaw; "Off Camera" by Leonard Probst, and "The Formula Book" by Norman Stark.

MANY SCENTS Today's fragrances still come from a blend of exotics such as fresh iris, jasmine, rose de mai, ylang-ylang, French mosses and sandalwood.

For Sunday, Dec. 28, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You should do very well today in a situation where you share an interest, especially if it's a business arrangement.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is one of those days where it's better for you to team up. You'll operate more effectively in double-hitch.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Since you're a very good innovator today, try your hand at some of those do-it-yourself projects you've been eyeing.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Go where the action is today. You'll be flattered at being the center of attraction.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today you'll crave the company of others, especially in your own surroundings. Call a few friends. Ask them over for some cheer and conversation.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A good day to take care of paperwork you might be behind on. Write those letters you owe, or just bring your books up to date.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The Christmas season is not over! Don't be surprised if someone pops up with an unexpected gift. They've been holding it until they see you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Avoid saddling yourself with definite plans today. The things that occur on the spur-of-the-moment will be the most fun.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're highly perceptive regarding business matters today. If you see an opportunity to make a profit, take advantage of it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Some information will be passed on to you by a friend today. It's something you're not familiar with, but it warrants a good, hard look.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't be afraid of challenging situations today. You still have the edge on your opposition.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The good news from a distance you've been hoping for may come through today. Leave word where you can be reached or check in frequently.

For Monday, Dec. 29, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Though your plans may take a little extra effort to implement today, put them into practice if you feel they're worthy and well thought out.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be realistic in business dealings today. Insist upon having all pertinent information before making an agreement.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Stand behind promises you make today. Being a person of your word will help strengthen your image of reliability.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Before putting out fresh funds for something that you now need, first see if you make do with what's at your disposal.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Situations under your personal management today will call for a firm hand. Face up to your responsibilities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Let one who has been loyal to you in the past know that she can freely call upon you to help her with a problem.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It won't put you in a bad light to ask advice or questions about something you feel you should already know much more about.

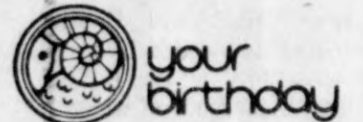

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be both prudent and practical in matters relating to your finances today. Protect your interests so that what's due you is not overlooked.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You may run into a situation today similar to one you've mastered in the past. Put your experience and wisdom to good use.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you're called upon to help someone today, do so in a manner that does not look like you're doing it just for praise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Pals who seek your opinions today expect you to tell it like it is. Be tactful, but also lay the facts as you see them.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The next few days, devote maximum time to major priorities. Don't be afraid of rolling your sleeves up and working hard.

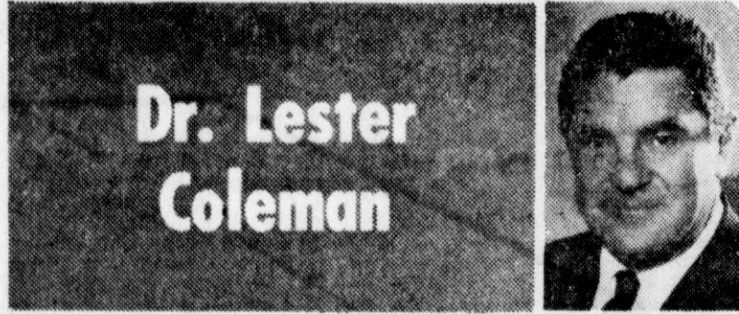

Dec. 28, 1975

The coming year will be a very active one for you. You'll make a lot of new scenes and meet a lot of new people. Short trips are also a possibility.

Dec. 29, 1975

Don't write-off too readily this coming year projects to which you've devoted considerable time and effort. A few new twists could put them in the profit column.

A new drug is being tried to dilate the blood vessels of elderly people, in an effort to stop mental deterioration. Arteriosclerosis can be responsible for loss of memory and diminished intellectual achievement.

The drug, cyclandelate, has been used by Dr. Peter Hall in Worcestershire, England. He has obtained impressive results.

American physicians, too, are beginning to use the drug, which should be a boon to the elderly.

Osteomyelitis is an infection of the bone. Very often it is difficult to control such infections because they're not readily accessible.

A well-conceived idea for the new treatment of bone infection is calling forth much enthusiasm.

Dr. Klaus Klemm, of Frankfurt, Germany, has developed a method by which he soaks plastic beads with antibiotics and implants them in the diseased area.

The antibiotics are "fed" over a long period of time, by means of the beads, to attack the bacteria causing the infection. In addition, the beads themselves seem to produce faster bone regeneration.

Surgeons in America are now duplicating this procedure, hoping to attain Dr. Klemm's overall success rate of more than 70 per cent of his cases.

The early detection of an aneurysm very often determines survival. An aneurysm is a widening, or a bulge, of an artery due to some weakness of its inner wall.

This bubble, when undetected, may rupture and threaten life.

A number of techniques have been devised to study the aorta, the largest artery in the body. One of these is known as "aortography." With special dyes and X-ray, this large vessel can be seen in its entirety.

Now, a group of scientists at the Medical College of Virginia are using ultra-sound in order to locate an aneurysm, if it is present.

Dr. Michael C. Beachley, Professor of Radiology, believes that these ultrasonic vibrations are a safer technique for the early detection of aneurysms.

To Present Musicales

A "Holiday Musicales," will be held Sunday, Dec. 28, at 5 p.m. at First Baptist church, St. Joseph.

The public is invited and the Teen Chorale will sing under the direction of Mrs. Kenneth Behr.

Luxury Items Boosted Christmas Sales

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer

Merchants in many areas of the country report the Christmas shopping season produced double-digit sales increases over last year, with trade especially good in items like digital watches, black negligees and color television sets.

Americans bought standards like clothing and furniture this year. But luxury items in general sold well, and there was enough money left over to generate a few new fads like pet rocks and mood rings.

"The words 'double digit' have always been used with inflation. We've had double digit increase in business," said Harry Hedberg, vice president of Capitol Court, a major Milwaukee shopping center. "I'm talking about figures 25 per cent above last year."

National sales figures are not yet available. But stores in Washington reported increases of 15 to 45 per cent over last year. Miller & Rhoads in Richmond, Va., said sales were up 25 per cent; Rich's Inc. in Atlanta was up 20 per cent; and a leading St. Louis retailer declared it "an exceptional year."

"The customer has the money and he's willing to spend it," said Morton Huff, chairman of St. Louis' Famous-Barr store. "He's not as pessimistic as he was last year."

Consumer confidence — "renewed," "returning," or "expanding" — was cited repeatedly by retailers explaining the buying spree.

"Unemployment is down, people are working and people have money," Jim Sherburne, president of John A. Brown Co., a department store in Oklahoma City, said Friday.

At several Oklahoma City stores, coffee makers and hair dryers and stylers were sold out long before Christmas. It was the same elsewhere. Christmas sales weren't just up, they were up enough to exceed the expectations of many retailers.

Men's leisure suits, tennis equipment and microwave ovens sold well at J.L. Hudson Co., in Detroit. Hand held electronic calculators, women's sportswear and peanut butter makers did well all over, particularly in what many sellers said was a booming three days just before Christmas.

The Sears store in Hollywood said bicycle sales were "terrific." Miller & Rhoads in Richmond reported, "The jewelry business was outstanding. The fur business also went well."

Reports of increases were almost universal, but there were some weak spots. Spot checks in San Francisco and Los Angeles indicated increases of less than 10 per cent, smaller than in other cities.

And the Jordan Marsh Co. in Boston said sales were up only 3 to 5 per cent this year, less than the 7.3 per cent increase in inflation from last November to this November.

But, for the most part, merchants were talking about real sales increases — items sold — not figures bloated by inflation.

"The best indication of how well we did is that last year few people were willing to pay for luxury gift wrapping," said Dan

Sharkey, a vice president for Dillards Inc. in Little Rock, Ark. "This year people were willing to pay the extra dollar or two so that their packages would look better," said Sharkey. "The gift wrapping was so busy we nearly ran out of wrapping paper and had to scrounge to find some."

Whalen Released From Hospital

STERLING HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) — Government informer John Whalen has left an Oakland County hospital in the custody of federal agents, officials said Friday.

Whalen, the key witness against former Michigan Supreme Court Justice John Swainson in a bribe conspiracy case, entered St.

Joseph West Hospital eight days ago for treatment of two gunshot wounds and 34 burns on his body.

Whalen told officials he had been tortured and kidnapped the previous day, when he was to begin serving a 6-to 10-year jail term for a 1969 burglary.

He left the Clinton Township hospital Wednesday night with two of the federal marshals who had been on duty outside his room during Whalen's six-day hospital stay, officials said.

Whalen's attorney, DeWay LaRene, refused Friday to say where Whalen went after leaving the hospital.

Sterling Heights Police Chief Maurice Foltz said a polygraph test Whalen was to have taken Friday was cancelled and had not been rescheduled. Foltz refused to say why the test had been cancelled.

Missing May Think He's Fleeing Nazis

KIEFER, Okla. (AP) — The week-long search for an ailing World War II veteran who may think he is an escapee from a Nazi prison camp has shifted to this Creek County area after a farmer said he saw the missing man.

Bob Stice told sheriff's deputies the man limped away from near his barn, despite calls to him. Deputies said Stice later viewed a photograph of Alfred C. Sherman and said he was sure it was Sherman, 54, missing from a nursing home since Monday.

Attorney Delays Questioning

WINTER GARDEN, Fla. (AP) — An attorney for the lone witness to a quadruple murder says he's only temporarily blocking police from interviewing his client.

Atty. Ralph Hadley said detectives would be allowed to interview W.T. Zeigler Jr. as soon as he can withstand questions about the Christmas Eve shooting in which he was wounded and his wife, her parents and a customer were killed at Zeigler's furniture store.

EPA Will Curb Misuse Of Funds

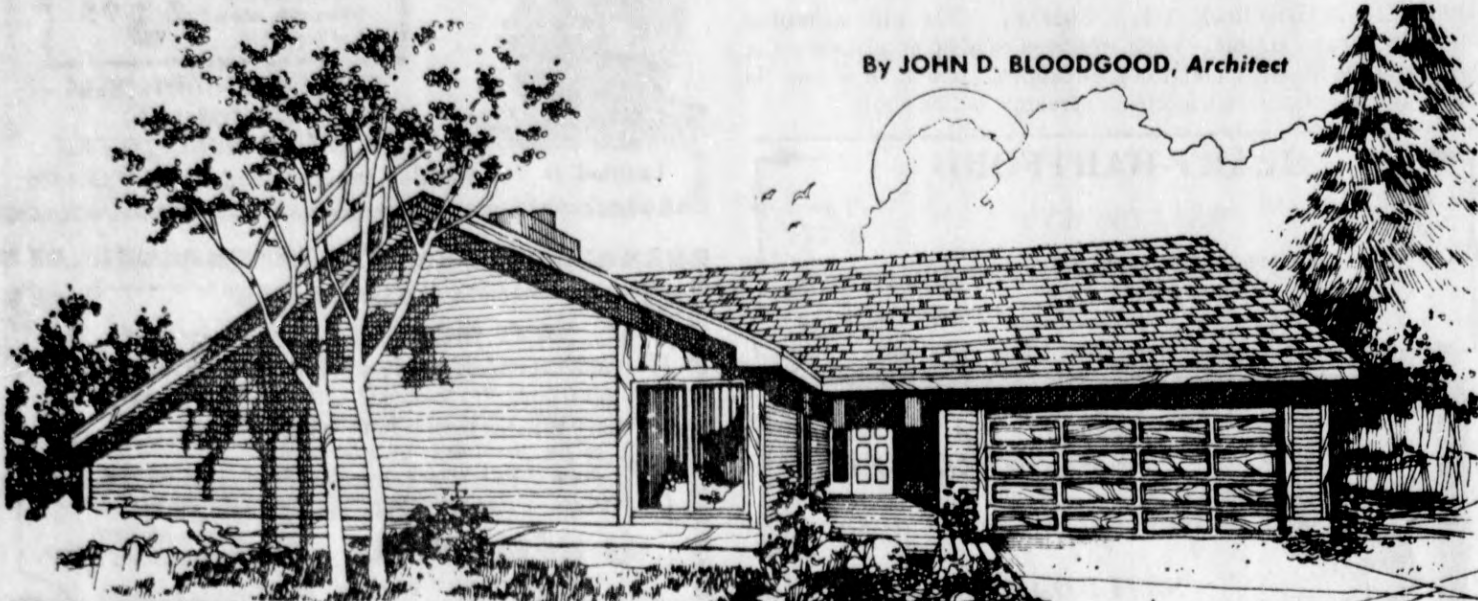

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has adopted new, tougher guidelines to curb misuse of funds in the $18-billion federal program to help local governments build waste treatment facilities.

The Environmental Protection Agency said the new regulations stipulate that "only fair and reasonable profits" may be earned by contractors receiving EPA money to build the local waste projects.

Garage Door Opener Needs Care

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

An automatic garage door opener is a great convenience, but like so many other things, its performance depends to a considerable degree on how well you take care of it.

Keeping the opener on a regular schedule of preventive maintenance insures that it will work smoothly in all weather conditions. Here are some tips for keeping it in shape:

Keep door hinges, bearings and rollers well-lubricated with a silicone spray or light oil. In most areas, the door track should never be lubricated with a heavy grease because it can coagulate in cold weather. Instead, apply a light coating of silicone spray. Inspection of these areas every three to six months will insure continued quiet and efficient operation.

A properly lubricated trolley rail is a must for smooth, effortless door lifting and lowering. The trolley rail connects the opener power mechanism with the door arm. Semi-annually, it should be inspected for accumulated dirt, grime or caked or dried grease and then cleaned with solvent. Wear gloves on this part of the job to save on cut fingers. Relubricate the rail with the tube of rail grease that came with your opener or use a silicone spray.

An improperly balanced door is the cause of many garage door opener ills and can cause damage to the opener mechanism, as well. Remember, your opener can only do automatically what you can do manually, only more efficiently. Without the use of a transmitter, the door should travel up and down easily with gentle help from your hand. If the door springs are weak, have a competent, professional serviceman repair or replace them. Do not tamper with door springs yourself because they operate under extreme pressure and can cause injury.

Look for evidence of wear or bind on metal parts. Frequently, these are sure signs of an unbalanced door or an improperly installed opener. If not checked early, your warranty may not cover any subsequent damage caused by these conditions.

Inspect all external wiring for bare or exposed spots that could short the opener motor. Before attempting, any electrical repairs, be sure to disconnect the power source.

Many garage door openers provide a safety emergency disconnect feature that allows you to operate your door manually during a power failure. Periodically test this feature to be sure it operates properly. Parts should be oiled with a light application of silicone lubricant.

An expert on the subject, Robert Ford, vice president of Chamberlain Manufacturing Corp., cautions that a weak battery can cause uneven performance before it goes dead altogether. His advice:

"Don't neglect to replace periodically the battery in your portable transmitter. A strong signal is important for opening your door, especially under cold weather conditions. Most transmitters are powered by a 9-volt, transistor-type battery. The most durable replacements are the 'long-life' batteries sold for cameras or portable radios. Under normal use, most transmitters will operate satisfactorily for one year or longer before fresh batteries are needed."

Clogged Downspouts: Some Cures

NEW YORK (AP) — Got a clogged downspout at your house? Some of the tricks for clearing them are tapping on the length of the spout, using a hose, and routing or driving the clog out.

For the tapping method, tap along the vertical length of the metal. Use enough force to dislodge minor obstructions but not so much that the metal is damaged.

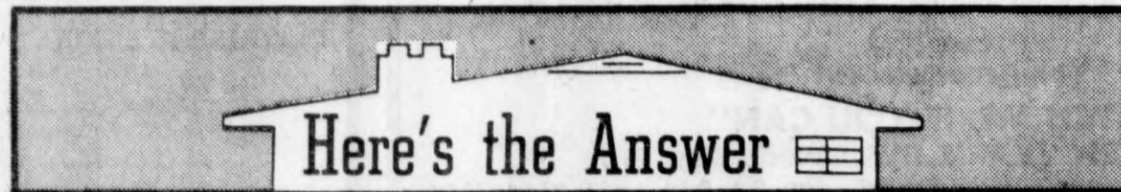

If this doesn't work, try dropping a hose into the downspout as far as it will go, then turn on the water full force.

Or attach tire chains or something similarly heavy to a strong rope and drop it into the downspout from the top. Repeat several times, then pour water into the top of the spout to see whether it goes through.

Remember: the chains must be dropped into the downspout, not lowered.

As a last resort, use one of the augers that usually are utilized to clean out stoppages in sink drains.

It must be emphasized that this job must be undertaken by someone who has had some experience in working at heights with ladders. If the top of the downspout did not have a cone-shaped mesh screen over it to keep out debris, install one.

Q. — There are several places on one side of our house which require patching. The material is stucco. The areas that need patching are very small, some no larger than a half dollar. What do I use to make the patches?

A. — Get one of the ready-mixed materials usually called "sand mixes" or make your own from one part of portland cement to three parts of clean sand. Use a hammer and cold chisel to remove all parts of the stucco that are not adhering firmly. Do not disturb that which is solidly attached. Undercut each gap; that is make the opening at the bottom wider than it is at the top, a procedure that locks the new material in place. Wet the opening thoroughly, then apply the sand mix with a trowel.

If a rough finish is needed to match the surrounding surface, allow the patch to harden for just a few minutes, then go over it with a wooden float. Since stucco finishes vary considerably, you will have to decide whether the wooden float does the job or whether it will be necessary to use a whisk broom, brush or sponge to get the desired effect. If the opening is quite deep, apply the patching material in two operations. Fill the gap the first time to within an eighth of a quarter inch from the surface, let it alone for two or three days, then finish the job. In all cases, the patch should be wet down twice a day for several days.

Q. — What kind of adhesive should I use when gluing together two pieces of foam rubber?

A. — Use a regular rubber cement. If the bond is to be under any tension, use two coats of cement, allowing the first to dry thoroughly before applying the second. The resulting bond will be stronger than the foam itself.

Women Can Make Home Repairs With 'Recipe' Book

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Women are more mechanically inclined than they may realize, says a long-time professional house repair expert, Alvain Ubell of Brooklyn. He was discussing why women shy away from certain repair jobs.

"Macrame, knitting, cooking and using household utensils provide women with a digital dexterity that is a mechanical plus, although they may not be aware of it. Being mechanical is really environmental. You must be involved," he explained.

A woman often hesitates to do something because she knows she doesn't have the background, but men often psyche themselves into being heroes doing things they aren't equipped to do. He will do something to show he isn't afraid, but actually he should be, Ubell contends.

In his 25 years in the construction business, as a house inspector conducting 1,500 or so inspections a year, and as a lecturer and author, Ubell has found that the biggest fears of do-it-yourselfers concern electricity.

"Anyone who works on electricity must have a basic understanding of what he is doing. But once you understand what you are doing you will have enough confidence to do a job knowing that you are not going to get hurt. The most important consideration is learning how to do it."

Homemakers are also concerned with problems involving contractors, he has learned at his lectures. People want to know all about how to deal with house contractors, heating problems, how a house ticks generally, he says.

In his book, "Recipes for Home Repairs," written with Sam Bittman, he has tried to provide directions for every conceivable house ailment within the scope of the do-it-yourselfer's talents. If you can follow recipes in a cookbook, you can understand how to follow the home repair recipes, he insists.

More than a hundred repair formulas include those for sticking windows, squeaking floors, foundation cracks, brick work, condensation on cold water pipes, door buzzers, cracked floor tiles. In his opinion the most important information in the book is his flush valve diagnostic chart. This provides symptom, diagnosis and cure.

Some repairs may be of special interest to women — for example, how to remove a broken light bulb, always a ticklish problem. The first step requires turning off the electricity. The broken bulb is grasped with a folded newspaper and removed. If nothing is left of the bulb, a 6 to 8-inch piece of wood, one-half-inch square, may be used. After carving a point at the end of it with a pocketknife, the stick is inserted and wedged there by tapping it with a blunt edge of a hammer. When the stick is secure, it should be turned counterclockwise to remove what remains of the bulb.

In using the cookbook setup, the repairs have been assembled with a list of utensils and ingredients, a step-by-step solution and the average time it should take to do the project. Rattling windows should be quieted in 30 to 45 minutes. A torn screen might be repaired in 15 minutes.

Squeak in a floor? Years of squeakiness could be ended in 30 minutes, if you are lucky. Equip yourself with a flat, thin chisel, a hammer, broom, vacuum cleaner and talcum powder. It's a job that can be done by a homemaker who hasn't yet learned to use a lot of fancy tools.

Locate the source of the squeak, then open the tight floorboards slightly by inserting the chisel into a crack, tapping it with a hammer and moving the chisel lightly from side to side. Sprinkle talcum powder into the cracks. A few taps on the floor will shake the powder into the joints. Sweep powder over squeaky area with a broom. Vacuum excess powder but do not remove too much from cracks.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Nearing 275 High

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Declining interest rates and hopes that a year-end rally was beginning on Wall Street combined to produce a healthy Christmas week advance in the stock market.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 15.43 to 859.81, moving once again within hailing distance of its closing high for the year of 881.81, reached on July 15.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index picked up 1.54 to 90.25, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index rose 7.8 to 47.80.

Big Board volume shrank to 44.23 million shares in the holiday-shortened week from 84.83 million in the five full sessions of the previous week.

Analysts described the economic news background as generally favorable. But they said the primary upward influence on stocks appeared to come from within the market itself.

Early in December, they noted, buyers had pulled back to let some of the predictable year-end tax selling run its course.

As the number of trading days left in the year dwindled down to a handful, those same investors then seemed to move in gradually, accumulating stocks on the theory that the temporary pressure of tax selling had pushed many issues down to bargain levels.

"It's a rally in anticipation of a rally," as one broker put it.

A growing factor in the market's length late this past week appeared to be hopes that interest rates might be headed down.

The principal source of that optimism came from the bond market, where prices continued a strong rally that has had the effect of driving down yields on interest-bearing investments which compete with stocks for investors' funds.

In addition, the Federal Reserve announced late Wednesday that it was making a slight reduction in the amount of reserves it requires member banks to keep against longer term time deposits.

The overall count on the NYSE showed 1,263 gainers against 483 losers among the 2,044 issues traded. There were 49 new highs for the year and 36 new lows.

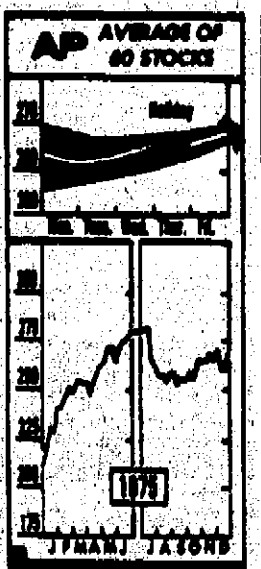

Airline stocks were a particular bright spot, with Pan American up 1 1/2 at 9 1/2 at the top of the active list, Braniff ahead 1 1/2 at 9 1/2, and Eastern 1/2 higher at 4 1/2, among others.

Brokers said investors seemed to be figuring that the new energy law would ease the pressure of rising fuel prices on the industry.

The bond market rally meanwhile boosted utility issues, which like bonds are usually bought for the income they yield. Consolidated Edison of New York rose 3/8 to 14 1/4; Virginia Electric & Power 1/8 to 13 1/4; and Southern Co. 1/4 to 14 1/4.

J-T-E Imperial jumped 4 1/2 to 18 1/2. Gould Inc. sought to buy 2.5 million of the J-T-E shares it doesn't already own, offering $20 a piece for them.

Kirby Industries was the volume leader on the American Stock Exchange, up 1/2 at 41 1/4.

MARKET UP: The stock market rose over the holiday-shortened week with the Dow Jones average closing at 859.81 Friday, up 15.43 from the week prior. The Associated Press average rose by 4.5 over the same period, to close at 268.9. (AP Wirephoto)

INVESTORS' GUIDE High Quality Bonds Adjust To Rates

By SAM SHULSKY
Q: You seem sold on AA or AAA rated bonds for retirement income. What I don't understand is why, at 8 1/2, I should buy a 30-year bond? I don't figure on living to age 94. If I try to sell before the bond matures, I don't think I will receive my cost price. Furthermore, in 30 years, interest rates may be well above 9 per cent. If I buy a 10-year Treasury bond, I can get 8 per cent. Wouldn't that be a better deal?

A: I think you've got most of the arguments right — except that idea of not living to age 94. You could try!

You are setting forth an age-old argument. It comes up all the time, and therefore, I suppose it is worth presenting again.

1) A 30-year borrower is prepared to pay more interest than a 5- or 10-year borrower. That's only natural.

2) Any negotiable bond can be sold any day, between now and maturity. What you will get for it (we're talking now only of high-grade bonds) will depend upon the then going rates for money. If interest drops back to 7 per cent for AAA bonds, such a bond you buy today will sell at a premium. If interest rates rise to 14 per cent, you'll lose money on a resale.

3) Assuming you continue to need income from now on, there isn't much point in thinking of selling since the high quality bond you buy today will constantly adjust to money rates. So, if you don't figure on living in age 94, the bond can remain a part of your estate just as conveniently as other assets and more conveniently than most.

4) As of the day your letter arrived, 10-year Treasuries were yielding less than 8 per cent. If you really want to "stay loose" (liquid) so as to take advantage of interest rate changes, you'd most likely have to accept around 6 per cent from bills or around 7 per cent from 2- to 4-year Treasury notes.

Q: We are selling our home and not buying another. The proceeds represent all our capital. We are looking for investments which will help us avoid the tax on the profits.

A: The securities (or whatever) you buy with the proceeds of your home will have no bearing on the tax liability (if any) you have already incurred. One has nothing to do with the other.

However, before you get up-tight about this tax bill you ought to see whether you really are subject to a tax. Taxes on profits on homes are substantially reduced in the case of those who sell their home after 65. If this applies to you, ask your local IRS or a tax accountant. You may have no cause for worry.

The average weekly wage hit an all-time high this year of $214.51, the department said. As a result, weekly worker's compensation payments for 1976 injuries will increase $5 across the board, the department said. Court Bars Competitor's Use Of Tabor Hill Name

An order signed this week by Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White has prohibited a south county competitor, from in any way using the name of Tabor Hill Vineyard and Wine Cellars, Inc., of route 1, Buchanan.

The consent judgement entered by Judge White formally settles a $250,000 suit filed last year by Tabor Hill against Carl Banholzer, individually and doing business as Carl Banholzer Vineyard and Cellars of route 1, Three Oaks.

In the suit Tabor Hill claimed that Banholzer, a former partner, had violated a 1971 agreement in which he sold his interest in the firm to Leonard Olson and relinquished all rights to the trade name.

The judgement also orders Banholzer to refrain from contacting grape growers who have contracts with Tabor Hill and to refrain from stating or suggesting that he introduced certain varieties of grapes to Michigan — Aurora, Bacon Noir, Cabernet Sauvignon, Cascade, Chardonnay, Chelois, Eoch, Johannisberg Reisling, Pinot Noir, Ravat 51, Seyal Blanc and Vidal Blanc.

Olson is ordered not to indicate that he was the sole and only founder of Tabor Hill, of which he is now president and principal stockholder.

The only financial settlement involved in the judgement is the division of $15,000 which represents the final installment on a payment of $60,000 from Olson to Banholzer for his interest in Tabor Hill.

Under the agreement, Banholzer will receive $12,000 and Tabor Hill $3,000.

Three People Injured In Crashes

Three people were treated at hospitals for injuries sustained in two traffic accidents in Hagar township and Benton Harbor Friday.

Benton Harbor police reported Vickie Briley, 20, who gave an address of 185 Sassafras road, Coloma, and Shirley Snow, 28, of 1200 East Empire avenue, Benton Harbor, were both treated and released from hospital after an accident about 3:30 p.m.

The auto the two women were in, driven by Vickie Briley, another car driven by David Lampkin, 29, of Union Pier, collided at the intersection of Empire avenue and Pipestone street. No ticket was issued at the scene pending further investigation.

Also injured in a traffic accident yesterday was Oliver P. Harpe, 59, of Ypsilanti. State police from the Benton Harbor post reported Harpe was the driver of a pickup truck that rolled over and then down an embankment off I-196 near Hagar Shore road about 3:30 a.m.

Harpe was treated and released at Memorial hospital ticketed for careless driving.

Property Tax Notices To Be Mailed

COLOMA — Property tax notices for Coloma township residents are expected to be mailed sometime next week.

And, Michael Callender, director of Berrien county's tax description office, said the notices should be turned over to the township Monday. The notices are prepared on a county computer.

The 2,400 tax notices are normally mailed Dec. 1, but Palmer said this year problems with a computer program have delayed preparation.

Palmer said tax payments are due no later than Feb. 15 without penalty.

'Ins' Have Edge In Capitol Trickery

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The "quick gavel" that forced through a bill delaying a tax break for property owners a week ago was only a blip — and not an unusual — example of a common practice in the state legislature.

House Minority Leader Dennis Cawthorne reflected the realities of legislative life when he commented, "legitimacy is nice when you can get it."

When you can't, it helps to know some parliamentary tricks or have your party in the chair at the crucial time.

Last week, legislative leaders decided to dispense with the niceties when they failed twice to attract a two-thirds vote on immediate effect for the tax-delay bill.

As opponents shouted in frustrated anger, the presiding lawmaker whistled — through immediate effect on the strength of a voice vote and then took a quick motion to adjourn.

Such corner-cutting is an accepted and normal practice when routine things have to be done in a hurry or when leadership decides to drop the formalities and ram through what it wants. There is often a lot of screaming and objections, but seldom can anybody claim to be caught unawares.

The Democrats, with a majority in each house, have a major edge in such parliamentary battles. Not only do they have more votes, but they have a Democrat in the chair on key items.

It must be said, however, that in almost all cases the action is done by the book. I everybody gets to talk, all motions are considered and each side has to follow the rules scrupulously and produce real votes to get their way.

But sometimes things break down in the crunch of emergency business or when lawmakers are hurrying to adjourn. The result can range from a sudden deafness in minority voices on the part of the presiding officer to obvious partisan rulings for the majority.

In the House, such tricks include holding the voting open while the good guys scramble for votes — or announcing the tally abruptly when the desired outcome is assured.

"I'm trying to be fair," pleaded speaker pro tem Matthew McNeely of Detroit one day as he balanced a defeat for leadership against his role in protecting it.

In the Senate, leaders are sure to place a partisan in the chair when key issues are being debated. Several lawmakers are famous for being able to count more "yeas" in a quiet mutter than "nays" in a thundering roar.

It often requires a quick jump to the microphone to obtain a legitimate roll call or show of hands on the part of the opposition to keep from being railroaded.

But sometimes, even the handpicked gavel runs out of patience when his forces don't get their act together.

"Let's face it, you don't have the votes," an exasperated McNeely told his leaders from the chair one day after bending over backward to accommodate them.

Yonkers Slashes City Spending

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — The Yonkers Emergency Financial Control Board has approved a skin and bones fiscal plan that State Controller Arthur Levitt says "will cause hardship in many quarters."

The plan, designed to slash spending by $18 million over the 18 months, calls for firing more than 900 school employees, closing between five and eight schools, three fire companies, the city jail, three library branches and the Hudson River Museum.

Clark Alters Days Workers To Return

Production workers at Clark Equipment's Construction Machinery division, Pipestone road, Benton township, will return to work next Monday, Tuesday and Friday, according to Charles W. Johnson, vice president of manufacturing.

A story in this newspaper yesterday said the workers, who are currently on holiday break, will return to work for one day, Friday, Jan. 2, before a one-month halt in production Jan. 5 will lay-off the workers. The erroneous information was provided to this newspaper by Clark Equipment.

Some 200 workers will be affected by the production halt, according to Johnson. He said some workers will be recalled Feb. 2, but the exact number will depend on economic conditions at that time.

GREEK TIES WARMING UP Murder Jolts Yank Envoys

ATHENS (AP) — The assassination of Richard Welch, said to be the top Central Intelligence Agency operative in Greece, has jolted Americans who have been working to improve the sour U.S.-Greek relations of the past 18 months.

Officials of both countries, however, for the time being regard Welch's murder as an isolated incident not likely to upset the process of rebuilding relations. As a precaution, top-ranking diplomats in the U.S. Embassy are receiving special police protection.

A Greek government official said Welch, gunned down by three masked men as he returned from a Christmas party Tuesday night, appeared to have been "a very special target ... his killers apparently knew him, were aware of his movements."

Welch, officially described as a U.S. Embassy official, has been identified in the Greek press and by sources in Washington as the Athens station chief of the CIA.

A friend of Mrs. Welch said the couple felt secure in Greece compared with Peru, Welch's previous assignment.

"Dick didn't take any unusual security precautions because he felt safe here in comparison to Latin America," the friend said.

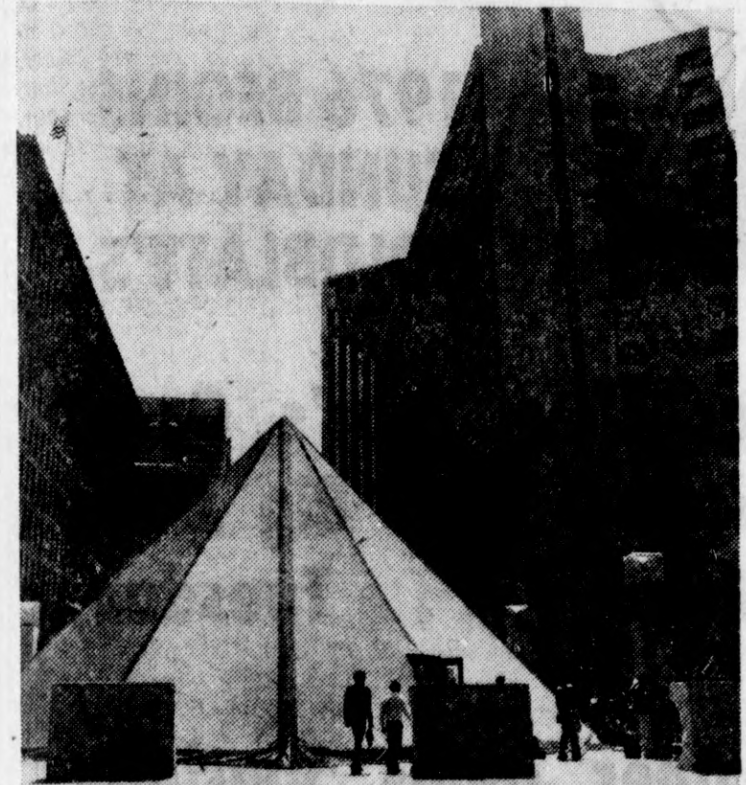

Only recently had relations between Washington and Athens begun to thaw from the freeze of 1974. Americans at that time were subjected to insults and abuse from Greeks who accused the United States of having propped up the 1967-74 Greek dictatorship and of backing Turkey in the Cyprus dispute.

The civilian government that took over from the military in 1974 ordered a cutback in American television programs and movies. Joint cultural events were halted, because Greeks refused to participate and Americans feared their artworks would be damaged.

But events this year in both Washington and Athens have been credited by Greeks with bringing a thaw. They included the efforts in Congress to halt the flow of U.S. arms to Turkey and the low profile adopted by the new U.S. ambassador, Jack Kubisch, to remove suspicion of American meddling in Greek affairs.

"Kubisch has succeeded by keeping out of the picture," said a Greek official who complained that during the dictatorship some Americans were too cozy with junta members.

Dearborn Heights Police Hunt Modern-Day Scrooge

DEARBORN HEIGHTS, Mich. — Authorities in the Detroit suburb of Dearborn Heights are looking for a person they say has to be the "meanest person" of the year.

The subject of the search is an unidentified person who abandoned eight puppies in a plastic rubbish bag outside a supermarket in sub-freezing temperatures on Christmas Day.

Dearborn Heights mayor John Harris said his police are scouring the city for the Christmas Scrooge, and when officials find him or her, Harris vowed to, as he put it, "throw every book in the city's law library" at the culprit.

The mayor said when they find the scrooge, they will charge him or her with cruelty to animals, and Harris adds, in his words: "We hope the judge puts him in jail and lets us throw the key away."

The puppies were found by officers investigating a faint whimper coming from a plastic bag behind a store. The officers looked inside and found the shivering puppies.

Two of the puppies died on the way to the police station, another died at the station and a fourth was taken to a veterinarian with frozen hind legs. The other four were warmed with heaters and lodged in the station.

Mayor Harris said the four-to-six week old mixed-breed puppies will stay at the station until they can be adopted.

Heart Attack Patients Ignore Symptoms, Says U-M Specialist

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Heart attack patients are like "wounded animals" — they tend to "hold-up" away from help, says a University of Michigan heart specialist.

"Many persons know, or suspect they have 'heart trouble,' but still they die before a doctor, nurse, ambulance driver or other paramedical person has a chance to help them, according to Dr. Leon Osterander Jr., a cardiologist who has made a statistical study of deaths caused by heart attack. He says there will be little improvement in death statistics as long as heart patients continue to procrastinate and ignore warning symptoms.

If they become sick at the office, many heart patients go home to rest, the physician says. If they feel ill at a convention or on vacation, they go back to their hotel room to lie down.

And this is how most of them die, Osterander says. They usually are beyond help by the time it arrives.

The delay usually ranges from two to four hours, the greatest part of which is patient decision time, says Osterander. Some of this is transportation time and the remainder medical decision time.

Symptoms include fatigue or weakness, shortness of breath, chest pain, emotional change, loss of appetite and nausea, arm pain, dizziness or fainting and ankle swelling, Osterander says.

"When they first notice signs of illness, he adds, most patients ask the advice of a friend or relative, then they rest or slow down. Calling their doctor is third on the list of priorities.

"This may be followed by the taking of a prescription medication and drinking — either more or less than usual.

"None of these activities are much good, according to Osterander, because they waste valuable time. He says heart patients should be reminded repeatedly to go immediately to the nearest hospital if they even suspect an attack.

"Patients in far too many cases, says Osterander, are concerned about 'being a bother,' and they end up as a statistic.

Vehicle Meetings Canceled

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Possible revisions in the state's new Motor Vehicle Service and Repair Law have forced the cancellation of 31 statewide meetings to answer questions about the law. The Secretary of State's office was to hold the meetings in various cities in January. The legislature is working on revisions to the law, which goes into effect March 1 to regulate service and repair businesses.

important to remember the majority of offenders are psychologically incapable of helping themselves, otherwise they would not be imprisoned. Much as an infant must first crawl before walking, such in contrast is the average offender's need to help himself.

How can this first crucial step be achieved when the offender is treated in a massive non-categorical situation, one that deprives the individual of social and self bearing and creates an acute sense of regimentation. The impersonal stereotyping of these individuals certainly defeats the desired and necessary criteria for rehabilitation. Moreover, it confounds the senses and inherently creates an innate feeling of utter confusion and frustration. Which as is human nature, creates unhealthy anxieties and hostilities and thusly the offender, more often than not shuts himself off to the predicament and cares only about the survival of the ordinal and emotionally escaping the situation by living within a fantasy world, searching for something that makes sense.

Indeed, the offender has an opportunity to further his/her education and perhaps obtain a G.E.D. or vocational skill, but this is secondary unless the offender has the genuine motivation and incentive instilled within him/her to pursue these "foreign" positive goals. How can this be achieved in the present corrections system? It rarely can be at this time for the simple reason that the current system is geared toward containing the offender for X number of years. While there is nothing wrong with tight security in a prison, it should be designed so as not to overstep its effectiveness to the degree of destroying the offenders' feelings of self-worth simply because where there is a feeling of self-degradation there exists a defeatist attitude.

The problem of recidivism is certainly no mystique in my judgement. Where there is a returning offender, there not only is social dilemma, but moreover a classic question arises: why has the offender returned? He certainly doesn't crave the confining walls, or does he to a certain degree?

Because prisons are prisons they tend to slowly divest the offender of all social drives in there panacean quest to attain rehabilitation, indeed in the process of penal adjustment all responsibilities of any relevance are set aside in the name of security. The answer is prisons only confine the potentially malignant problem, instead of treating the cause and symptoms.

Remember one day that offender shall once again take his place within the community, perhaps, next door to you. Are not our prisons worth looking into?

NOTICE

Please take notice that Chikaming Township, Berrien County, Michigan, is undertaking the construction of a Sanitary Sewage Disposal System. In all cases where a permanent easement for constructing sewage lines, located on private property, is required, the following policy will be followed by the Township:

An independent appraisal of the property will be made to determine:

1. The fair market value of the property before giving the easement, excluding any benefit or detriment from the project.
2. The fair market value of the property remaining after giving the easement including benefit or detriment from the project.

The difference, plus or minus, computed from the above, will yield the off-setting benefit/detriment to the owner's property. After giving an easement, the property owner may be considered to have suffered no loss because of the increase in the value of his property from the project.

Every reasonable effort will be made to give the owner of the property affected an opportunity to accompany the appraiser during inspection of the property.

Clerk

Beauty Shop Blast Kills 1, Hurts 4

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — One man was killed and at least four others were injured Friday when a can of gasoline exploded in a beauty salon in Muskegon Township.

Police said the blast apparently occurred when the men entered the beauty salon with a plastic pail full of gasoline. The men were working on the carburetor of a car parked outside the building, officials said.

Investigators said the bottom of the pail apparently fell out, splashing the gasoline on the floor. Vapors from the gas were ignited by the pilot light of a wall heater, touching off the explosion, officials speculated.

At least one of the injured men was reported burned seriously. He was flown to the University of Michigan Burn Center in Ann Arbor for treatment. Identification of the dead man was withheld pending notification of his family.

Copper Layoffs Blasted By Ruppe

WHITE PINE, Mich. (AP) — The planned layoff of some 2,100 of the White Pine Copper Co.'s 2,900 workers will be disastrous for the employees, their families and their communities, a Michigan congressman said Friday.

Rep. Philip Ruppe, a Republican, said Friday's notice of the firm's action "demonstrates how wrong the antitrust division of the Justice Department was" in getting an injunction blocking the proposed merger of the company and Amax, Inc.

Homemade Bomb Is Detonated

WILLOW SPRINGS, Ill. (AP) — A homemade bomb was found behind a travel agency only minutes after more than 1,000 bargain hunters were evacuated from the crowded Willow Spring Shopping Center in this Chicago suburb.

Post-Christmas sales were in full swing at the center Friday when an anonymous telephone caller with a heavy accent told a clerk at the Easy Way Travel Agency that a bomb would explode at 5 p.m.

Sgt. Robert Scruggs of the Cook County sheriff's police found the bomb hidden between the travel agency and a fence. Scruggs drove to a pistol range, a five-minute ride, with the bomb in his car then detonated it with a blasting cap. The result, said Willow Springs Police Chief Michael Corbett, was "a hell of a blast."

State Pays 'Forest Tax'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State grants totaling more than $270,000 have been mailed to 55 counties as "taxes" on privately owned commercial forests open to the public, the Department of Natural Resources said Friday.

The state payments to the counties, supplementing those made by land owners, are 25 cents an acre. The state pays the taxes on more than a million acres of commercial forest land.

Land owners pay 15 cents an acre and a percentage of the value of timber harvested from the land. The forests are then open to public hunting and fishing.

Aliens Required To Make Report

Aliens in the United States are required to report their addresses to the attorney general during January, according to Armand J. Salutrelli, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, Detroit.

With few exceptions, aliens who are in the U.S. on Jan. 1 each year must report their addresses by the end of that month. Only the following two classes of aliens are excused from this requirement:

- 1 — Accredited diplomats.
- 2 — Persons accredited to certain international organizations.

Forms with which to make the report can be obtained from any post office or Immigration and Naturalization Service office during January.

NOW SEE HERE!

By Bert Bacharach

EVER SO MANY people seek counsel on how to tip. Advice is more needed, I feel, by those on the receiving end. Too many of them seem to forget that tipping is a reward, not an obligation. Good service pays off — poor service doesn't. It's as simple as that. . . . Our Confusing Language: shriek, sheik, sleek, speak, pique. . . . Graphologists say a smaller signature than the rest of the writing shows someone who feels a little inadequate and seeks reassurance. . . . A psychiatrist says if your favorite fairy tale is "Little Miss Muffet," you like things in familiar places. Strange or unexpected problems cause you tremendous stress. . . . Folklore: "If you kill a spider, it will rain." . . . Map-reading (animal roundup): Elk Point, S.D.; Hungry Horse, Mont.; Deer Ark, Ermine, Ky.; Gazelle, Calif.; Red Lion, Pa. — and does Redd Foxx know there's a Red Fox, Ky.? . . . Inflation Note: "A quarter for your thoughts."

KITCHEN-SNOOPING: If you like just a little laurel flavoring, use whole leaves and remove them after the first cooking stages, before seasoning is corrected for serving (The Gaslight clubs). . . . Hot stewed prune and brown rice make a tasty side dish for pot roast (Concord hotel, Kiamasha Lake). . . . A tasty way to prepare leftover frankfurters: split franks lengthwise and place atop English muffin halves. Top with Cheddar slices and bake in oven till cheese melts and muffin edges are crisp. (Mrs. B's Kitchen).

SMATTERING OF SIGNS: The Gemini husband is not inclined to "help around the house," not does he want any part of disciplining the children. Taurus is mostly concerned about his possessions — such as property, furnishings for the home, clothes and his bank balance. Aquarius is the sign of brotherhood, and tolerance and natives of this sign have a strong sense of responsibility to others.

BEAUTY HINT from George Carroll, North Hollywood: "Hair that has not been trimmed for a long time has been exposed to the drying effects of the weather. To avoid 'frizzies,' have hair trimmed every three months." . . . Bar-Snooping at Chateau Madrid, NYC: "The Latigale" is an after-dinner drink — blackberry brandy, cherry brandy and a couple of drops of lemon juice over ice. . . . Slimming Tip: Cut down on fattening foods gradually. For example, use two slices of bread for your sandwich this week and

Today In History

By Associated Press

Today is Saturday, Dec. 27th, the 361st day in 1975. There are four days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1949, Queen Juliana of the Netherlands signed an act granting sovereignty to Indonesia after nearly 350 years of Dutch rule.

On this date:

In 1571, the pioneer German astronomer, Johannes Kepler, was born in Wurttemberg.

In 1822, the scientist known as the founder of preventive medicine, Louis Pasteur, was born in the French city of Dole.

In 1900, prohibitionist Carrie Nation staged her first raid on a saloon, smashing bottles at a bar in Wichita, Kan.

In 1944, in World War II, an American tank column smashed across the German bulge in Belgium and relieved U.S. troops who had been under siege at Bastogne.

In 1945, after World War II, the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union announced they would govern Korea as joint trustees for five years, then grant independence.

In 1966, a rally of 100,000 Red Guards in Peking denounced China's President Liu Shao-chi.

Ten years ago: An oil drilling rig collapsed in the North Sea off Yorkshire, England, and 13 of the 32 aboard were killed.

Five years ago: A Finnish tanker split in two in a North Atlantic storm. Six crewmen were lost.

One year ago: The prosecution completed its final arguments in the Watergate coverup trial.

Today's birthdays: Marlene Dietrich is 71 years old. Former Marine commandant Wallace Greene is 68.

Thought for today: When there is a lack of honor in government, the morals of the whole people are poisoned — President Herbert Hoover.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the King's post office closed in Philadelphia. The New York post office had closed on Christmas Day.

Attorney Delays

Questioning

WINTER GARDEN, Fla. (AP) — An attorney for the lone witness to a quadruple murder says he's only temporarily blocking police from interviewing his client.

Atty. Ralph Hadley said detectives would be allowed to interview W.T. Zeigler Jr. as soon as he can withstand questions about the Christmas Eve shootout in which he was wounded and his wife, her parents and a customer were killed at Zeigler's furniture store.

MAY RETURN TO STAGE

NEW YORK (AP) — There's a possibility that actor Richard Burton will soon be working again on Broadway after a 10-year absence from the city's theaters.

EPA Will Curb Misuse Of Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has adopted new, tougher guidelines to curb misuse of funds in the $18-billion federal program to help local governments build waste treatment facilities.

The Environmental Protection Agency said the new regulations stipulate that "only fair and reasonable profits" may be earned by contractors receiving EPA money to build the local waste projects.

Want to ask a famous person's question? Send the question on a postcard, to: "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR BARBRA STREISAND

Is it true that you are highly influenced by the men in your life?—A.S., San Mateo, Calif.

● No man can take over my life. I've had the same manager for 14 years, the same lawyer, the same press agents. I make my own decisions and they help me. But I resent all the implications that the man I've been going with, Jon Peters, is my Svengali. I think it's very sexist to suggest I am so weak-minded. And it's a drag to find the public actually believes my life is the same as my screen image. Every man in my life has to be a "Funny Girl" hero to the press. It's just not true!

FOR JIMMY BRESLIN, author

I understand you made a memorable statement about Governor Nelson Rockefeller's failure to go to Attica Prison during the riots. What was it?—John Rogers, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

● I said that when Rockefeller was a kid, he went to the Museum of Modern Art with his governess. If he had gone to the movies like other kids, he would have known that during a riot the governor of the state always shows up at the prison.

FOR LUCILLE BALL

As Lucy, you're always in incredible situations. Does this ever happen to you in real life?—L.R., Fort Worth, Texas

● How's this one? Years ago I decided to give an old-fashioned Halloween costume party. I put an awful lot of planning and effort into it. Two hours after the guests should have arrived, it became horribly obvious that no one was going to show up. The next morning, I made some phone calls to find out what happened. I found out I'd forgotten to mail the invitations!

FOR OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN

I'm nuts about you and wonder what you do in your spare time. I'm hoping our paths might cross—C.R., San Mateo, Calif.

● They might, if you like horseback riding. When I'm home (in Malibu) and not working, I ride whenever I have the time. It's my favorite sport, and my best way of relaxing. I'm also a dog lover, and it breaks my heart when I see strays. I wish I could work out a system so that people would go to pounds and become "foster owners."

FOR BILLY GRAHAM

Do you ever visit Richard Nixon and his family?—Dede Fuson, La Porte City, Iowa

● Yes. In August I had dinner with the former President and Mrs. Nixon. And before my October trip to the Orient I stopped for a brief but enjoyable visit.

FOR KATE SMITH

As a perpetual dieter, how do you avoid overeating at lunch?—B.C., Anniston, Ala.

● I make what I call my "London Smoke" concoction—a half-glass of homogenized milk mixed with a half-glass of diet cola. It's filling and delicious!

FOR BUD GRANT, head coach of the Minnesota Vikings football team

I often wonder why pro quarterbacks hold the ball for field-goal kickers. They could be injured. Is this why your quarterback doesn't?—Ed Murphy, Teaneck, N.J.

● My main reason is this: When you decide to attempt a field goal, it means the quarterback has failed to take the team down the field. He's usually feeling negative at that point. Why should he be made to hold the ball when someone else can do the job?

FOR BING CROSBY

Which Christmas gift did you treasure most of all?—B.G., Canton, Ohio

● Every present is precious, especially when it comes from dear ones. But I'll never forget the time Dad came home with a new Edison phonograph (I was a lad then) and some records. It was the first time I'd heard such singers as Caruso. I was overwhelmed by the sound. Looking back, it seems that's when I must have decided I wanted to be a singer, too.

FOR ERMA BOMBECK, columnist

What is the funniest thing you've ever said?—Barb Banski, Kenosha, Wis.

● When I turned to best-selling novelist Arthur Hailey ("Airport," "Wheels," etc.) and announced, "I have written everything you've ever read."

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

How long has Guy Lombardo been playing? It seems to me he's been around forever.—S.R., North Bergen, N.J.

● His New Year's Eve broadcast this week will be his 48th. When Lombardo gave his first, on radio in 1927, he felt sure it would also be his last! He's 73, and seems to be as active now as he was when he started out, playing for concerts, hotel and club dates and one-night stands. Unlike most musicians, Lombardo was raised in moderate luxury. His father, a tailor, told his seven children not to follow in his footsteps because "The last one to get paid is always the tailor." In the beginning, Lombardo recalls, he could not broadcast lyrics that had the word "hell" in them, due to the strict censoring rules. He and Lilliebell have been married over 40 years. Incidentally, Lombardo's first book, "Auld Acquaintance," was recently published.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Nearing '75 High

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Declining interest rates and hopes that a year-end rally was beginning on Wall Street combined to produce a healthy Christmas week advance in the stock market.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 15.43 to 859.81, moving once again within hailing distance of its closing high for the year of 881.81, reached on July 15.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index picked up 1.54 to 90.25, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index rose .78 to 47.60.

Big Board volume shrank to 54.23 million shares in the holiday-shortened week from 84.63 million in the five full sessions of the previous week.

Analysts described the economic news background as generally favorable. But they said the primary upward influence on stocks appeared to come from within the market itself.

Early in December, they noted, buyers had pulled back to let some of the predictable year-end tax selling run its course.

As the number of trading days left in the year dwindled down to a handful, those same investors then seemed to move in gradually, accumulating stocks on the theory that the temporary pressure of tax selling had pushed many issues down to bargain levels.

"It's a rally in anticipation of a rally," as one broker put it.

A growing factor in the market's length late this past week appeared to be hopes that interest rates might be headed down.

The principal source of that optimism came from the bond market, where prices continued a strong rally that has had the effect of driving down yields on interest-bearing investments which compete with stocks for investors' funds.

In addition, the Federal Reserve announced late Wednesday that it was making a slight reduction in the amount of reserves it requires member banks to keep against longer term time deposits.

The over-all count on the NYSE showed 1,263 gainers against 483 losers among the 2,044 issues traded. There were 49 new highs for the year and 36 new lows.

Airline stocks were a particular bright spot, with Pan American up 1/2 at 5 1/2 at the top of the active list, Braniff ahead 1 3/4 at 9 1/4, and Eastern 3/4 higher at 4 1/4, among others.

Brokers said investors seemed to be figuring that the new energy law would ease the pressure of rising fuel prices on the industry.

The bond market rally meanwhile boosted utility issues, which like bonds are usually bought for the income they yield. Consolidated Edison of New York rose 7/8 to 14 1/4; Virginia Electric & Power 1/8 to 13 1/4; and Southern Co. 1/4 to 14.

I-T-E Imperial jumped 3/4 to 18 1/2. Gould Inc. sought to buy 2.5 million of the I-T-E shares it doesn't already own, offering $20 apiece for them.

Kirby Industries was the volume leader on the American Stock Exchange, up 1/4 at 41 1/4.

The Amex market value index edged up .15 to 82.58.

ASKS TROOP REMOVAL
NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council has called on Indonesia to remove its troops from East Timor and work for peaceful decolonization of the former Portuguese territory.

Clark Alters Days Workers To Return

Production workers at Clark Equipment's Construction Machinery division, Pipestone road, Benton township, will return to work next Monday, Tuesday and Friday, according to Charles W. Johnson, vice president of manufacturing.

A story in this newspaper yesterday said the workers, who are currently on holiday break, will return to work for one day, Friday, Jan. 2, before a one-month halt in production Jan. 5 will lay-off the workers. The erroneous information was provided to this newspaper by Clark Equipment.

Some 300 workers will be affected by the production halt, according to Johnson. He said some workers will be recalled Feb. 2, but the exact number will depend on economic conditions at that time.

MARKET UP: The stock market rose over the holiday-shortened week with the Dow Jones average closing at 859.81 Friday, up 15.43 from the week prior. The Associated Press average rose by 4.5 over the same period, to close at 268.9. (AP Wirephoto)

INVESTORS' GUIDE

High Quality Bonds Adjust To Rates

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. You seem sold on AA or AAA rated bonds for retirement income. What I don't understand is why, at 6 1/2, I should buy a 30-year bond? I don't figure on living to age 94. If I try to sell before the bond matures, I don't think I will receive my cost price. Furthermore, in 30 years, interest rates may be well above 9 per cent. If I buy a 10-year Treasury bond I can get 8 per cent. Wouldn't that be a better deal?

A. I think you've got most of the arguments right — except that idea of not living to age 94. You could try!

You are setting forth an age-old argument. It comes up all the time, and therefore, I suppose it is worth presenting again:

1) A 30-year borrower is prepared to pay more interest than a 5- or 10-year borrower. That's only natural.

2) Any negotiable bond can be sold any day between now and maturity. What you will get for it (we're talking now only of high-grade bonds) will depend upon the then going rates for money. If interest drops back to 7 per cent for AAA bonds, such a bond you buy today will sell at a premium. If interest rates rise to 14 per cent, you'll lose money on a resale.

3) Assuming you continue to need income from now on, there isn't much point in thinking of selling since the high quality bond you buy today will constantly adjust to money rates. So, if you don't "figure on living to age 94" the bond can remain a part of your estate just as conveniently as other assets and more conveniently than most.

4) As of the day your letter arrived, 10-year Treasuries were yielding less than 8 per cent. If you really want to "stay loose" (liquid) so as to take advantage of interest rate changes, you'd most likely have to accept around 6 per cent from bills or around 7 per cent from 2- to 4-year Treasury notes.

Q. We are selling our home and not buying another. The proceeds represent all our capital. We are looking for investments which will help us avoid the tax on the profits.

A. The securities (or whatever) you buy with the proceeds of your home will have no bearing on the tax liability (if any) you have already incurred. One has nothing to do with the other.

However, before you get uptight about this tax bill you ought to see whether you really are subject to a tax. Taxes on profits on homes are substantially reduced in the case of those who sell their home after 65. If this applies to you, ask your local IRS or a tax accountant. You may have no cause for worry.

Q. I own a $25,000 New York State Electric & Gas 7 1/2 per cent bond due 2001. Can this be paid off prior to maturity? Why can't the interest be considered tax-exempt since it is a public utility?

A. Practically every corporate bond issue may be paid off before maturity — but with certain restrictions. In your case, the 7 1/2 per cent bond of 2001 may be retired at a price of about 107, or $1,070 per $1,000 bond. I can't imagine any company with an A credit retiring bonds which cost it only 7 1/2 in this interest rate market.

The bond issue also may be refunded (that is, replaced with another issue) but not before next year. Here again, there is scant chance of this occurring when new money would cost much more.

Finally, there is redemption for sinking fund purposes, which in this case means the issuing corporation must reduce the issue by 1 per cent every year. However, this requirement is often met by putting new property under the indenture.

I'd say you needn't think much about having this bond called away from you until interest rates for this quality (A) drop to around 6 per cent — and don't hold your breath until they do.

As for the tax exemption: N.Y. State Electric & Gas is a public utility, but a private corporation. Hence — no tax exemption. SHULSKY welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

Compensation Increases

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Weekly worker's compensation payments will increase in 1976 as a result of a $11.15 hike in the average weekly salary of Michigan employees, the state Department of Labor said Friday. The average weekly wage hit an all-time high this year of $214.51, the department said. As a result, weekly worker's compensation payments for 1976 injuries will increase $8 across the board, the department said. Computed through the state's average weekly wage, the payments are adjusted by $1 for each $1.50 change in the wage rate.

Court Bars Competitor's Use Of Tabor Hill Name

An order signed this week by Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White has prohibited a south county competitor from in any way using the name of Tabor Hill Vineyard and Wine Cellars, Inc., of route 1, Buchanan.

The consent judgement entered by Judge White formally settles a $250,000 suit filed last year by Tabor Hill against Carl Banholzer, individually and doing business as Carl Banholzer Vineyard and Cellars of route 1, Three Oaks.

In the suit Tabor Hill claimed that Banholzer, a former partner, had violated a 1971 agreement in which he sold his interest in the firm to Leonard Olson and relinquished all rights to the trade name.

The judgement also orders Banholzer to refrain from contacting grape growers who have contracts with Tabor Hill and to refrain from stating or suggesting that he introduced certain varieties of grapes to Michigan — Aurora, Baco Noir, Cabernet Sauvignon, Cascade, Chardonnay, Chelois, Foch, Johannsberg Reisling, Pinot Noir, Ravat 51, Seyal Blanc and Vidal Blanc.

Olson is ordered not to indicate that he was the sole and only founder of Tabor Hill, of which he is now president and principal stockholder.

The only financial settlement involved in the judgement is the division of $15,000 which represents the final installment on a payment of $60,000 from Olson to Banholzer for his interest in Tabor Hill.

Under the agreement, Banholzer will receive $12,000 and Tabor Hill $3,000.

Three People Injured In Crashes

Three people were treated at hospitals for injuries sustained in two traffic accidents in Hagar township and Benton Harbor Friday.

Benton Harbor police reported Eddie Briley, 20, who gave an address of 185 Sassafras road, Coloma, and Shirley Snow, 28, of 1200 East Empire avenue, Benton Harbor, were both treated and released from hospital after an accident about 3:30 p.m.

The auto the two women were in, driven by Vickie Briley, another car driven by David Lampkin, 29, of Union Pier, collided at the intersection of Empire avenue and Pipestone street. No ticket was issued at the scene pending further investigation.

Also injured in a traffic accident yesterday was Oliver P. Harps, 59, of Ypsilanti. State police from the Benton Harbor post reported Harps was the driver of a pickup truck that rolled over and then down an embankment off I-196 near Hagar Shore road about 3:30 a.m.

Harps was treated and released at Memorial hospital and ticketed for careless driving.

Property Tax Notices To Be Mailed

COLOMA — Property tax notices for Coloma township residents are expected to be mailed sometime next week.

Robert Palmer, township treasurer, said the notices would all be mailed within two days after they are received from the county.

And, Michael Callender, director of Berrien county's tax description office, said the notices should be turned over to the township Monday. The notices are prepared on a county computer.

The 2,400 tax notices are normally mailed Dec. 1, but Palmer said this year problems with a computer program have delayed preparation.

Palmer said tax payments are due no later than Feb. 15 without penalty.

'Ins' Have Edge In Capitol Trickery

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The "quick gavel" that forced through a bill delaying a tax break for property owners a week ago was only a blip — and not an unusual — example of a common practice in the state legislature.

House Minority Leader Dennis Cawthorne reflected the realities of legislative life when he commented, "legitimacy is nice when you can get it."

When you can't, it helps to know some parliamentary tricks or have your party in the chair at the crucial time.

Last week, legislative leaders decided to dispense with the niceties when they failed twice to attract a two-thirds vote on immediate effect for the tax-delay bill.

As opponents shouted in frustrated anger, the presiding lawmaker whistled through immediate effect on the strength of a voice vote and then took a quick motion to adjourn.

Such corner-cutting is an accepted and normal practice when routine things have to be done in a hurry or when leadership decides to drop the formalities and ram through what it wants. There is often a lot of screaming and objections, but seldom can anybody claim to be caught unawares.

The Democrats, with a majority in each house, have a major edge in such parliamentary battles. Not only do they have more votes, but they have a Democrat in the chair on key items.

It must be said, however, that in almost all cases the action is done by the book. I everybody gets to talk, all motions are considered and each side has to follow the rules scrupulously and produce real votes to get their way.

But sometimes things break down in the crunch of emergency business or when lawmakers are hurrying to adjourn. The result can range from a sudden deafness to minority voices on the part of the presiding officer to obvious partisan rulings for the majority.

In the House, such tricks include holding the voting open while the good guys scramble for votes — or announcing the tally abruptly when the desired outcome is assured.

"I'm trying to be fair," pleaded speaker pro tem Matthew McNeely of Detroit one day as he balanced a defeat for leadership against his role in protecting it.

In the Senate, leaders are sure to place a partisan in the chair when key issues are being debated. Several lawmakers are famous for being able to count more "yases" in a quiet mutter than "nays" in a thundering roar.

It often requires a quick jump to the microphone to obtain a legitimate roll call or show of hands on the roll of the opposition to keep from being railroaded.

But sometimes, even the handicapped gavel runs out of patience when his forces don't get their act together.

"Let's face it, you don't have the votes," an exasperated McNeely told his leaders from the chair one day after bending over backward to accommodate them.

Yonkers Slashes City Spending

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — The Yonkers Emergency Financial Control Board has approved a skin and bones fiscal plan that State Controller Arthur Levitt says "will cause hardship in many quarters."

The plan, designed to slash spending by $18 million over the 18 months, calls for firing more than 900 school employees, closing between five and eight schools, three fire companies, the city jail, three library branches and the Hudson River Museum.

Opposition To Tough No-Smoking Bills Is Light

Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Strict no-smoking legislation awaiting Senate action early next year is getting only small puffs of opposition. An aide to Sen. John Otterbacher, who has three no-smoking bills in his Health, Social Services and Retirement Committee, said more than 400 letters of support for the bills have poured in.

The only opposition has come from representatives of the Michigan Tobacco-Candy Distributors and Vendors Association, who let it be known informally they'd oppose the bills, according to aide Ken Sikkema. An association spokesman said the bills may be "the first step in total prohibition of smoking," and said such prospects threaten the tobacco venders and wholesale distributors the association represents. "Plus, smokers are a completely unorganized entity, so we feel we have to step in and fill the gap."

The three bills, which easily passed the House in June, would require restaurants to provide no-smoking sections, would force hospitals to segregate smoking patients in separate rooms and would ban smoking in grocery stores. Leaders of antismoking groups in the state claim the legislation is supported by restaurant and store owners whose fire insurance premiums will decline. They say the owners have been reluctant to ban or limit smoking on their own for fear of losing customers, but will feel more comfortable with the law on their side.

Sikkema said representatives of the Bill Knapp's restaurant chain were concerned only that the bill requiring no-smoking sections for diners be "workable and enforceable." They feel they'd be in a bad position if their people had to tell customers, "You can't smoke here, then have them get up and leave," Sikkema said. But William Sederburg, a House staff member who led a push for adoption of the bills, says they are enforceable — more so than other legislation that would ban smoking in any public place.

"We don't want to make the same mistake we made on the elevator bill," says Sederburg. That bill, passed several years ago, bans smoking in all elevators in the state but is enforced barely, if at all.

The three bills in Otterbacher's committee would be enforced through the licensing process for hospitals, restaurants and food stores, Sederburg said. Lack of compliance with the bills or lack of enforcement of smoking bans would cause firms a loss of license, he said. Many of the letters to Otterbacher have come from GASP, Group Against Smoking Pollution, which has some 2,000 members in Michigan and nearby states, according to Paul Porter, GASP member and American Lung Association official in Flint.

Porter was behind a new Flint ordinance banning smoking in most public places, the only such ordinance in the state. He says residents appear to be complying, and no arrests have yet been made under the law, which would punish public smokers with 90 days in jail or a $300 fine.

St. Joe Man Wins $200,000!

By STEVE SAGER
Staff Writer

Luck from an eight-leaf clover and the good blessings from the "gambling god" combined to help Terrence W. King, 38, St. Joseph, as he won the $200,000 first prize in the state Super Play lottery drawing last night at Southfield.

According to the Associated Press, King, who brought an eight-leaf clover to the drawing for good luck, said he would use the money to pay off bills and fix up the family home at 1525 Niles avenue, St. Joseph.

However, Gene Hoffman, 45, co-owner Mini Mart, with his wife of the 106 Court street, St.

Joseph, where King works three days a week part-time, said the eight-leaf clover can't take all the credit for King winning the $200,000.

Hoffman, contacted by this newspaper this morning, said, "I assured him (King) he had nothing to worry about because the 'gambling god' was on his side."

King also works full-time as a core room foreman at Auto Specialties Manufacturing Co., Riverside plant. He bought his winning ticket at the Mini Mart.

Hoffman said he watched the drawing last night on TV channel 41, Battle Creek, and said King's reaction after winning the $200,000 was "normal — he was dumbfounded."

Hoffman said he talked to King after the drawing last night.

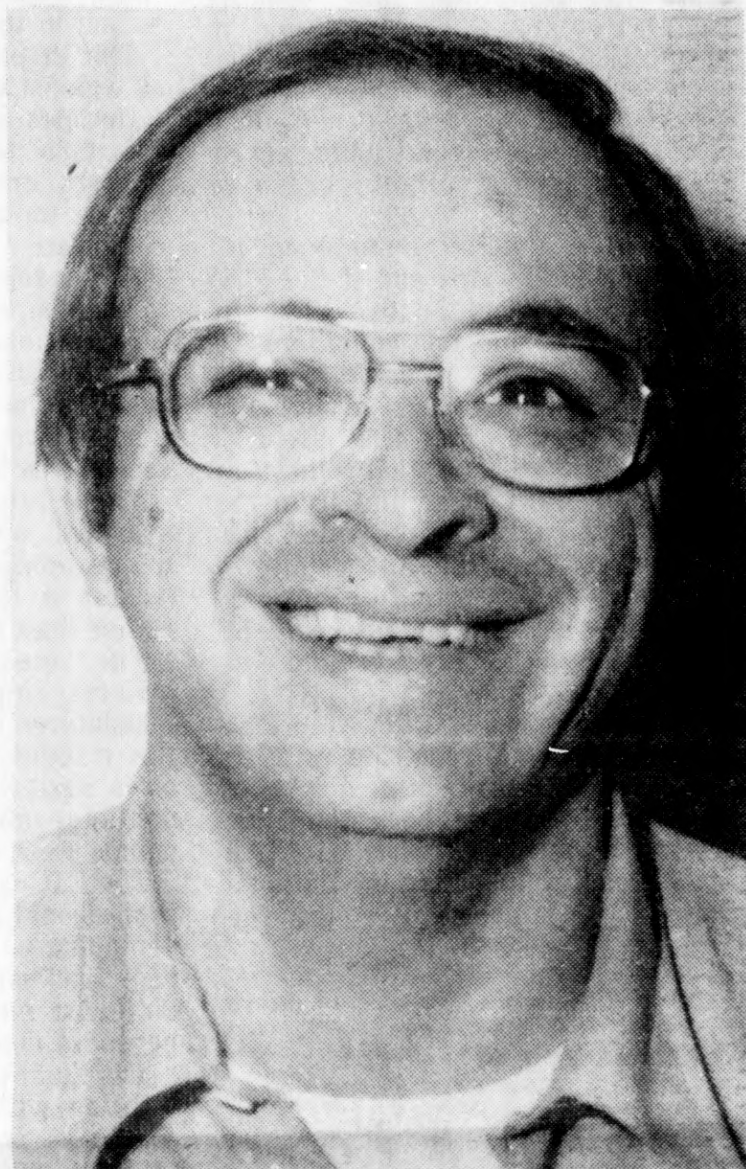

"He's the average working man. I'm glad to see he got it," Hoffman said. Hoffman called King a "good father, good husband and good worker — just a very nice guy."

King has worked at the Mini Mart for the past three years. Hoffman said the telephone "was ringing off the hook" last night with callers trying to confirm King's winnings.

Hoffman said the $200,000 will now make it possible for King to quit his job at the Mini-Mart, but he (Hoffman) hoped King would stay on. "He's a hard worker. A very good man," Hoffman said.

Four other Berrien county residents have won $200,000 since the lottery began in 1972 — Mrs. Julia M. Osborn, Ben Hendershott, and the late Fred Marshall, all of Niles and Arthur Hettig, of 1060 Wedgewood road, St. Joseph township.

Winner of the second place $25,000 prize yesterday was Pearl M. Vandervest, 52, of Warren; $15,000 winner was Theresa R. St. Cyr, 43, Bay City; $12,000 winner was Frank J. Zaremba, 58, Detroit and the $10,000 winner was William J. Anteau, 46, of Monroe.

Three-Year Affair With JFK Revealed By Frisco Socialite

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Joan Lundberg Hitchcock says she had an affair with John F. Kennedy over a three-year period, but broke off the relationship before he became president because "there didn't seem to be much future in it."

Mrs. Hitchcock, 42, said her liaisons with Kennedy occurred infrequently "whenever he was in the area."

She added that she had no illusions about being the only "other woman" in Kennedy's life. "He was a very busy fellow," she said.

In interviews with the San Francisco Examiner and The Associated Press, she described Kennedy as "a wonderful guy and lot of fun." Mrs. Hitchcock, who worked in Sen. Barry Goldwater's 1964 Republican presidential campaign and recently ran unsuccessfully for a seat on the Board of Supervisors here, said they always talked politics.

Mrs. Hitchcock, married four times, said her four children know about the affair and "think it's fine — to the kids he's just another one of my lovers — only he's got some prestige in the family."

"They were great shiny days," she said. "He was a man's man and a ladies' man and I don't think any of the publicity will damage his memory. My attitude about our relationship was that if it wasn't me it would be somebody else."

Another woman, Judith Campbell Exner, said at a recent news conference in that said she led a "close personal" relationship with Kennedy while he was in the White House.

Mrs. Hitchcock said she met Kennedy at a "saloon" in Santa Monica when he was a senator. "He was sitting next to the juke box and I came over to play a song and we started talking," she said.

She said their relationship lasted three years. "Everyone knows that if you go with a gentleman that long you're not just shaking hands," she added. Mrs. Hitchcock said Kennedy was "no different than anybody else when they have a love affair going." She said he gave her presents, some of which she said she still has, but was "not a big spender."

She said Kennedy spoke often of his wife, Jackie, and always in a way that indicated "he respected her very much." She said Kennedy often asked her if she thought Jackie had lovers. Mrs. Hitchcock said she always responded, "No chance."

She said Mrs. Kennedy "knew a lot more than people thought she did and she went along because she was a great lady." Kennedy, said Mrs. Hitchcock, "was very interested in how a person looked and went for very definite types. Usually, the women looked like the Kennedys. He liked to think he could determine a woman's intelligence by looking at her eyebrow structure and the way her eyes were spaced. He was very positive about the kind of women he liked."

For a while, Mrs. Hitchcock said, she was accepted as part of the family by actor Peter Lawford and his wife, Pavca, who was Kennedy's sister. But when the relationship became obvious "I was no longer allowed in the house."

Mrs. Hitchcock appeared hurt by the remarks of Kennedy intimates Kenneth P. O'Donnell and David Powers, who called lies stories about Kennedy's sex life.

"I knew Dave and Kenny," she said, claiming that when she bought their book, "Johnny, We Hardly Knew Ye," they autographed it, "To Joan — who remembers the golden days of JFK."

NO FUTURE: Joan Lundberg Hitchcock, 42, San Francisco socialite, says she stopped seeing then-Sen. John F. Kennedy "because there didn't seem to be much of a future in it." Mrs. Hitchcock has been married four times and is the mother of four. This undated photo was made during San Francisco opera function. (AP Wirephoto)

MSU Psycholgists Agree Women's Lib 'Depressing'

By NANCY KONESKO

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Is the women's liberation movement having a bad effect on this country's mental health?

Two psychologists at Michigan State University agree that the new self-images and lifestyles of liberated women may contribute to mental disorders, especially long-term depression.

They are Drs. Martha Karson and Albert Rabin. They disagree, however, on what aspects of liberation lead to mental problems and to what degree.

Dr. Karson says that twice as many women as men suffer from depression. Her figures are backed up by reports from other mental health researchers who say that married women are the worst off, followed by unmarried men.

In the best mental health are married men and unmarried women.

At MSU's psychological clinic, male patients, particularly younger ones, outnumber females. However, Dr. Rabin said, national figures show that males and females are about equally represented in this country's mental institutions.

He points out that social pressure on young boys to win, achieve, conquer and never cry, can be damaging to mental health. When boys fail to meet expectations of peers and parents, they feel tremendous guilt.

"Because of this guilt," Dr. Rabin said, "child psychologists see many more male than female patients."

He says that increased female consciousness is a source of conflict leading to strong feelings of guilt. It is guilt, he says, produced by the career woman's real or imagined neglect of her family that leads to her mental problems.

Dr. Karson takes a different view.

"Women," she said, "are often frustrated by social codes, standards and expectations which deny them access to certain opportunities and roles.

Frustrations, depending on their severity and on the characteristics of the particular individual, can lead to depression — often serious and long-lasting."

Dr. Victor W. Kershul, Saginaw psychiatrist, said the women he treats for depression often are home-bound, lonely and without close friends with whom to discuss their problems.

"Men often don't realize it," said Kershul, "but they're getting a form of mental therapy on their jobs every day. They can talk things over with other men at the shop or office where they work."

"So what happens? A man gets home at night, and he's talked out. He wants to sit and read or watch television. But his wife, who has been alone all day, has been waiting for him to come home and talk to her. She

Niles Maples Make History

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The deadline is Jan. 15 for ordering sugar maple saplings grown from seeds from a 100-year-old stand in Berrien County, a natural resources official said Friday. About 1,000 "liberty trees" will be distributed to community groups as a commemorative project in 1976, said James A. Bryant, Bicentennial coordinator for the Department of Natural Resources. There is no cost for the seedlings, although a $1.50 shipping cost per tree may be set because of the current state fiscal situation, Bryant said. Seeds were plucked from the maples near Niles in September by state officials, including Lt. Gov. James Damman. The saplings were raised this winter under a special process at Michigan State University and should be 18 inches tall by planting time, Bryant said. Seedlings will be planted on the lawns of the Capitol, the state Secondary Complex in Eaton County and at several state parks.

Dearborn Heights Police Hunt Modern-Day Scrooge

DEARBORN HEIGHTS, Mich. — Authorities in the Detroit suburb of Dearborn Heights are looking for a person they say has to be the "meanest person" of the year.

The subject of the search is an unidentified person who abandoned eight puppies in a plastic rubbish bag outside a supermarket in sub-freezing temperatures on Christmas Day.

Dearborn Heights mayor John Harris said his police are scouring the city for the Christmas Scrooge, and when officials find him or her, Harris vowed to, as he put it "throw every book in the city's law library" at the culprit.

The mayor said when they find the scrooge, they will charge him or her with cruelty to animals, and Harris adds, in his words: "We hope the judge puts him in jail and lets us throw the key away."

The puppies were found by officers investigating a faint whimper coming from a plastic bag behind a store. The officers looked inside and found the shivering puppies.

Two of the puppies died on the way to the police station, another died at the station and a fourth was taken to a veterinarian with frozen hind legs. The other four were warmed with heaters and lodged in the station.

Mayor Harris said the four-to-six week old mixed-breed puppies will stay at the station until they can be adopted.

Heart Attack Patients Ignore Symptoms, Says U-M Specialist

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Heart attack patients are like wounded animals — they tend to "hole-up" away from help, says a University of Michigan heart specialist.

Many persons know or suspect they have "heart trouble" but still they die before a doctor, nurse, ambulance driver or other paramedical person has a chance to help them, according to Dr. Leon Ostrander Jr.

Ostrander is a cardiologist who has made a statistical study of deaths caused by heart attack. He says there will be little improvement in death statistics as long as heart patients continue to procrastinate and ignore warning symptoms.

If they become sick at the office, many heart patients go home to rest, the physician says. If they feel ill at a convention or on vacation, they go back to their hotel room to lie down.

And this is how most of them die, Ostrander says. They usually are beyond help by the time it arrives.

The delay usually ranges from two to four hours, the greatest part of which is patient decision time, says Ostrander. Some of this is transportation time and the remainder medical decision time.

Symptoms include fatigue or weakness, shortness of breath, chest pain, emotional change, loss of appetite and nausea, arm pain, dizziness or fainting and

Vehicle Meetings Canceled

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Possible revisions in the state's new Motor Vehicle Service and Repair Law have forced the cancellation of 31 statewide meetings to answer questions about the law.

The Secretary of State's office was to hold the meetings in various cities in January. The legislature is working on revisions to the law, which goes into effect March 1 to regulate service and repair businesses.

important to remember the majority of offenders are psychologically incapable of helping themselves, otherwise they would not be imprisoned. Much as an infant must first crawl before walking, such in contrast is the average offender's need to help himself.

How can this first crucial step be achieved when the offender is treated in a massive non-categorical situation, one that deprives the individual of social and self bearing and creates an acute sense of regimentation. The impersonal stereotyping of these individuals certainly defeats the desired and necessary criteria for rehabilitation. Moreover, it confounds the senses and inherently creates an innate feeling of utter confusion and frustration. Which as is human nature, creates unhealthy anxieties and hostilities and thusly the offender, more often than not shuts himself off to the predicament and cares only about the survival of the ordeal and emotionally escaping the situation by living within a fantasy world, searching for something that makes sense.

Indeed, the offender has an opportunity to further his/her education and perhaps obtain a G.E.D. or vocational skill, but this is secondary unless the offender has the genuine motivation and incentive instilled within him/her to pursue these "foreign" positive goals. How can this be achieved in the present corrections system? It rarely can be at this time for the simple reason that the current system is geared toward containing the offender for X number of years. While there is nothing wrong with tight security in a prison, it should be designed so as not to overstep its effectiveness to the degree of destroying the offenders feelings of self-worth simply because where there is a feeling of self-degradation there exists a defeatist attitude.

The problem of recidivism is certainly no mystique in my judgement. Where there is a returning offender, there not only is social dilemma, but moreover a classic question arises: why has the offender returned? He certainly doesn't crave the confining walls, or does he to a certain degree?

Because prisons are prisons they tend to slowly drive the offender of all social drives in there panacean quest to attain rehabilitation, indeed in the process of penal adjustment all responsibilities of any relevance are set aside in the name of security. The answer is prisons only confine the potentially malignant problem, instead on treating the cause and symptoms.

Remember one day that offender shall once again take his place within the community, perhaps, next door to you. Are not our prisons worth looking into?

NOTICE
Please take notice that Chikaming Township, Berrien County, Michigan, is undertaking the construction of a Sanitary Sewage Disposal System. In all cases where a permanent easement for constructing sewage lines, located on private property, is required, the following policy will be followed by the Township:
An independent appraisal of the property will be made to determine:
1. The fair market value of the property before giving the easement, excluding any benefit or detriment from the project.
2. The fair market value of the property remaining after giving the easement including benefit or detriment from the project.
The difference, plus or minus, computed from the above, will yield the off-setting benefit/detriment to the owner's property. After giving an easement, the property owner may be considered to have suffered no loss because of the increase in the value of his property from the project.
Every reasonable effort will be made to give the owner of the property affected an opportunity to accompany the appraiser during inspection of the property.

Clerk

An Englishman Looks at Our Bicentennial: Uncle Sam and "The Mother Country"— Through 200 Years of Thick and Thin

By Geoffrey Bocca

The New York cabbie said, "You sound like a Britisher." I confessed it. He went on, "You limeys are taking over everything here. A few years ago, if a guy didn't have an English secretary, he wasn't anything. Your brain-drain doctors have taken over our medicine. Now it's English au-pair girls, and real estate deals with the English. Now I'm driving one in my cab. How do you get away with it?"

"First of all," I said, "you have to lose a war," and I collapsed on the seat in delight at my own joke. It is not often a Briton gets the chance to use that hoariest of postwar clichés, for the simple reason that Britain almost never loses a war. Since World War II alone, Britain has won no fewer than three wars which other countries considered unwinnable, guerrilla wars—in Kenya, Malaya and Borneo. The American War of Independence has been England's only total defeat since the Norman Conquest of 1066. And even then (or so we Englishmen like to tell ourselves) it took men with British names to do it.

So Americans must understand that the British do not feel bad about that war. One cannot say a love-hate relationship exists between the two countries because there is so little hate on the British side. In 1972, during one of the many peaks of controversy over Vietnam, a Harris poll recorded that 49 percent of Americans supported Government policy, 43 percent opposed it and the rest were undecided. Some weeks later, a similar poll was conducted in Britain by Gallup. The result: 48 percent in favor, 44 percent opposed. Not identical, but almost. On almost every major issue, the thinking of most Americans and most Britons is the same.

One of the least noticed facts of life—as unnoticed as the comfort of an old slipper—is the pro-Americanism of the British, both officially and in the streets. Britain gives the U.S. no headaches—not in the U.N., not in NATO, not in foreign policy generally. Anti-American riots in Britain are always synthetic, the work of professional agitators, using what Peter Simple in the London

Daily Telegraph calls "Kent-a-mob."

Not infrequently the British lean over to the extent that they defend America even while America is busy attacking herself. Much of the British press, including such influential columnists as Bernard Levin and Peregrine Worsthorne, were defending Richard Nixon long after he was abandoned by the U.S. press (their point of view: Why pick on Nixon when such tyrants as Brezhnev deserve so much more censure?).

There may be an exception, however: If a poll were to be taken today in Britain on the question, "What do you think of the American Bicentennial?" the answer might well be something like the following:

29% I think Americans are better at the decathlon.

21% I thought Buffalo Bill wiped out the bison.

10% Is it like our Guy Fawkes Day?

8% How do you spell it?

32% Don't know.

The British attitude to United States history is not so much ambivalent as vague. My schoolboy memories are that the War of Independence was one of history's "Good Things." The unspoken inference was that a band of English country gentlemen, under that great English general, George Washington, gave a deserved thumping to one of England's more forgettable German kings. It was always stressed that Washington was a victorious officer of British troops against the French at Fort Pitt, and that at the beginning of the War of Independence, Continental officers continued to toast the King.

"Occasionally, when I find myself in the U.S. In the summer, American friends ask how the British feel when America celebrates July Fourth. The only answer is, they don't feel anything at all."

Education about the War of 1812 was almost nonexistent because English schoolboys were busy fighting Napoleon. In 1812 both the British and the Americans presumed in advance that the depleted English forces in Canada would be no match for the Americans, but that the American fleet had little hope against the Royal Navy. In fact, the reverse happened. The British sacked Washington, and American ships proved superior to the sophisticated British fleet.

As things happened, 39 years later, the maritime shame actually deepened. In 1851, one of the carnival features of the Great London Exposition included a world yachting championship off the Isle of Wight, sponsored by the Royal Yacht Squadron. What was to become invincibly "America's Cup" was won by the American yacht, America, to the incredulous dismay of British sportsmen. A royal aide informed Queen Victoria of the result. "Really?" asked the Queen. "Who came in second?"

The American Civil War caused deep heart-searching in Britain. The upper classes could contemplate slavery with equanimity. Voiced by the thunder of The Times of London, they were pro-South. The working classes, who had real economic reason to be pro-South, weren't. Lancashire depended deeply on Southern cotton, and thousands were thrown out of work by the Federal blockade of Southern ports. But they were also revolted by slavery. The Irish emigration explosion caused by the potato famine of 1846 was two-directional. It hit Liverpool and Glasgow as hard as it hit New York and Boston. The social and political ferment were similar on both sides of the Atlantic, and produced parallel thinking.

But throughout the Civil War there was always the danger of a "flash fire" that would bring England into the war on the side of the South. Outright war nearly began in the fall of 1861, when a hotheaded naval officer created an incident which became notorious as the Trent affair. What happened was that two distinguished Southerners, James Mason of Virginia and John Slidell of Louisiana, had boarded the British mail steamer, Trent, to press Confederate interests in London and Paris. Captain Charles Wilkes of the U.S.S. San Jacinto got wind of the mission, boarded the Trent off Havana and took off the two diplomats.

The incident caused fury in England. An American observer in London wrote William Seward, the Secretary of State, "The people are frantic with rage, and were the country polled, I

Advertising By Professionals

The Federal Trade Commission has set February 9th as the initial hearing date on a proposal to permit the medical profession to advertise its services.

More specifically, the hearing centers on an FTC intention to prohibit professional organizations such as the American Medical Association and The American College of Surgeons from decertifying any or its members who might choose to advertise.

The AMA quickly announced its opposition to the idea and if the FTC should go ahead with what it somewhat obviously considers a sound proposition, it could require some years of appealing through the courts before the order took effect.

The Commission's action follows in line with a pretty clear hint from the Justice Department's Anti-Trust Division last year that the country's numerous bar association's edict against lawyers advertising could be on the same shaky ground as minimum fee schedules.

Only a few weeks ago the American Bar Association's directorate voted in favor of a restrained, ethical type of advertising by its members. Thus far, however, few state associations which are more controlling than the national group, have moved to adopt the

It May Be The Year When Voters Choose Integrity

As the months roll by it is apparent that some people in high political office have not learned the primary lesson of Watergate and other political scandals of recent years. That is simply that integrity remains a virtue in this country. Further, the people are becoming wise to the ways of the charlatan.

Inflation ranks high among the concerns of people polled in public opinion samplings. And economists who once pretended there was little correlation between large budget deficits and inflation no longer are given credence.

Those observations lead to 1976 — a major election year. If past tradition is any example, some candidates for public office next year, incumbents and challengers alike, will be posturing for votes. One of the favorite campaign tools of the past has been the Washington money machine.

It isn't called that by the candidate who proposes vast new programs and offers no plans to fund them, but it is inflation that he really is selling. It just could be that in 1976 the public will not be buying that ruinous argument — or the candidate who offers it.

The bicentennial year is an excellent time to begin talking and acting political and economic common sense.

guideline.

The Commission has in mind to extend its proposal to all professionals who are under some kind of advertising ban. Accountants, architects, engineers, dentists, are all falling in that category.

The dispute finds ideology paired off against consumerism.

Decades ago, reaching back before the turn of the century, doctors, lawyers and dentists were free to pursue their callings with the same competitive zest displayed by any merchandiser of goods and services in the nonprofessional market place.

Educational requirements tend to be minimal, testing for professional skill was a formality, and the practitioner was at liberty to promote his services as he saw fit.

This laissez faire atmosphere spawned widespread quackery and unquestionably the patient or client was in a fair way to being bilked rather than helped.

The medics, followed by the lawyers impressed upon the state legislatures the need to tighten up on this fraudulent condition. Advertising one's dexterity in medicine or law or dentistry and the charges for that genius went by the boards.

The FTC contends this upgrading in professional standards and conduct is deploying a lofty ideal for a baser end, that some of the standards are anti-trust measures to maintain fees beyond a competitive level.

The Commission seeks to bolster its position with the further argument that most people do not know whom to seek out for professional assistance; that advertising of greater potency than is permitted through listing in the Yellow Pages of the telephone directory is the best way to widen that acquaintance and perhaps reduce the cost of professional guidance.

Up to the present, the argument has been made by each side in the black and white tones just described.

Mathematics has always been described as the only exercise expressed in absolute terms, and not all mathematicians agree with that traditional representation. The abstract itself is subject to varying theories.

Professional service will not go to pot if its adherents are allowed to make themselves known better than is now the established pattern.

Neither, though, should the advertising take on the characteristics of what two or more stores customarily hurl at one another.

The ABA has a committee at work trying to develop some informational message types steering clear of a TV pitchman's wild claims and still giving the layman having a legal problem an insight of where to look for help.

It would seem this compromise should not be impossible for other professionals to develop.

Attitude Toward Weather Has Altered Since '88

Weather frequently is referred to as the favorite subject of conversation of rural yokels and city ditto, who are hard pressed to find something to talk about. But weather has become big news — front page news.

Let it rain, or snow, or blow, and there is the weather in detail right on the front page. It's all due to modern conveniences of life. A two-inch snowfall can inconvenience millions.

A reporter who leafed through files of a Kansas newspaper of 1888 found news of a blizzard. How did the newspaper cover it? On page two, like this:

"The grandest snowstorm that ever visited this section since its settlement, in fact the heaviest snowstorm that has probably fallen in Kansas in a third of a century, was that of the night before last and yesterday.

PRISON INMATE POSES CONFINING QUESTION

Editor,

While the community may welcome an ex-con back into his respective area with "Open Arms and an Air of Enthusiasm," although plausible, this in itself many times is not enough. At present the allegedly rehabilitated convict is overwhelmingly through the behavior modification process conditioned out of responsibility, goal seeking, (eg: accept for his release) an extraordinarily enough ceases to think as an individual and yields to the titious monotony of engulfing regimentation and eventual alienation of his individuality, markedly leading to an identity crisis of often irreparable consequence.

More frequently than not the ex-cons do that violate parole or commit new crimes generally have one common characteristic that diminishes their "short lived" stay within society. Among the most prevalent are job instability, personality inadequacies in the form of retarded initiative and incentive gains and resulting a total lack of community re-adjustment.

To appraise this superficially is not enough, let us take a detailed and concise look at the average ex-con. To get to the root of his/her social maladjustment we must of necessity and reason look at the cause for the effect that being his most current and often historic background — prison. In most instances the convict has not had the benefit of a formal education and this major contributing factor coupled with an array of adolescent shortcomings is the primary cause of their anti-social behavior and inevitable incarceration.

Logically, we must assume the offender "needs help and guidance" towards positive rehabilitation. The majority of all men/women in Prison are here because they cannot help themselves in a constructive social manner and it is through the negative behavior that these difficulties ensue. It is at this juncture that rehabilitation is applied in earnest hope of transforming the offender into a constructive, prosperous citizen enabling him/her to reach an equilibrium with society. It has been my experience that the majority of offenders comprising today's criminal statistics are illiterate and the product of broken homes, thusly denied a formal upbringing and the essential benefit of a "positive" social reinforcement, pathetically following the path of least resistance crime.

It took place in Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, and constituted the first payment of that institution's auxiliary to the fund. Mercy hospital auxiliary members have pledged $45,000 to the fund. In the Christmas-giving efforts of the week the boys and girls of the two orphanages of St. Joseph, the Baptist on Langley avenue hill, and the Michigan Children's home on South State street, were made happy when Santa Claus came and distributed gifts at the latter place, which had been well remembered by the Benton Harbor and St. Joseph Women's auxiliary. Dolls for each of the little girls and toys for the boys gave them a merry day. A big Christmas dinner was enjoyed. At the Baptist home four Christmas trees glittered with their load of tinsel trimmings and gay packages — one in each play room, the sitting room and the dining room. Gifts came from California, fruit from Florida and packages arrived all the way from Canada for the

Nuclear Safety Numbers Game

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission recently came forth with a careful, detailed study mathematically calculating the chances of major nuclear accidents and the deaths and damage likely to be caused.

The work was carried out by a scientist of considerable reputation, an honest, able, upright man.

The conclusions, nevertheless, are false and misleading. They are the result of a mathematical anomaly and are not privately taken at face value by senior scientists in the agency with whom this reporter has been in contact.

The study finds that the chance of any individual dying from an accident in a nuclear-powered utility plant in any one year is a minuscule one in five billion — assuming 100 nuclear plants — as contrasted with a one in 4,000 chance of dying in an automobile accident, a one in 10,000 chance of being killed in a fall, a one in 30,000 chance of drowning. The probability of 100 persons dying in a nuclear reactor accident — again assuming 100 operating nuclear utility plants — is calculated at one in 100,000 years, roughly the same probability as 100 persons being killed in a meteorite impact. In contrast with one chance in 16 years of 100 people dying in an explosion, or one in seven years of 100 dying in a fire.

This would seem to place nuclear accidents as one of the least of the worries we might face in the years ahead.

Though the mathematical procedures leading to this conclusion are precise, given the data, there is a catch. Because of the limited experience we have had thus far with nuclear power the probabilities which show up on the answer line may be so distorted as to be meaningless.

To oversimplify, it is as though one flipped a coin three times, then developed a theory on how many times heads would appear in 1,000 flips, based on those three trials, modified by logic and mathematical experience. If, by chance, heads appeared three times in a row, we could come up with some weird conclusion as to what would happen in 1,000 tries.

In blunt terms, we do not have sufficient evidence as yet to determine the probability of nuclear accidents or their probable seriousness.

Take a recent highly publicized accident in which a workman, routinely lighting a candle to check on something set a serious fire at one nuclear plant. Since this occurred before the completion of the safety study, it was considered in the mathematics. But as one nuclear scientist in the regulatory agency said wonderingly, no one in a thousand years would have thought of a candle starting a fire in a nuclear plant. If it hadn't happened, it would most certainly not have been figured in.

The problems will show when there are not a hundred, but a thousand plants, operated routinely by men who have come to regard nuclear power, not as a new and untried source, but as a ho hum, ordinary power source of no particular danger.

This is not to say we should slacken our drive for nuclear power. Opponents, notwithstanding, the evidence points to a most serious need. And though, as noted, the mathematics of this study do not prove it as safe as government propagandists claim, there is no evidence to date either to suggest seriously that nuclear power will be more dangerous than automobiles, swimming pools, airplanes or gas as a fuel, which we have come to accept in return for the benefits they offer.

Conservatives Have Differences

In recent months, a lively and sometimes acrimonious argument has been going on within the conservative camp between my friends and columnist colleagues, Kevin Phillips and William Buckley. Since Phillips has been directing a good deal of fire at National Review, of which I am a senior editor, perhaps I ought to comment.

Kevin Phillips argues that "conservatism" cannot succeed without making itself acceptable to Middle America — a point I myself would not dispute. In a recent column, however, he attacked Buckley this way:

"In one of his recent books, the gentleman - editor of National Review summed up the orientation of his variety of conservatism: 'How can I hope to do better against positivism than Voegelin has done? Improve on Oakeshott's analysis of rationalism? (How does one illuminate a sun-burst?) Rediscover orthodoxy more engrossingly than Chesterton did?' ... Frankly, and despite having earned college honors in political science, I wouldn't know these guys from Lowenbrau, Liverwurst or Hasenpfeffer. So what can they have to say to Kansas City and Scranton?"

Now it seems to me that there is something slightly out of focus in all of that. Phillips is correct in asserting that conservatism must appeal to Middle America, but though National Review most assuredly is not rejecting subscribers, it was not intended to be a mass circulation magazine. After all, liberalism has had some successes, though the subscribers to the New Republic, like those to National Review, hover in the neighborhood of 100,000.

It is the assumption of National Review that out there in Middle America, yes, in Kansas City and Scranton, there reside individuals — and perhaps not all that many — who are addicted to good prose and to theoretical perception. Admittedly, most people at all times and in all places are immersed in the practical demands of living. But at this very moment there may be a Scott Fitzgerald, a Sherwood Anderson, a Charles Beard or a Vernon Parrington coming of age intellectually in Talaposa or Abilene, and he might like to know about Chesterton and Oakeshott. Each of those well-known American writers, by the way, would have benefited from the acquaintance.

There is another point worth touching on here. As I see it, National Review does have two goals which are valid but not altogether compatible. On the one hand, it does seek to articulate the issues and perceptions that arise out of American life as it is actually lived.

But, on the other hand, National Review has served as a forum open to the many varieties of contemporary conservative thought — populist, traditionalist, Catholic, Protestant, Jewish, free market, and so forth.

True enough, some voices in the forum may not be representative of Middle America. But Phillips certainly exaggerates the role played by foreigners. And though the contributions of an Austrian Catholic monarchist may seem a bit remote from Abilene, he nevertheless does have perceptions about 20th century life that apply, mutatis mutandis, to Abilene.

COLOMA DELUXE LARGE BRICK

fear 999 men out of a thousand would declare for war." As the English press fumed, 11,000 British troops embarked for Canada to the strains of a volunteer band playing "Dixie."

Fortunately both sides were blessed with brilliant diplomats. The American Ambassador to the Court of St. James, Charles Francis Adams, and the British Ambassador in Washington, Lord Lyons, soothed ruffled feathers. While feisty Yankees were just as keen to take on the British as vice versa, Abraham Lincoln preached "one war at a time." Seward backed down gracefully, released Mason and Slidell to pursue their missions in Europe, and even offered the British troopships landing facilities in Maine, an offer rejected with equal politeness. But it was what Wellington would have called a near-run thing.

A year later, pro-Southern feeling in high places was still strong in England. William Gladstone declared in the House of Commons: "The leaders of the South have made an Army; they are making, it appears, a Navy, and they have made what is more than either—they have made a nation." The speech created a sensation on two continents. It so happened, however, that Gladstone was Chancellor of the Exchequer (Treasury). The Foreign Secretary, Earl Russell suggested to Gladstone that he stick to counting his pounds, shillings and pence, and stay out of the foreign policy biz.

Had General Lee's 1863 offensive succeeded, it is probable that Britain and France would have recognized the Confederacy's independence; but Gettysburg settled that, and the war ended with Washington and London still on speaking terms.

Between the Civil War and World War I, Britain and the U.S. pretty much left each other alone. The American press enjoyed what was called "tweaking the lion's tail," rather the way India and the former Empire countries do today; but the British (provokingly, we hoped) never seemed to notice. Emigration enriched both countries. The World traveler and novelist Geoffrey Bocca writes frequently for FAMILY WEEKLY about matters concerning his home country, England, and his adopted country, the United States. His most recent book is "Giselle" (Putnam, $8.95).

U.S. acquired, to name just one, Andrew Carnegie. Culturally, Britain got Henry James (New York), T. S. Eliot (St. Louis), and Ezra Pound (Hailey, Idaho). Industrially, we acquired Sir Hiram Maxim (Sangerville, Me.), inventor of the machine gun. Sir Gordon Selfridge, builder of Selfridge's of Oxford Street, London, one

President Woodrow Wilson brought the U.S. into WWI in March 1917. At the end of that year, Field Marshal Earl Haig uttered his famous prayer, "God grant us victory, before the Americans arrive." To further that end, he left 750,000 British soldiers dead and wounded in the quagmire and on the wire of Passchendaele.

The period between the wars saw British tastes and attitudes consumed by Hollywood. Hollywood society was practically dominated by Britishers like Ronald Colman, Merle Oberon, Leslie Howard, Cary Grant, George Arliss, Herbert Marshall and Gladys Cooper. Mock Tudor villas, rustic country houses and magisterial castles blossomed in Beverly Hills. Aspiring actors often pretended to be British to get started. Robert Cummings was one. Some went even further, moved to Britain and became virtual Britons, like Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Tallulah Bank-

A British View of Our Revolution:

CARL WALD

Nashville Stars on "Nashville":

As most people know by now, most of the big film critics loved a movie called "Nashville." A lot of moviegoers did, too—and some didn't.

But what about the people on whose lives and livelihood the movie was based—the country singers who make the real Nashville their home?

What follows are some of the comments these stars made to FAMILY WEEKLY after seeing the movie.

In case you didn't see it, "Nashville" is director Robert Altman's self-proclaimed survey of American society. As 24 characters race frantically through the film, the dominant portrait is one of self-indulgence, confusion, hypocrisy, insensitivity, violence and greed. If the movie can be said to have a star, it is Ronree Blakley as "Barbara Jean," a pathetic, emotionally shattered country singer whose assassination brings the film to a violent conclusion. Another memorable character is Henry Gibson's temperamental, tyrannical "Haven Hamilton"—a country star with political ambitions.

LYNN ANDERSON

Parts of the movie were painfully true—realistic to the point of hurting people. Other parts were blatantly overdone. There are some performers who are egomaniacs and some performers who are pious to the point of being ridiculous. But you find that in any business.

The movie was filled with a lot of cheap shots. I think they tried to make a composite of several people, but there was a blatant characterization of Loretta Lynn, and Henry Gibson was obviously meant to look like Hank Snow. That blonde has been said to be anybody from me to Tammy Wynette to Connie Smith. I wouldn't be insulted if it was me because a performer is a performer and I do show my best side to an audience. But I hope I'm not that awful to people offstage!

The producer, writer, and director obviously had a preconceived notion that Nashville and all it stood for was trash. They left a lot of hurt feelings because everybody opened doors for them, accepted them, helped them—and didn't expect a kick in the chops! Maybe now country music has taken such large steps there's some resentment going on. The movie may just show that Nashville has reached its stardom.

See any resemblance? Some people in Nashville are saying that the resemblances are too marked to be coincidental... that "Nashville" stars Blakley and Gibson were meant to portray singers Lynn and Snow.

Too Close for Comfort—Or Not Close Enough?

By Susan Toepfer

But it was really such a shallow story, so rambling and sensationalized with no purpose, no moral. To me, it was just an exploitation of the boom in interest in country music by someone who didn't understand what he was exploiting. And the part I hate most is that the uninitiated will think all of us must be bad or that all of us create that horrible music they had. I hope to God my music doesn't sound like that!

CARL SMITH

I thought it was great! Fabulous! I haven't enjoyed a movie like that in ages! I've been here 25 years and I've seen it all. Maybe it hit too close to some people. There's no doubt the major characters were Loretta Lynn and Hank Snow. The film is exaggerated a little in terms of what they would do, but the main characters are based on them. It's definitely about Nashville.

JEANNE PRUETT

I think it's a rip-off. It's the only shot some people will ever have at seeing Nashville, and all they're getting is a bunch of dressed-up, eccentric people parading around in a circus atmosphere. The film people deny that the movie is referring to real entertainers, but it is. Everybody knows Barbara Jean (the Ronree Blakley character) was Loretta Lynn. Loretta Lynn worked hard, long hours to get the stardom she's now accorded. It's not fair for her to be treated like that.

As for the music, those songs never would've made it out of Nashville. I'd be hard pressed to name the one I hated most. The whole movie was just a put-down.

MINNIE PEARL

I'm afraid a lot of people who love our music will be offended by this film. The music is terrible. I know they did a bad job with the Opry. There was a plastic look about the fans that turned me off. They took a group of regular Opry fans who were scared about bein' in a movie and they had them do the scene over and over. It showed on their faces.

Also, they left out the most important part of Nashville: the fellowship and love that exist between country singers and their fans.

WEBB PIERCE

I think Altman just had a nightmare, and he filmed that instead of our town. I don't think he'll ever be able to come back here again—he'll get hanged!

Loretta Lynn and Hank Snow drop more at a poker game than a guy like Altman makes in a year. There are rotten people everywhere—and a lot of them down here—but it's about 25-percent better than in the rest of the country. If you're gonna pick on somebody, pick on somebody dead. They don't know nothin' about it.

ROY CLARK

There was some great acting, particularly by Henry Gibson, but I couldn't figure out what was happening until the end. I kept waiting for it to settle down to "boy meets girl." I liked the music, but I didn't think much of the lyrics. In fact, I sorta resented the songs. It was quite evident that they were written by non-country songwriters.

As for similarities to real country stars, the only one I was conscious of was the character Henry Gibson played: Before I saw the movie, I did a talk show with Henry and the physical resemblance between him and Hank Snow is remarkable. I asked him off-camera if he'd patterned the character after Hank, and he said he honestly didn't. So maybe it was just one of those strange coincidences.

People have said that Ronree Blakley was supposed to be Loretta Lynn. I've known Loretta 15 years. There's a physical resemblance, but nothing Ronree did in the film resembled her. The girl in "Nashville" was too aware of what was going on.

LORETTA LYNN

I haven't seen it, but people told me I coulda sued. They didn't mention my name, but the things that went on, they might just as well have.

I don't care if they have me kinda crazy, because I am. I don't care if they have me goin' in and out of hospitals, because I do. But when I hear they're cartin' my dead body off and havin' an unknown take my place—that I don't like!

HANK SNOW

I'm not a moviegoer. The last movie I saw was "Love Story." I have better things to do than to go see a movie where somebody's supposed to be playing me. I wouldn't even go out of my way to listen to the sound track.

No... unlike the guy in the movie, I don't think I have any political ambitions. But I do like to watch politicians. And I'm not pompous at all. I'm just a quiet, bashful country boy.

FOR BARBRA STREISAND

Is it true that you are highly influenced by the men in your life?—A.S., San Mateo, Calif.

● No man can take over my life. I've had the same manager for 14 years, the same lawyer, the same press agents. I make my own decisions and they help me. But I resent all the implications that the man I've been going with, Jon Peters, is my Svengali. I think it's very sexist to suggest I am so weak-minded. And it's a drag to find the public actually believes my life is the same as my screen image. Every man in my life has to be a "Funny Girl" hero to the press. It's just not true!

FOR JIMMY BRESLIN, author

I understand you made a memorable statement about Governor Nelson Rockefeller's failure to go to Attica Prison during the riots. What was it?—John Rogers, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

● I said that when Rockefeller was a kid, he went to the Museum of Modern Art with his governess. If he had gone to the movies like other kids, he would have known that during a riot the governor of the state always shows up at the prison.

FOR LUCILLE BALL

As Lucy, you're always in incredible situations. Does this ever happen to you in real life?—L.R., Fort Worth, Texas

● How's this one? Years ago I decided to give an old-fashioned Halloween costume party. I put an awful lot of planning and effort into it. Two hours after the guests should have arrived, it became horribly obvious that no one was going to show up. The next morning, I made some phone calls to find out what happened. I found out I'd forgotten to mail the invitations!

FOR OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN

I'm nuts about you and wonder what you do in your spare time. I'm hoping our paths might cross—C.R., San Mateo, Calif.

● They might, if you like horseback riding. When I'm home (in Malibu) and not working, I ride whenever I have the time. It's my favorite sport, and my best way of relaxing. I'm also a dog lover, and it breaks my heart when I see strays. I wish I could work out a system so that people would go to pounds and become "foster owners."

FOR BILLY GRAHAM

Do you ever visit Richard Nixon and his family?—Dede Fuson, La Porte City, Iowa

● Yes. In August I had dinner with the former President and Mrs. Nixon. And before my October trip to the Orient I stopped for a brief but enjoyable visit.

FOR KATE SMITH

As a perpetual dieter, how do you avoid overeating at lunch?—B.C., Anniston, Ala.

● I make what I call my "London Smoke" concoction—a half-glass of homogenized milk mixed with a half-glass of diet cola. It's filling and delicious!

FOR BUD GRANT,

head coach of the Minnesota Vikings football team

I often wonder why pro quarterbacks hold the ball for field-goal kickers. They could be injured. Is this why your quarterback doesn't?—Ed Murphy, Teaneck, N.J.

● My main reason is this: When you decide to attempt a field goal, it means the quarterback has failed to take the team down the field. He's usually feeling negative at that point. Why should he be made to hold the ball when someone else can do the job?

FOR BING CROSBY

Which Christmas gift did you treasure most of all?—B.G., Canton, Ohio

● Every present is precious, especially when it comes from dear ones. But I'll never forget the time Dad came home with a new Edison phonograph (I was a lad then) and some records. It was the first time I'd heard such singers as Caruso. I was overwhelmed by the sound. Looking back, it seems that's when I must have decided I wanted to be a singer, too.

FOR ERMA BOMBECK, columnist

What is the funniest thing you've ever said?—Barb Banski, Kenosha, Wis.

● When I turned to best-selling novelist Arthur Hailey ("Airport," "Wheels," etc.) and announced, "I have written everything you've ever read."

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

How long has Guy Lombardo been playing? It seems to me he's been around forever.—S.R., North Bergen, N.J.

● His New Year's Eve broadcast this week will be his 48th. When Lombardo gave his first, on radio in 1927, he felt sure it would also be his last! He's 73, and seems to be as active now as he was when he started out, playing for concerts, hotel and club dates and one-night stands. Unlike most musicians, Lombardo was raised in moderate luxury. His father, a tailor, told his seven children not to follow in his footsteps because "The last one to get paid is always the tailor." In the beginning, Lombardo recalls, he could not broadcast lyrics that had the word "hell" in them, due to the strict censoring rules. He and Lilliebell have been married over 40 years. Incidentally, Lombardo's first book, "Auld Acquaintance," was recently published.

An Englishman Looks at Our Bicentennial: Uncle Sam and "The Mother Country"— Through 200 Years of Thick and Thin

By Geoffrey Bocca

The New York cabbie said, "You sound like a Britisher." I confessed it. He went on, "You limeys are taking over everything here. A few years ago, if a guy didn't have an English secretary, he wasn't anything. Your brain-drain doctors have taken over our medicine. Now it's English au-pair girls, and real estate deals with the English. Now I'm driving one in my cab. How do you get away with it?"

"First of all," I said, "you have to lose a war," and I collapsed on the seat in delight at my own joke. It is not often a Briton gets the chance to use that hoariest of postwar clichés, for the simple reason that Britain almost never loses a war. Since World War II alone, Britain has won no fewer than three wars which other countries considered unwinnable, guerrilla wars—in Kenya, Malaya and Borneo. The American War of Independence has been England's only total defeat since the Norman Conquest of 1066. And even then (or so we Englishmen like to tell ourselves) it took men with British names to do it.

So Americans must understand that the British do not feel bad about that war. One cannot say a love-hate relationship exists between the two countries because there is so little hate on the British side. In 1972, during one of the many peaks of controversy over Vietnam, a Harris poll recorded that 49 percent of Americans supported Government policy, 43 percent opposed it and the rest were undecided. Some weeks later, a similar poll was conducted in Britain by Gallup. The result: 48 percent in favor, 44 percent opposed. Not identical, but almost. On almost every major issue, the thinking of most Americans and most Britons is the same.

One of the least noticed facts of life—as unnoticed as the comfort of an old slipper—is the pro-Americanism of the British, both officially and in the streets. Britain gives the U.S. no headaches—not in the U.N., not in NATO, not in foreign policy generally. Anti-American riots in Britain are always synthetic, the work of professional agitators, using what Peter Simple in the London

Daily Telegraph calls "Rent-a-mob."

Not infrequently the British lean over to the extent that they defend America even while America is busy attacking herself. Much of the British press, including such influential columnists as Bernard Levin and Peregrine Worsthorne, were defending Richard Nixon long after he was abandoned by the U.S. press (their point of view: Why pick on Nixon when such tyrants as Brezhnev deserve so much more censure?).

There may be an exception, however: If a poll were to be taken today in Britain on the question, "What do you think of the American Bicentennial?" the answer might well be something like the following:

29% I think Americans are better at the decathlon.

21% I thought Buffalo Bill wiped out the bison.

10% Is it like our Guy Fawkes Day?

8% How do you spell it?

32% Don't know.

The British attitude to United States history is not so much ambivalent as vague. My schoolboy memories are that the War of Independence was one of history's "Good Things." The unspoken inference was that a band of English country gentlemen, under that great English general, George Washington, gave a deserved thumping to one of England's more forgettable German kings. It was always stressed that Washington was a victorious officer of British troops against the French at Fort Pitt, and that at the beginning of the War of Independence, Continental officers continued to toast the King.

"Occasionally, when I find myself in the U.S. in the summer, American friends ask how the British feel when America celebrates July Fourth. The only answer is, they don't feel anything at all."

Education about the War of 1812 was almost nonexistent because English schoolboys were busy fighting Napoleon. In 1812 both the British and the Americans presumed in advance that the depleted English forces in Canada

"Britain gives the U.S. no headaches—not in the U.N., not in NATO, not in foreign policy generally. Anti-American riots in Britain are always synthetic, the work of professional agitators, using what Peter Simple in the London Daily Telegraph calls 'Rent-a-mob.'"

would be no match for the Americans, but that the American fleet had little hope against the Royal Navy. In fact, the reverse happened. The British sacked Washington, and American ships proved superior to the sophisticated British fleet.

As things happened, 39 years later, the maritime shame actually deepened. In 1851, one of the carnival features of the Great London Exposition included a world yachting championship off the Isle of Wight, sponsored by the Royal Yacht Squadron. What was to become invincibly "America's Cup" was won by the American yacht, America, to the incredulous dismay of British sportsmen. A royal aide informed Queen Victoria of the result. "Really?" asked the Queen. "Who came in second?"

The American Civil War caused deep heart-searching in Britain. The upper classes could contemplate slavery with equanimity. Voiced by the thunder of The Times of London, they were pro-South. The working classes, who had real economic reason to be pro-South, weren't. Lancashire depended deeply on Southern cotton, and thousands were thrown out of work by the Federal blockade of Southern ports. But they were also revolted by slavery. The Irish emigration explosion caused by the potato famine of 1846 was two-directional. It hit Liverpool and Glasgow as hard as it hit New York and Boston. The social and political ferment was similar on both sides of the Atlantic, and produced parallel thinking.

But throughout the Civil War there was always the danger of a "flash fire" that would bring England into the war on the side of the South. Outright war nearly began in the fall of 1861, when a hotheaded naval officer created an incident which became notorious as the Trent affair. What happened was that two distinguished Southerners, James Mason of Virginia and John Slidell of Louisiana, had boarded the British mail steamer, Trent, to press Confederate interests in London and Paris. Captain Charles Wilkes of the U.S.S. San Jacinto got wind of the mission, boarded the Trent off Havana and took off the two diplomats.

The incident caused fury in England. An American observer in London wrote William Seward, the Secretary of State, "The people are frantic with rage, and were the country polled, I fear 999 men out of a thousand would declare for war." As the English press fumed, 11,000 British troops embarked for Canada to the strains of a volunteer band playing "Dixie."

Fortunately both sides were blessed with brilliant diplomats. The American Ambassador to the Court of St. James, Charles Francis Adams, and the British Ambassador in Washington, Lord Lyons, soothed ruffled feathers. While feisty Yankees were just as keen to take on the British as vice versa, Abraham Lincoln preached "one war at a time." Seward backed down gracefully, released Mason and Slidell to pursue their missions in Europe, and even offered the British troopships landing facilities in Maine, an offer rejected with equal politeness. But it was what Wellington would have called a near-run thing.

A year later, pro-Southern feeling in high places was still strong in England. William Gladstone declared in the House of Commons: "The leaders of the South have made an Army; they are making, it appears, a Navy, and they have made what is more than either—they have made a nation." The speech created a sensation on two continents. It so happened, however, that Gladstone was Chancellor of the Exchequer (Treasury). The Foreign Secretary, Earl Russell suggested to Gladstone that he stick to counting his pounds, shillings and pence, and stay out of the foreign policy biz.

Had General Lee's 1863 offensive succeeded, it is probable that Britain and France would have recognized the Confederacy's independence; but Gettysburg settled that, and the war ended with Washington and London still on speaking terms.

Between the Civil War and World War I, Britain and the U.S. pretty much left each other alone. The American press enjoyed what was called "tweaking the lion's tail," rather the way India and the former Empire countries do today; but the British (provokingly, we hoped) never seemed to notice. Emigration enriched both countries. The World traveler and novelist Geoffrey Bocca writes frequently for FAMILY WEEKLY about matters concerning his home country, England, and his adopted country, the United States. His most recent book is "Giselle" (Putnam, $8.95).

U.S. acquired, to name just one, Andrew Carnegie. Culturally, Britain got Henry James (New York), T. S. Eliot (St. Louis), and Ezra Pound (Hailey, Idaho). Industrially, we acquired Sir Hiram Maxim (Sangerville, Me.), inventor of the machine gun. Sir Gordon Selfridge, builder of Selfridge's of Oxford Street, London, one of the world's biggest department stores, was born in Ripon, Wis. in 1858.

President Woodrow Wilson brought the U.S. into WWI in March 1917. At the end of that year, Field Marshal Earl Haig uttered his famous prayer, "God grant us victory, before the Americans arrive." To further that end, he left 750,000 British soldiers dead and wounded in the quagmire and on the wire of Passchendaele.

The period between the wars saw British tastes and attitudes consumed by Hollywood. Hollywood society was practically dominated by Britishers like Ronald Colman, Merle Oberon, Leslie Howard, Cary Grant, George Arliss, Herbert Marshall and Gladys Cooper. Mock Tudor villas, rustic country houses and magisterial castles blossomed in Beverly Hills. Aspiring actors often pretended to be British to get started. Robert Cummings was one. Some went even further, moved to Britain and became virtual Britons, like Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Tallulah Bank-

Nashville Stars on "Nashville":

As most people know by now, most of the big film critics loved a movie called "Nashville." A lot of moviegoers did, too—and some didn't.

But what about the people on whose lives and livelihood the movie was based—the country singers who make the real Nashville their home?

What follows are some of the comments these stars made to FAMILY WEEKLY after seeing the movie.

In case you didn't see it, "Nashville" is director Robert Altman's self-proclaimed survey of American society. As 24 characters race frantically through the film, the dominant portrait is one of self-indulgence, confusion, hypocrisy, insensitivity, violence and greed. If the movie can be said to have a star, it is Ronee Blakley as "Barbara Jean," a pathetic, emotionally shattered country singer whose assassination brings the film to a violent conclusion. Another memorable character is Henry Gibson's temperamental, tyrannical "Haven Hamilton"—a country star with political ambitions.

LYNN ANDERSON

I was personally affronted by the music. They didn't make it clear that it was tongue-in-cheek. They didn't say it with a smile.

Parts of the movie were painfully true—realistic to the point of hurting people. Other parts were blatantly overdone. There are some performers who are egomaniacs and some performers who are pious to the point of being ridiculous. But you find that in any business.

The movie was filled with a lot of cheap shots. I think they tried to make a composite of several people, but there was a blatant characterization of Loretta Lynn, and Henry Gibson was obviously meant to look like Hank Snow. That blonde has been said to be anybody from me to Tammy Wynette to Connie Smith. I wouldn't be insulted if it was me because a performer is a performer and I do show my best side to an audience. But I hope I'm not that awful to people offstage!

The producer, writer and director obviously had a preconceived notion that Nashville and all it stood for was trash. They left a lot of hurt feelings because everybody opened doors for them, accepted them, helped them—and didn't expect a kick in the chops! Maybe now country music has taken such large steps there's some resentment going on. The movie may just show that Nashville has reached its stardom.

See any resemblance? Some people in Nashville are saying that the resemblances are too marked to be coincidental . . . that "Nashville" stars Blakley and Gibson were meant to portray singers Lynn and Snow.

Too Close for Comfort—Or Not Close Enough?

By Susan Toepfer

But it was really such a shallow story, so rambling and sensationalized with no purpose, no moral. To me, it was just an exploitation of the boom in interest in country music by someone who didn't understand what he was exploiting. And the part I hate most is that the uninitiated will think all of us must be bad or that all of us create that horrible music they had. I hope to God my music doesn't sound like that!

CARL SMITH

I thought it was great! Fabulous! I haven't enjoyed a movie like that in ages! I've been here 25 years and I've seen it all. Maybe it hit too close to some people. There's no doubt the major characters were Loretta Lynn and Hank Snow. The film is exaggerated a little in terms of what they would do, but the main characters are based on them. It's definitely about Nashville.

Carl Smith

JEANNE PRUETT

I think it's a rip-off. It's the only shot some people will ever have at seeing Nashville, and all they're getting is a bunch of dressed-up, eccentric people parading around in a circus atmosphere. The film people deny that the movie is referring to real entertainers, but it is. Everybody knows Barbara Jean (the Ronee Blakley character) was Loretta Lynn. Loretta Lynn worked hard, long hours to get the stardom she's now accorded. It's not fair for her to be treated like that.

As for the music, those songs never would've made it out of Nashville. I'd be hard pressed to name the one I hated most. The whole movie was just a put-down.

MINNIE PEARL

I'm afraid a lot of people who love our music will be offended by this film. The music is terrible. I know they did a bad job with the Opry. There was a plastic look about the fans that turned me off. They took a group of regular Opry fans who were scared about bein' in a movie and they had them do the scene over and over. It showed on their faces.

Also, they left out the most important part of Nashville: the fellowship and love that exist between country singers and their fans.

WEBB PIERCE

I think Altman just had a nightmare, and he filmed that instead of our town. I don't think he'll ever be able to come back here again—he'll get hanged!

Loretta Lynn and Hank Snow drop more at a poker game than a guy like Altman makes in a year. There are rotten people everywhere—and a lot of them down here—but it's about 25-percent better than in the rest of the country. If you're gonna pick on somebody, pick on somebody dead. They don't know nothin' about it.

ROY CLARK

There was some great acting, particularly by Henry Gibson, but I couldn't figure out what was happening until the end. I kept waiting for it to settle down to "boy meets girl." I liked the music, but I didn't think much of the lyrics. In fact, I sorta resented the songs. It was quite evident that they were written by non-country songwriters.

As for similarities to real country stars, the only one I was conscious of was the character Henry Gibson played. Before I saw the movie, I did a talk show with Henry and the physical resemblance between him and Hank Snow is remarkable. I asked him off-camera if he'd patterned the character after Hank, and he said he honestly didn't. So maybe it was just one of those strange coincidences.

People have said that Ronee Blakley was supposed to be Loretta Lynn. I've known Loretta 15 years. There's a physical resemblance, but nothing Ronee did in the film resembled her. The girl in "Nashville" was too aware of what was going on.

LORETTA LYNN

I haven't seen it, but people told me I coulda sued. They didn't mention my name, but the things that went on, they might just as well have.

I don't care if they have me kinda crazy, because I am. I don't care if they have me goin' in and out of hospitals, because I do. But when I hear they're cartin' my dead body off and havin' an unknown take my place—that I don't like!

HANK SNOW

I'm not a moviegoer. The last movie I saw was "Love Story." I have better things to do than to go see a movie where somebody's supposed to be playing me. I wouldn't even go out of my way to listen to the sound track.

No . . . unlike the guy in the movie, I don't think I have any political ambitions. But I do like to watch politicians. And I'm not pompous at all. I'm just a quiet, bashful country boy.

Some Facts About Your Other "Sixth Sense"—Humor

True or False? A woman's preference for humor depends on how attractive she is. (See number 2.)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Virtually everyone prides himself on his sense of humor, whether he has one or not.
2. A woman's preference for humor depends on how attractive she is.
3. Men and women tend to have different ideas about what is funny.
4. You can tell a lot about a person's sense of humor by the way he votes.
5. An atmosphere of humor or verbal clowning around is all right after hours, but it detracts from efficiency in the office.

ANSWERS

1. True. A Harvard University study shows that less than 2 percent of a representative sample rated themselves below average when asked to judge their own sense of humor. Most people would rather confess to a streak of larceny than confess that humor just doesn't seem very funny to them.
2. True.—according to psychological studies conducted at the University of London, which yielded some interesting findings. Subjects were 200 young ladies, 18 to 29, who were asked to rate themselves on attractiveness using a five-point scale. Each was then asked to indicate her preference for a series of 42 cartoons and jokes. Results: "Overall, the girls who rated themselves high in attractiveness tended to regard risqué jokes as less funny than those rating themselves low in attractiveness." It's suggested that the attractive girl gives a lower rating to risqué humor because she is tired of being regarded as a sex object.

3. True. Some psychologists report that men tend to favor hostile or sarcastic wit—humor that has an aggressive bite to it. Women, on the other hand, "tend to stress humor as a stratagem for pure fun and amusement." Women were found to prefer nonsense wit, outlandish mirth-for-its-own-sake type of humor, to a far greater extent than men did.

4. True. According to university studies, many jokes and humorous situations that tickle one voter's risibilities and cause him to "roll in the aisle" won't even rate a smile from a person of another political persuasion. It was found, for example, that this is particularly true of virtually all types and varieties of ribald humor. Ultra conservatives found this brand of humor the least funny, while citizens whose political preference inclined toward the liberal direction tended to rank such humor as highly diverting.

5. False. A psychological study has shown that "humor, by minimizing friction and lightening the atmosphere, makes an undeniable contribution to good relations among workers, and even between workers and management." And, as one sociologist observes, a touch of humor, even if it has no bearing on the work at hand, does much to relieve excess tension.

Learn Nature's Weight Loss Secret Of Glandular Control

How to Command your Pituitary Gland to order up to 756 times its own weight in Fat to leave your body Every Single Day

By Joan Woodward

Canton (OH)—By learning Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you can command your pituitary gland (nature's built-in fat evacuator) to order up to one pound of fat to leave your body every day — while eating the foods you love. This weight-loss secret works for everyone, whether 5 lbs. or 105 lbs. overweight.

When I first heard that statement, I thought, "Impossible!" As a reporter for the newsletter, "Total Fitness Today" published by Consumer Publishing, my job is to check out new diet plans being developed across the country. Since I was overweight, I tried the dozens of diets I was investigating. None of the so-called "can't fail" fat nutrition experts have been advocating counting calories, starvation diets, diet pills or strenuous exercises. And yet, 60% of all Americans are overweight. Millions more are becoming fat everyday. Obviously, other methods aren't working.

Q. Why do other methods fail?

A. Two reasons. First, other methods are unnatural and therefore doomed to fail. They work against human nature. Starvation diets require too much will-power and force people to drastically change their eating habits and life style. People love to eat and starvation is sheer torture. No one in his right mind is going to torture himself for very long.

It's the same thing with exercise. They be-past 100 years, we have been adding unnatural synthetic foods to our diets. These unnatural and other additional foods actually prevent the pituitary gland from doing what nature intended it to do — evacuate fat. But you can learn to trigger your pituitary gland to begin evacuating fat.

Q. How can I trigger my pituitary gland?

A. Not by will power, not by concentration, not by starvation, but by eating! Only by eating a scientific combination of everyday foods, can you trigger your pituitary gland to evacuate fat.

You need not drastically alter your eating habits.

Q. What are these foods and how much can you eat?

A. These everyday foods are the foods you love: steak, beef, fish, fried chicken, fruits, and vegetables — even desserts like strawberries with whipped cream. And you can eat as often and as much as you wish. Nature's Weight Loss Secret is not a diet. It is a nutrition plan. It works with nature, not against it, and it's 100% safe. It does not require starvation, diet pills, or strenuous and boring exercises. It does not leave you weak and nervous. It makes you feel healthier and more vibrant than ever before. Remember, this weight loss secret was evolved by nature to produce healthy, and powerful hunters.

Q. You said there are two reasons why this secret works. What's the second reason?

A. Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control always succeeds because it gives fast, steady and permanent results. You start losing weight the first day. You can lose up to 14 lbs. in two weeks. With these kind of results, rather than losing hope, you will be encouraged to lose even more. You will reach your ideal weight and be fat free forever.

At the end of our conversation, I asked Mr. Ridgefield if I could talk with some people who had successfully used the secret. He did better. He introduced me to four people who were going to start the weight loss secret the following Monday.

I followed their progress from day to day and personally watched them strip away their excess pounds. Their success was so amazing, I decided to feature them in my next article in "Total Fitness Today." I had them photographed in the police line-up picture you see here to emphasize the title of my article, "Freedom From Fat: You Needn't Be A Prisoner of Fat Any Longer."

WHAT WILL THE SECRET DO FOR YOU?

By using Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you will make food your ally, not your enemy. This nutrition plan will trigger your pituitary gland and transform your body from a fat producing machine to a fat evacuating system. Your pituitary gland will work safely and naturally to evacuate fat 24 hours a day — even while you sleep.

By learning Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you will:

- Lose all the weight you want, as much as a pound a day, while eating the food you love.
- Lose inches off your waist, hips, thighs, and banish ugly cellulite bumps.
- Never go hungry.
- Increase your energy and vitality.
- Keep the weight off and be fat free forever.

Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control is not yet available in any book store, anywhere in the world. Mr. Ridgefield is currently exploring arrangements with a large East coast publishing firm to have the book published at $12.95. But the book is available right now, through the mail, at a special low price of $6.95. Why?

After I had lost my weight by using the weight loss secret, I was stopped in the hall by the Chairman of the Board of Consumer Publishing, Timothy Voros. He was amazed at my appearance and asked me how I had done it. He too has been overweight all of his life. And Mr. Voros is especially concerned about his weight problem since his family has a past history of heart disease.

Later, during a meeting, Mr. Ridgefield convinced Mr. Voros to try Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control. Mr. Voros lost 22 lbs. in 21 days by using the weight loss secret. He and his family were so grateful that he wanted somehow to return the favor to Mr. Ridgefield. So, Mr. Voros has ordered a small press run of Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control to be printed. He then instructed me to write this article and offer the book to the public directly by mail.

HOW CAN YOU LEARN THE SECRET?

If you wish to learn Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, simply do this: Write "Weight Loss Secret" and your name and address on a piece of paper and send it along with $6.95 in cash, check, or money order. (Make checks payable to Consumer Publishing.) If you have Master Charge, BankAmericard, or American Express, you may charge your purchase by sending the following information: A. Name of card. B. Credit Card number. C. Card expiration date.

Mail your order to: CONSUMER PUBLISHING, Att: Mr. Timothy Voros, 401 Market Ave., N., Dept. C-45, Canton, Ohio 44702.

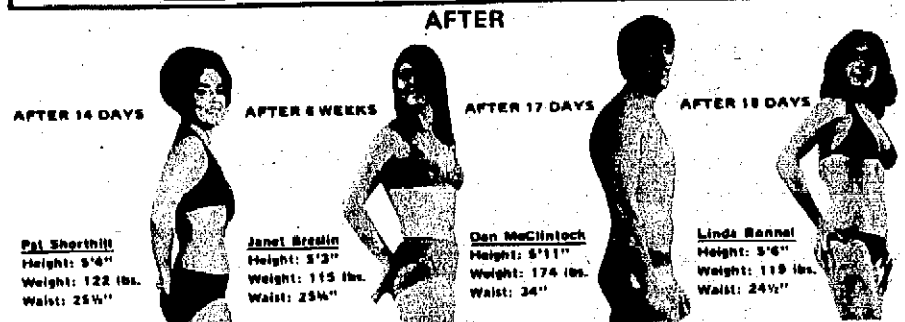

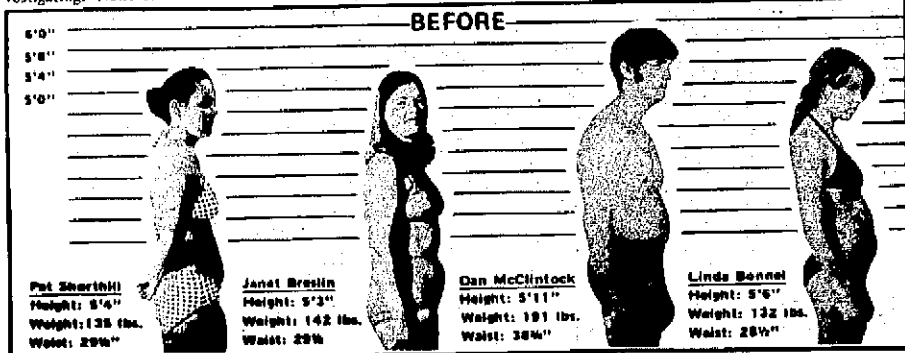

Mr. Voros, as owner of Consumer Publishing, is very selective about the books he publishes and is extremely careful to preserve the fine reputation of the company. So he is personally backing this book with a 100% no risk guarantee. After following the weight loss secret, you must lose all the weight you want, while eating the foods you love. You must feel healthier, happier and look 10 years younger. If this does not happen, just send your book back to Mr. Voros' attention. He will personally see to it that you receive every penny of your money back — no questions asked.

Remember, only a small number of the $6.95 edition of Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control has been printed. To make sure that you get your discount, why not order right now, while you're thinking about it. Because of Mr. Voros' personal guarantee, you can order now, with complete confidence. If you have any questions, feel free to call Mr. Voros at (216) 455-1422. Thank you.

Robert Ridgefield, discoverer of Nature's Weight Loss Secret, points to the gland that will make you thin. Your pituitary gland, weighing a mere 1/60th of an ounce, can command up to one pound of fat (756 x 1/60th of an ounce = one lb.) to leave your body every single day. Since all of us have a pituitary gland, everyone—5 lbs. or 105 lbs. overweight can learn nature's weight loss secret of glandular control. The article below will explain how you can reap the benefits of this amazing scientific breakthrough by losing as much as 14 lbs. in two weeks.

diets ever worked. When I heard that there was a nutrition expert, Robert Ridgefield, right here in my hometown, Canton, Ohio, who claimed that he had developed a weight loss secret which allows anyone to lose weight without starvation, strenuous exercises, pills, or phony gadgets and devices, I decided to investigate.

Because of my previous unsuccessful experience with other weight loss programs, I had developed a "show me" attitude. So, when I went to see Mr. Ridgefield, I demanded proof. I started with tough questions. Instead of arguing with me, he said, "Look, I'll teach you my weight loss secret. You try it and come back in 14 days. I guarantee you will lose all the weight you want, while eating as much as you want." I said, "You'll be sorry, because I consider myself permanently fat — a lost cause. He smiled and said, "Don't worry, this is Nature's Weight Loss Secret and it works for everyone, because it utilizes nature's built-in Fat Evacuator, the pituitary gland and everyone has one."

I returned two weeks later happily admitting that I was wrong. I had lost 14 lbs., 4 inches off my waist, and 3 inches off my thighs. The secret worked. I wanted to know why. Mr. Ridgefield supplied these answers to my questions.

WHY DOES THE SECRET WORK?

Q. Why does the secret work?

A. In order to understand why Nature's Weight Loss Secret works, it is important to understand why other methods fail. For years, Doctors and some monotonous and eventually turn into sheer drudgery. It's easy to find excuses not to do them. So usually they don't get done.

Diet pills are not only unnatural, but they leave you weak, nervous and prone to illness.

The second reason other methods fail is because the results, if any, come too slow. If you don't see results fast, you will lose hope and quit trying to lose weight.

Q. You've told me why others fail. Exactly why does this secret work?

A. There are two reasons why Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control always works. First, just as its name implies, the weight loss secret is natural. It was evolved by nature and has been working for over 2,000,000 years. Allow me to explain. Man has been on earth for about 2 million years. For 99% of this time, he was a roving hunter. He subsisted on a hearty, well-balanced diet of meat, fruit and vegetables. This diet kept him slim, healthy, and alive.

Q. How could eating make him slim?

A. These foods triggered or turned on his pituitary gland, nature's built-in fat evacuator. The pituitary gland evolved in man as a survival mechanism, like a shell of a turtle, or the claws of a cat. Once triggered, the pituitary gland evacuated fat and kept man slim, fast and powerful in order to survive in a hostile world.

Q. Why has the Fat Evacuator stopped working?

A. Of course, everyone still has one. Unfortunately, for many, it is not evacuating fat. In the

How to Turn Stress Around— And Make It Work for You

Unless you become a hermit, chances are you'll never totally escape stress. Psychologists Patricia MacDonald and William Johnson of Whitworth College in Spokane have discovered ways to help you cope. They suggest you: 1) Realize that many people create stress for themselves by being unrealistic about the time, strength and ability they have. For example, the idea of having all 28 members of your immediate family in for a holiday dinner may be appealing, but realistically are you and your spouse able to cope with such a situation?

2) Don't feel guilty when you allow for your emotional and physical needs. Say the experts, if you sacrifice the extra sleep, solitude, exercise or artistic expression you crave, you eventually make it easier for tension and anxiety to affect you. 3) Think through your attitude toward change. Does change automatically cause you to feel tense because you assume change means trouble? Adjusting to a new job, to a new neighborhood, to children leaving home for kindergarten or college can be either a problem or an interesting new experience depending on how you look at it. Even if you can't conquer this habit, just realizing that change makes you anxious can be useful. Another Whitworth College psychologist, David Erb, believes stress shouldn't be eliminated. When you're under stress, he says, your senses and mind are geared for action. The trick is to keep your stress at the most productive level and to pace yourself. Just as your body needs rest when doing physical work, your mind and emotions also require rest from pressure in order to achieve. —By Shirley Sloan Fader

IT'S ONLY AN ANIMAL

Dying in a steel-jaw, leghold trap. An animal that feels pain much like we do. Imagine having your fingers crushed in a car door. Nobody opens the door for 24 hours. That's what happens in a steel-jaw trap. Less than half the states have laws requiring trappers to even check traps every 24 hours. No one has cared much. It's only an animal.

Every winter millions of fox, lynx, raccoons, minks, otters, muskrats, beavers, badgers, bobcats, skunks, and other animals suffer in these primitive traps. Why? Because humans think fur coats are "glamorous and chic." There is nothing glamorous about being clamped in a trap for hours or even days, exposed to the weather, without food or water, in pain and fear, waiting for the trapper and death. Some even chew or wring off their toes or paws to escape. But then, they're only animals.

This trap hasn't changed much since the days early fur traders and mountain men used it to nearly wipe out the beaver in this country. That was well over 100 years ago. Today trapping is a sport... a hobby... a recreation. Few people trap for survival. The reasons have changed but the trap has not. The pain and suffering it has inflicted on wild animals over the years is impossible to comprehend. Still, little has been done about more humane traps. Again, the victims are only animals.

It is time to change, time to stop making excuses for this needless suffering. It is time to outlaw the steel-jaw trap.

British View

head and Ben Lyon.

How Goldwyn, Mayer, Zanuck, Selznick and the rest fell for this unconscious con job can only be explained by a massive social inferiority complex. Hollywood, in the thirties, kissed the feet of the British Empire, with "Gunga Din," "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," "The Charge of the Light Brigade," "North-west Mounted Police," "King of the Khyber Rifles." As for a movie called "The Sun Never Sets," it was so imperial-jingoistic, even the British felt nauseated.

When the war began in September 1939, the Empire's most influential colony, Hollywood, went to war, too. It produced streams of movies that were pro-British, pro-war and anti-German: "The White Cliffs," "Mrs. Miniver," "Nurse Edith Cavell," "That Hamilton Woman," "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," "Beau Geste" and "Eagle Squadron." In the period between September 1939 and the U.S. entry into the war in December 1941, I cannot think of a single isolationist or pacifist movie out of Hollywood, and only one very covertly anti-British film, "Drums Along the Mohawk." Even when War of Independence themes were touched on, the British were usually called "Hessians," referring to the German mercenaries the British used in the war.

The U.S. was the British Empire's

first important lost colony. Not another was lost for a century and a half, when Ireland finally flew the coop. (In the interim, the Empire had increased to include most of Africa and much of Asia.) Today, Britain has lost the whole bunch and couldn't care less. A century ago, at the height of Britain's glory, a young man labored seven days a week in the mines, a girl seven days a week at the spinning jenny, and they lived on gin. Today the young coal miner and his Lancashire wife leave their color TV sets only when they climb into the car, ferry over to the Continent and drive to Spain for a vacation.

Occasionally, when I find myself in the U.S. in the summer, American friends ask how the British feel when America celebrates July Fourth. The only answer is, they don't feel anything at all. As for Thanksgiving, I doubt if 15 percent of the British people, if polled, would know what the pollster was talking about. In other words, the confident prediction of this writer is that, on the other side of the Atlantic, America's 200th birthday will be almost as much a non-event as, say, the Rose Bowl. British newspapers will be filled with news of the cricket matches against West India. The Queen will send a telegram of congratulations to President Ford, and in both countries, for different reasons, a good time will be had by all, providing the weather holds.

Adjusting to a new job, to a new neighborhood, to children leaving home for kindergarten or college can be either a problem or an interesting new experience depending on how you look at it. Even if you can't conquer this habit, just realizing that change makes you anxious can be useful. Another Whitworth College psychologist, David Erb, believes stress shouldn't be eliminated. When you're under stress, he says, your senses and mind are geared for action. The trick is to keep your stress at the most productive level and to pace yourself. Just as your body needs rest when doing physical work, your mind and emotions also require rest from pressure in order to achieve. —By Shirley Sloan Feder head and Ben Lyon.

How Goldwyn, Mayer, Zanuck, Selznick and the rest fell for this unconscious con job can only be explained by a massive social inferiority complex. Hollywood, in the thirties, kissed the feet of the British Empire, with "Gunga Din," "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," "The Charge of the Light Brigade," "Northwest Mounted Police," "King of the Khyber Rifles." As for a movie called "The Sun Never Sets," it was so imperial-jingoistic, even the British felt nauseated.

When the war began in September 1939, the Empire's most influential colony, Hollywood, went to war, too. It produced streams of movies that were pro-British, pro-war and anti-German: "The White Cliffs," "Mrs. Miniver," "Nurse Edith Cavell," "That Hamilton Woman," "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," "Beau Geste" and "Eagle Squadron." In the period between September 1939 and the U.S. entry into the war in December 1941, I cannot think of a single isolationist or pacifist movie out of Hollywood, and only one very covertly anti-British film, "Drums Along the Mohawk." Even when War of Independence themes were touched on, the British were usually called "Hessians," referring to the German mercenaries the British used in the war.

The U.S. was the British Empire's

first important lost colony. Not another was lost for a century and a half, when Ireland finally flew the coop. (In the interim, the Empire had increased to include most of Africa and much of Asia.) Today, Britain has lost the whole bunch and couldn't care less. A century ago, at the height of Britain's glory, a young man labored seven days a week in the mines, a girl seven days a week at the spinning jenny, and they lived on gin. Today the young coal miner and his Lancashire wife leave their color TV sets only when they climb into the car, ferry over to the Continent and drive to Spain for a vacation.

Occasionally, when I find myself in the U.S. in the summer, American friends ask how the British feel when America celebrates July Fourth. The only answer is, they don't feel anything at all. As for Thanksgiving, I doubt if 15 percent of the British people, if polled, would know what the pollster was talking about. In other words, the confident prediction of this writer is that, on the other side of the Atlantic, America's 200th birthday will be almost as much a non-event as, say, the Rose Bowl. British newspapers will be filled with news of the cricket matches against West India. The Queen will send a telegram of congratulations to President Ford, and in both countries, for different reasons, a good time will be had by all, providing the weather holds.

IT'S ONLY AN ANIMAL

Dying in a steel-jaw, leghold trap. An animal that feels pain much like we do. Imagine having your fingers crushed in a car door. Nobody opens the door for 24 hours. That's what happens in a steel-jaw trap. Less than half the states have laws requiring trappers to even check traps every 24 hours. No one has cared much. It's only an animal.

Every winter millions of fox, lynx, raccoons, minks, otters, muskrats, beavers, badgers, bobcats, skunks, and other animals suffer in these primitive traps. Why? Because humans think fur coats are "glamorous and chic." There is nothing glamorous about being clamped in a trap for hours or even days, exposed to the weather, without food or water, in pain and fear, waiting for the trapper and death. Some even chew or wring off their toes or paws to escape. But then, they're only animals.

This trap hasn't changed much since the days early fur traders and mountain men used it to nearly wipe out the beaver in this country. That was well over 100 years ago. Today trapping is a sport... a hobby... a recreation. Few people trap for survival. The reasons have changed but the trap has not. The pain and suffering it has inflicted on wild animals over the years is impossible to comprehend. Still, little has been done about more humane traps. Again, the victims are only animals.

It is time to change, time to stop making excuses for this needless suffering. It is time to outlaw the steel-jaw trap.

It is the only decent thing to do—for the animals. Please help.

Some Facts About Your Other "Sixth Sense"—Humor

True or False? A woman's preference for humor depends on how attractive she is. (See number 2.)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Virtually everyone prides himself on his sense of humor, whether he has one or not.
2. A woman's preference for humor depends on how attractive she is.
3. Men and women tend to have different ideas about what is funny.
4. You can tell a lot about a person's sense of humor by the way he votes.
5. An atmosphere of humor or verbal clowning around is all right after hours, but it detracts from efficiency in the office.

ANSWERS

1. True. A Harvard University study shows that less than 2 percent of a representative sample rated themselves below average when asked to judge their own sense of humor. Most people would rather confess to a streak of larceny than confess that humor just doesn't seem very funny to them.
2. True—according to psychological studies conducted at the University of London, which yielded some interesting findings. Subjects were 200 young ladies, 18 to 29, who were asked to rate themselves on attractiveness using a five-point scale. Each was then asked to indicate her preference for a series of 42 cartoons and jokes. Results: "Overall, the girls who rated themselves high in attractiveness tended to regard risqué jokes as less funny than those rating themselves low in attractiveness." It's suggested that the attractive girl gives a lower rating to risqué humor because she is tired of being regarded as a sex object.

3. True. Some psychologists report that men tend to favor hostile or sarcastic wit—humor that has an aggressive bite to it. Women, on the other hand, "tend to stress humor as a stratagem for pure fun and amusement." Women were found to prefer nonsense wit, outlandish mirth-for-its-own-sake type of humor, to a far greater extent than men did.

4. True. According to university studies, many jokes and humorous situations that tickle one voter's risibilities and cause him to "roll in the aisle" won't even rate a smile from a person of another political persuasion. It was found, for example, that this is particularly true of virtually all types and varieties of ribald humor. Ultra conservatives found this brand of humor the least funny, while citizens whose political preference inclined toward the liberal direction tended to rank such humor as highly diverting.

5. False. A psychological study has shown that "humor, by minimizing friction and lightening the atmosphere, makes an undeniable contribution to good relations among workers, and even between workers and management." And, as one sociologist observes, a touch of humor, even if it has no bearing on the work at hand, does much to relieve excess tension.

Learn Nature's Weight Loss Secret Of Glandular Control

How to Command your Pituitary Gland to order up to 756 times its own weight in Fat to leave your body Every Single Day

By Joan Woodward

Canton (OH)—By learning Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you can command your pituitary gland (nature's built-in fat evacuator) to order up to one pound of fat to leave your body every day — while eating the foods you love. This weight-loss secret works for everyone, whether 5 lbs. or 105 lbs. overweight.

When I first heard that statement, I thought, "Impossible!" As a reporter for the newsletter, "Total Fitness Today" published by Consumer Publishing, my job is to check out new diet plans being developed across the country. Since I was overweight, I tried the dozens of diets I was investigating. None of the so-called "can't fail" fat nutrition experts have been advocating counting calories, starvation diets, diet pills or strenuous exercises. And yet, 60% of all Americans are overweight. Millions more are becoming fat everyday. Obviously, other methods aren't working.

Q. Why do other methods fail?

A. Two reasons. First, other methods are unnatural and therefore doomed to fail. They work against human nature. Starvation diets require too much will power and force people to drastically change their eating habits and life style. People love to eat and starvation is sheer torture. No one in his right mind is going to torture himself for very long.

It's the same thing with exercise. They be-past 100 years, we have been adding unnatural synthetic foods to our diets. These unnatural and other additional foods actually prevent the pituitary gland from doing what nature intended it to do — evacuate fat. But you can learn to trigger your pituitary gland to begin evacuating fat.

Q. How can I trigger my pituitary gland?

A. Not by will power, not by concentration, not by starvation, but by eating! Only by eating a scientific combination of everyday foods, can you trigger your pituitary gland to evacuate fat.

You need not drastically alter your eating habits. Q. What are these foods and how much can you eat?

A. These everyday foods are the foods you love: steak, beef, fish, fried chicken, fruits, and vegetables — even desserts like strawberries with whipped cream. And you can eat as often and as much as you wish. Nature's Weight Loss Secret is not a diet. It is a nutrition plan. It works with nature, not against it, and it's 100% safe. It does not require starvation, diet pills, or strenuous and boring exercises. It does not leave you weak and nervous. It makes you feel healthier and more vibrant than ever before. Remember, this weight loss secret was evolved by nature to produce healthy, and powerful hunters.

Q. You said there are two reasons why this secret works. What's the second reason?

A. Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control always succeeds because it gives fast, steady and permanent results.

You start losing weight the first day. You can lose up to 14 lbs. in two weeks. With these kind of results, rather than losing hope, you will be encouraged to lose even more. You will reach your ideal weight and be fat free forever.

At the end of our conversation, I asked Mr. Ridgefield if I could talk with some people who had successfully used the secret. He did better. He introduced me to four people who were going to start the weight loss secret the following Monday.

I followed their progress from day to day and personally watched them strip away their excess pounds. Their success was so amazing, I decided to feature them in my next article in "Total Fitness Today." I had them photographed in the police line-up picture you see here to emphasize the title of my article, "Freedom From Fat: You Needn't Be A Prisoner of Fat Any Longer."

WHAT WILL THE SECRET DO FOR YOU?

By using Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you will make food your ally, not your enemy. This nutrition plan will trigger your pituitary gland and transform your body from a fat producing machine to a fat evacuating system. Your pituitary gland will work safely and naturally to evacuate fat 24 hours a day — even while you sleep.

By learning Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you will:

- Lose all the weight you want, as much as a pound a day, while eating the food you love.
- Lose inches off your waist, hips, thighs, and banish ugly cellulite bumps.
- Never go hungry.
- Increase your energy and vitality.
- Keep the weight off and be fat free forever.

Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control is not yet available in any book store, anywhere in the world. Mr. Ridgefield is currently exploring arrangements with a large East coast publishing firm to have the book published at $12.95. But the book is available right now, through the mail, at a special low price of $6.95. Why?

After I had lost my weight by using the weight loss secret, I was stopped in the hall by the Chairman of the Board of Consumer Publishing, Timothy Voros. He was amazed at my appearance and asked me how I had done it. He too has been overweight all of his life. And Mr. Voros is especially concerned about his weight problem since his family has a past history of heart disease.

Later, during a meeting, Mr. Ridgefield convinced Mr. Voros to try Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control. Mr. Voros lost 22 lbs. in 21 days by using the weight loss secret. He and his family were so grateful that he wanted somehow to return the favor to Mr. Ridgefield. So, Mr. Voros has ordered a small press run of Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control to be printed. He then instructed me to write this article and offer the book to the public directly by mail.

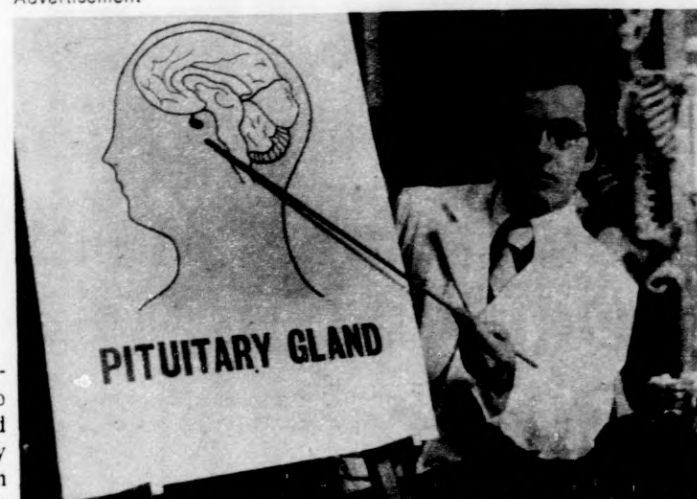

HOW CAN YOU LEARN THE SECRET?

If you wish to learn Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, simply do this: Write "Weight Loss Secret" and your name and address on a piece of paper and send it along with $6.95 in cash, check, or money order. (Make checks payable to Consumer Publishing.) If you have Master Charge, BankAmericard, or American Express, you may charge your purchase by sending the following information: A. Name of card. B. Credit Card number. C. Card expiration date.

Mail your order to: CONSUMER PUBLISHING, Att.: Mr. Timothy Voros, 401 Market Ave., N., Dept. C-45, Canton, Ohio 44702.

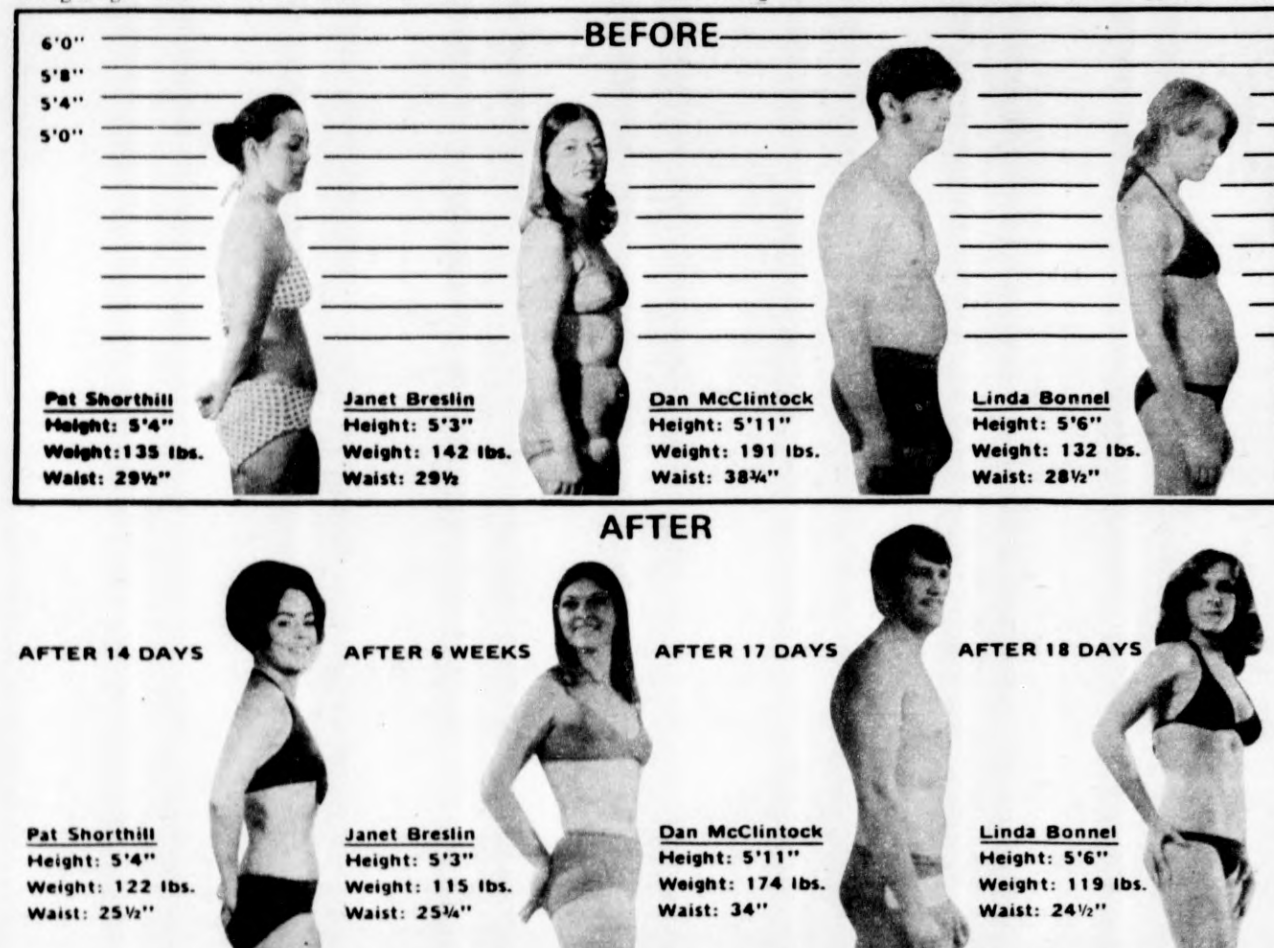

Mr. Voros, as owner of Consumer Publishing, is very selective about the books he publishes and is extremely careful to preserve the fine reputation of the company. So he is personally backing this book with a 100% no risk guarantee. After following the weight loss secret, you must lose all the weight you want, while eating the foods you love. You must feel healthier, happier and look 10 years younger. If this does not happen, just send your book back to Mr. Voros' attention. He will personally see to it that you receive every penny of your money back — no questions asked.

Remember, only a small number of the $6.95 edition of Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control has been printed. To make sure that you get your discount, why not order right now, while you're thinking about it. Because of Mr. Voros' personal guarantee, you can order now, with complete confidence. If you have any questions, feel free to call Mr. Voros at (216) 455-1422. Thank you.

Robert Ridgefield, discoverer of Nature's Weight Loss Secret, points to the gland that will make you thin. Your pituitary gland, weighing a mere 1/60th of an ounce, can command up to one pound of fat (756 x 1/60th of an ounce = one lb.) to leave your body every single day. Since all of us have a pituitary gland, everyone—5 lbs. or 105 lbs. overweight can learn nature's weight loss secret of glandular control. The article below will explain how you can reap the benefits of this amazing scientific breakthrough by losing as much as 14 lbs. in two weeks.

diets ever worked. When I heard that there was a nutrition expert, Robert Ridgefield, right here in my hometown, Canton, Ohio, who claimed that he had developed a weight loss secret which allows anyone to lose weight without starvation, strenuous exercises, pills, or phony gadgets and devices, I decided to investigate.

Because of my previous unsuccessful experience with other weight loss programs, I had developed a "show me" attitude. So, when I went to see Mr. Ridgefield, I demanded proof. I started with tough questions. Instead of arguing with me, he said, "Look, I'll teach you my weight loss secret. You try it and come back in 14 days. I guarantee you will lose all the weight you want, while eating as much as you want." I said, "You'll be sorry, because I consider myself permanently fat — a lost cause. He smiled and said, "Don't worry, this is Nature's Weight Loss Secret and it works for everyone, because it utilizes nature's built-in Fat Evacuator, the pituitary gland and everyone has one."

I returned two weeks later happily admitting that I was wrong. I had lost 14 lbs., 4 inches off my waist, and 3 inches off my thighs. The secret worked. I wanted to know why. Mr. Ridgefield supplied these answers to my questions.

WHY DOES THE SECRET WORK?

Q. Why does the secret work?

A. In order to understand why Nature's Weight Loss Secret works, it is important to understand why other methods fail. For years, Doctors and come monotonous and eventually turn into sheer drudgery. It's easy to find excuses not to do them. So usually they don't get done.

Diet pills are not only unnatural, but they leave you weak, nervous and prone to illness.

The second reason other methods fail is because the results, if any, come too slow. If you don't see results fast, you will lose hope and quit trying to lose weight.

Q. You've told me why others fail. Exactly why does this secret work?

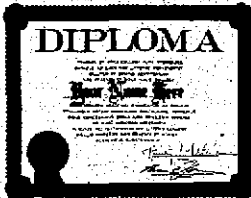

A. There are two reasons why Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control always works. First, just as its name implies, the weight loss secret is natural. It was evolved by nature and has been working for over 2,000,000 years. Allow me to explain. Man has been on earth for about 2 million years. For 99% of this time, he was a roving hunter. He subsisted on a hearty, well-balanced diet of meat, fruit and vegetables. This diet kept him slim, healthy, and alive.

Q. How could eating make him slim?

A. These foods triggered or turned on his pituitary gland, nature's built-in fat evacuator. The pituitary gland evolved in man as a survival mechanism, like a shell of a turtle, or the claws of a cat. Once triggered, the pituitary gland evacuated fat and kept man slim, fast and powerful in order to survive in a hostile world.

Q. Why has the Fat Evacuator stopped working? We still have one don't we?

A. Of course, everyone still has one. Unfortunately, for many, it is not evacuating fat. In the

How to Turn Stress Around— And Make It Work for You

Unless you become a hermit, chances are you'll never totally escape stress. Psychologists Patricia MacDonald and William Johnson of Whitworth College in Spokane have discovered ways to help you cope. They suggest you: 1) Realize that many people create stress for themselves by being unrealistic about the time, strength and ability they have. For example, the idea of having all 28 members of your immediate family in for a holiday dinner may be appealing, but realistically are you and your spouse able to cope with such a situation?

2) Don't feel guilty when you allow for your emotional and physical needs. Say the experts, if you sacrifice the extra sleep, solitude, exercise or artistic expression you crave, you eventually make it easier for tension and anxiety to affect you. 3) Think through your attitude toward change. Does change automatically cause you to feel tense because you assume change means trouble? Adjusting to a new job, to a new neighborhood, to children leaving home for kindergarten or college can be either a problem or an interesting new experience depending on how you look at it. Even if you can't conquer this habit, just realizing that change makes you anxious can be useful. Another Whitworth College psychologist, David Erb, believes stress shouldn't be eliminated. When you're under stress, he says, your senses and mind are geared for action. The trick is to keep your stress at the most productive level and to pace yourself. Just as your body needs rest when doing physical work, your mind and emotions also require rest from pressure in order to achieve. —By Shirley Sloan Fader

head and Ben Lyon.

How Goldwyn, Mayer, Zanuck, Selznick and the rest fell for this unconscious con job can only be explained by a massive social inferiority complex. Hollywood, in the thirties, kissed the feet of the British Empire, with "Gunga Din," "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," "The Charge of the Light Brigade," "Northwest Mounted Police," "King of the Khyber Rifles." As for a movie called "The Sun Never Sets," it was so imperial-jingoistic, even the British felt nauseated.

When the war began in September 1939, the Empire's most influential colony, Hollywood, went to war, too. It produced streams of movies that were pro-British, pro-war and anti-German: "The White Cliffs," "Mrs. Miniver," "Nurse Edith Cavell," "That Hamilton Woman," "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," "Beau Geste" and "Eagle Squadron." In the period between September 1939 and the U.S. entry into the war in December 1941, I cannot think of a single isolationist or pacifist movie out of Hollywood, and only one very covertly anti-British film, "Drums Along the Mohawk." Even when War of Independence themes were touched on, the British were usually called "Hessians," referring to the German mercenaries the British used in the war.

The U.S. was the British Empire's

first important lost colony. Not another was lost for a century and a half, when Ireland finally flew the coop. (In the interim, the Empire had increased to include most of Africa and much of Asia.) Today, Britain has lost the whole bunch and couldn't care less. A century ago, at the height of Britain's glory, a young man labored seven days a week in the mines, a girl seven days a week at the spinning jenny, and they lived on gin. Today the young coal miner and his Lancashire wife leave their color TV sets only when they climb into the car, ferry over to the Continent and drive to Spain for a vacation.

Occasionally, when I find myself in the U.S. in the summer, American friends ask how the British feel when America celebrates July Fourth. The only answer is, they don't feel anything at all. As for Thanksgiving, I doubt if 15 percent of the British people, if polled, would know what the pollster was talking about. In other words, the confident prediction of this writer is that, on the other side of the Atlantic, America's 200th birthday will be almost as much a non-event as, say, the Rose Bowl. British newspapers will be filled with news of the cricket matches against West India. The Queen will send a telegram of congratulations to President Ford, and in both countries, for different reasons, a good time will be had by all, providing the weather holds.

IT'S ONLY AN ANIMAL

Dying in a steel-jaw, leghold trap. An animal that feels pain much like we do. Imagine having your fingers crushed in a car door. Nobody opens the door for 24 hours. That's what happens in a steel-jaw trap. Less than half the states have laws requiring trappers to even check traps every 24 hours. No one has cared much. It's only an animal.

Every winter millions of fox, lynx, raccoons, minks, otters, muskrats, beavers, badgers, bobcats, skunks, and other animals suffer in these primitive traps. Why? Because humans think fur coats are "glamorous and chic." There is nothing glamorous about being clamped in a trap for hours or even days, exposed to the weather, without food or water, in pain and fear, waiting for the trapper and death. Some even chew or wring off their toes or paws to escape. But then, they're only animals.

This trap hasn't changed much since the days early fur traders and mountain men used it to nearly wipe out the beaver in this country. That was well over 100 years ago. Today trapping is a sport. . . a hobby. . . a recreation. Few people trap for survival. The reasons have changed but the trap has not. The pain and suffering it has inflicted on wild animals over the years is impossible to comprehend. Still, little has been done about more humane traps. Again, the victims are only animals.

It is time to change, time to stop making excuses for this needless suffering. It is time to outlaw the steel-jaw trap.

It is the only decent thing to do—for the animals. Please help.

SHIRLEY BASSEY
"The Swiss are sensible"

What's it like being typed the "new Judy Garland?" "Of course I'm flattered by the comparison," Welsh singer Shirley Bassey told FAMILY WEEKLY. "Every female singer dreams of mesmerizing an audience the way Judy Garland did. Most singers want to be great actresses as well. I gave up films some years ago—I was either too light or too dark-skinned for most roles. I'm not sure I'm as much of a show-biz personality as Judy was. I love performing and 'communicating' with an audience, but I live in Switzerland—not only to escape the enormous taxes in England but also to get away from adulating fans and the clannish set of stars who live in England.

Switzerland is not only a beautiful country but a sensible one. You can't make a career out of politics there because terms in office are short and you can't be re-elected. There isn't time to become corrupt. I don't even know the name of the President!"

SEAWORTHY CAMPER
First signs of overpopulation

Camping has become one of America's favorite pastimes in recent years. There are six million recreational vehicles in operation and an estimated 50 million people who go camping. All this interest, however, has had one serious side-effect—campsites are terribly overcrowded, thereby diminishing a camper's enjoyment and dreams of privacy. So designer-engineer Richard Reed set out to create a new way to use campers. Since people naturally head for water spots, says Reed, it seemed logical to invent a way they could use their vehicles as houseboats. The solution to the problem became Camp-A-Float, now available for rent at several wilderness lake sites. The amazing amphibious transformation is possible within 15 minutes, claims Reed, simply by driving the camping vehicle on board his specially designed five-ton cruiser, where it's mechanically positioned and secured.

Was the publisher of the Washington Post really a shy girl? "Perhaps it is not surprising that Katharine Graham grew up less than aggressively self-confident, being a child of two such formidable parents as Eugene and Agnes Meyer. Eugene had made millions on Wall Street and then de-

Katharine Graham voted years to government service. But his fame rests largely on the fact that he transformed the Washington Post, which he acquired in 1933, from an unimpressive scandal sheet. Agnes was a dynamo of wit, charm, beauty, intelligence and social commitment. She has been likened to a galleon in full sail, all guns firing; but warmth and mothering were in short supply. All the Meyer children (there were five) were expected to be brilliant, charming, witty and slightly eccentric. Kay, growing up, believed that she alone of the children was failing to achieve these goals. She was the quietest, perhaps even rather stolid. She did not join the great wide-ranging intellectual battles; the showing off, the singing, that characterized the Meyer table. Katharine Graham, now chairman of the Washington Post Co., today admits that for years she thought of herself as 'a Mongolian.' She has referred to her younger self as a peasant in almost every interview she has given. Of course, peasants are strong and durable, and it was Kay who would end up the only Meyer child of large accomplishment and influence." From "The Women of Watergate" (Stein and Day, $8.95), by Madeleine Edmondson and Alden Duer Cohen.

ARMOUR'S ARMOUR

By Richard Armour

SPEAK UP!

I'm growing hard of hearing,
Or so I'm told now often.
But I find it more cheering
To think they're speaking softer.

I hear as well as ever,
Though words come through a jumble.
It's just too bad, however,
So many have to mumble.

No hearing aid I'm seeking,
To vibrate on a bone.

Let others, who are speaking,
Go get a megaphone.

A young wife took one of her husband's white shirts to the laundry to see about the removal of an ugly red stain from the left pocket, where a ball-point pen had leaked. The laundryman studied the sinister smear a moment, then said quietly: "Nice shot, lady."

One of the fringe benefits of having twins is the delightful things other children say about them. One little girl, who appeared to be four or five, walked around the stroller looking our identical boys over carefully. Then she asked, "Which is the real one?"

The proud smoke

Product of a proud land.

Tobacco. It's as proud a part of the American tradition as Niagara Falls. At Liggett & Myers, we've made tobacco into a cigarette worthy of that tradition. The rich, mellow, distinctively smooth L&M. Smoke it proudly.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

SHIRLEY BASSEY
"The Swiss are sensible"

What's it like being typed the "new Judy Garland?" "Of course I'm flattered by the comparison," Welsh singer Shirley Bassey told FAMILY WEEKLY. "Every female singer dreams of mesmerizing an audience the way Judy Garland did. Most singers want to be great actresses as well. I gave up films some years ago—I was either too light or too dark-skinned for most roles. I'm not sure I'm as much of a show-biz personality as Judy was. I love performing and 'communicating' with an audience, but I live in Switzerland—not only to escape the enormous taxes in England but also to get away from adulating fans and the clannish set of stars who live in England.

Switzerland is not only a beautiful country but a sensible one. You can't make a career out of politics there because terms in office are short and you can't be re-elected. There isn't time to become corrupt. I don't even know the name of the President!"

SEAWORTHY CAMPERS
First signs of overpopulation

Camping has become one of America's favorite pastimes in recent years. There are six million recreational vehicles in operation and an estimated 50 million people who go camping. All this interest, however, has had one serious side-effect—campsites are terribly overcrowded, thereby diminishing a camper's enjoyment and dreams of privacy. So designer-engineer Richard Reed set out to create a new way to use campers. Since people naturally head for water spots, says Reed, it seemed logical to invent a way they could use their vehicles as houseboats. The solution to the problem became Camp-A-Float, now available for rent at several wilderness lake sites. The amazing amphibious transformation is possible within 15 minutes, claims Reed, simply by driving the camping vehicle on board his specially designed five-ton cruiser, where it's mechanically positioned and secured.

Was the publisher of the Washington Post really a shy girl? "Perhaps it is not surprising that Katharine Graham grew up less than aggressively self-confident, being a child of two such formidable parents as Eugene and Agnes Meyer. Eugene had made millions on Wall Street and then devoted years to government service. But his fame rests largely on the fact that he transformed the Washington Post, which he acquired in 1933, from an unimpressive scandal sheet. Agnes was a dynamo of wit, charm, beauty, intelligence and social commitment. She has been likened to a galleon in full sail, all guns firing; but warmth and mothering were in short supply. All the Meyer children (there were five) were expected to be brilliant, charming, witty and slightly eccentric. Kay, growing up, believed that she alone of the children was failing to achieve these goals. She was the quietest, perhaps even rather stolid. She did not join the great wide-ranging intellectual battles; the showing off, the singing, that characterized the Meyer table. Katharine Graham, now chairman of the Washington Post Co., today admits that for years she thought of herself as 'a Mongolian.' She has referred to her younger self as a peasant in almost every interview she has given. Of course, peasants are strong and durable, and it was Kay who would end up the only Meyer child of large accomplishment and influence." From "The Women of Watergate" (Stein and Day, $8.95), by Madeleine Edmondson and Alden Duer Cohen.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY By Richard Armour

SPEAK UP!

I'm growing hard of hearing,
Or so I'm told now after.
But I find it more cheering
To think they're speaking softer.

I hear as well as ever,
Though words come through a jumble.
It's just too bad, however,
So many have to mumble.

No hearing aid I'm seeking,
To vibrate on a bone.

Let others, who are speaking,
Go get a megaphone.

A young wife took one of her husband's white shirts to the laundry to see about the removal of an ugly red stain from the left pocket, where a ball-point pen had leaked. The laundryman studied the sinister smear a moment, then said quietly: "Nice shot, lady."

When the boss tells a joke, he who laughs, lasts.—Frank Tyger

A psychiatrist was amazed to see a man enter his office with a large chicken perched on his head.

"Well, Sir," said the doctor, "it looks as though you need help."

"I do, I do . . . Get me down from here!" screamed the chicken.

—Samuel J. Stannard

Imagination is something that sits up with parents while the children are out late.—Thomas LaMance

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Observation: A man who won't let his wife work is probably married to a woman who doesn't want to.
